The Textile Workers Will Adopt a New Name

Reports of Committees Read at This Morning's Convention of the U. T. W.—Standing Committees Appointed

The report of the afternoon session of the United Textile Workers' convention yesterday, was given out at 5 o'clock, after the session closed.

The principal business was the reading of the reports of the president and secretary and that of James H. Donnelly, of Philadelphia, an organizer appointed two months ago by the A. F. of L., to work in Pennsylvania. Formerly President Golden was the only organizer and the necessity of more work in this line becoming imperative Mr. Donnelly was appointed two months ago to work in Pennsylvania, while President Golden spent some time assisting them. Mr. Donnelly gave a highly encouraging report, which was supplemented by another from Mr. Golden.

After these reports had been accepted the matter was opened to discussion and it was found that there was a strong sentiment in favor of an aggressive campaign of organization. It was the sentiment that wages are too low and the hours too long in the textile industry and that better conditions for the operative must be had by raising the price of the commodity if necessary. To bring about these better conditions, general organization must first prevail.

After the discussion the standing committees were appointed and the session adjourned an hour earlier to enable the committees, particularly the committee on resolutions to get to work and all resolutions must be in by five o'clock tonight.

An invitation was received from the United Textile unions of Lawrence asking the delegates to partake of supper in Loomfixers' hall in Lawrence tonight. A special car will leave at 6.30 and will return at midnight.

The standing committees appointed were as follows:

Committee on president's report—Michael Duggan, Lowell; Hella Sullivan, Derby, Conn.; Maurice Noonan, Lawrence; Thomas Finn, Passaic, N. J.; Walter McCann, Lawrence.

Secretary's report—Thomas Taylor, Fall River; John W. Battey, Dover, Herbert S. Whiteman, Jamestown, N. Y.; Annie McMullen, Lowell; William Swan Adams.

Treasurer's report—James Humphreys, Fall River; Mary Burke, Dover; Henry Joynt, Fall River; Thomas Regan, Lowell; George Armrod, Fall River.

Executive council committee—H. C. Barr, Paterson, N. J.; Charles Sykes,

SECRETARY HIBBERT.

Fall River; Michael McCarthy, Lawrence; Thomas Kellher, New Bedford; Alfred Moss, New Bedford.

Organization committee—James H. Donnelly, Philadelphia; John Meagher, Lawrence; Joseph Handford, New Bedford; Jeremiah Sullivan and John Joynt, Fall River.

Committee on resolutions—James Tansey, Fall River; John Hannigan, New Bedford; Michael White, Dover; Charles Milyos, Amsterdam; A. J. Perreault, Newmarket, N. H.

Labels and boycotts committee—Joseph G. Jackson and Michael Murphy, Fall River; Joseph Lofthouse, Lawrence; Mack Fisher, Waltham; Roscoe Willis Manchester, N. H.

Grievance committee—Thomas O'Donnell and Alfred Moss, Fall River; Edward Thornton, Philadelphia; William Kennedy, Lawrence; Joseph Ashton, Manchester; Nellie McCabe.

Committee on rules and order of business—Samuel Ross, New Bedford; John Kyle, Fall River; Michael Trainor, Dover; Cecilia Buckley, Derby; Patrick Quinlan, Lawrence.

Local unions—Lackwell McGough, Fall River; S. J. Bernard, Lawrence,

PRESIDENT JAMES GOLDEN, United Textile Workers.

The morning session of the convention of the United Textile Workers of America opened at 9 o'clock this morning in Trades & Labor hall with a full attendance of delegates and President Golden in the chair.

The morning session was devoted to the reports of the different committees. The committee on president's report recommended that the subject matter be referred to the several committees. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were accepted and their recommendations adopted.

The committee on organization made a partial report which was accepted and the committee announced that it was not ready to report as yet. On the recommendation of the committee on rules and orders last year's rules were adopted for this convention.

The committee on boycotts and labels reported the recommendation that the secretary from time to time notify the local unions of any boycotts declared by the American Federation of Labor and that the label of the U. T. W. be advertised more extensively and that funds be furnished for the same. That part of the report referring to the label was adopted but the part which referred to the boycott was sent back to the committee with the request that they change the name "boycott" and adopt some other term synonymous thereto.

The grievance committee in the absence of the president, who had been called to Boston, reported that there were no grievances before the committee except that of the New Bedford weavers' union. There was a strong sentiment in the convention to the effect that inasmuch as the New Bedford weavers had seceded from the U. T. W., they had no standing in that body and couldn't be considered, but the convention voted to table the whole matter until the president of the grievance committee, who is familiar with the trouble in New Bedford, can be present and explain the situation. He was expected back for the afternoon session.

The matter of sending a special organizer to Lawrence was tabled until this afternoon.

One of the lady delegates to the convention reported that she had lost a gold watch between the Weavers' hall the Bon Marche and the Massachusetts mills. The finder is requested to leave the same at the Trades and Labor hall, 22 Middle street.

The convention adjourned at noon until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

BRILLIANT WEDDING

OF JOHN A. COLLINS AND MISS KATHERINE T. KENNEY.

One of the prettiest weddings that has been held in this city for a long time took place at St. Michael's church this morning when Miss Katherine T. Kenney and Mr. John A. Collins were united in marriage.

The bride is the well known Central street dressmaker and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kenney of 204 Ludlam street. She is a popular young lady and prominent in the work of St. Michael's parish.

Mr. Collins, formerly of Lawrence, though of late a resident of this city, is agent of the American Express company at the Northern station, and is well known both in this city and Lawrence.

The wedding took place this morning at a nuptial mass which was held at St. Michael's church at 9 o'clock. Owing to the popularity of the couple and the number of invitations sent out, there was a very large attendance, the beautiful edifice being filled with people long before the service started.

Promptly at 9 o'clock the bride, accompanied by her sister, entered the church, and a few seconds later the groom, accompanied by his brother, entered and the bridal party marched down the main aisle to the sanctuary rail. They then mounted the steps to the altar, the bride and bridesmaid occupying seats on the gospel side, while the groom and best man occupied seats on the epistle side of the altar.

The bride was becomingly attired in white chiffon crepe de chene over white silk, the gown being trimmed with duchess and rose point lace, and the bodice and skirt was accordion plaited. She also wore a white picture hat.

The bridesmaid, Miss Mary A. Kenney, a sister of the bride, wore white liberty silk, trimmed with renaissance lace, with a sash and train. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white chrysanthemums and wore a white picture hat. M. Collins was accompanied by his brother, William C. Collins, of Lawrence.

The mass was celebrated by Rev. Thos. J. Lee of Newton, a cousin of the bride, while the marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles A. Driscoll, O. S. A., of St. Lawrence's church of Lawrence, the latter being an uncle of the groom. Seated in the sanctuary were Rev. John J. Shaw, pastor of St. Michael's church, and Rev. Thomas Fields, O. S. A., of Lawrence.

The choir was augmented for the occasion and was under the direction of Mr. James A. Murphy. The quartet, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Murphy, Mr. Thomas P. Boulger and Miss Nano M. Gallagher, was present and Miss Carolyn A. White presided at the organ.

As the bridal party entered the church Miss White rendered Lohengrin's wedding march and as the party was leaving she played Mendelssohn's march. During the service she played Edwin H. Lemare's "Andantino."

The following was the musical program carried out:

Bridal chorus (Lohengrin).....Wagner
Quartet.

Salve Regina .....Dudley Buck
Mr. Boulger.

O Perfect Love .....Barnby
Quartet.

Ave Marie ..... Abt
Mrs. Mabel Ware-Murphy.

O Salutaris ..... Rossini
Miss Gallagher.

The Voice That Breathes O'er Eden. Warren
Quartet.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the happy couple repaired to the home of the bride's parents, 204 Ludlam street, where a reception was held and a wedding repast served. Among those present at the reception were prominent people of this city as well as of Nashua, Lawrence, Haverhill, Boston, Newton Centre and Franklin, Mass.

The ushers at the church and house were Alderman James J. Gallagher, Purchasing Agent James E. Donnelly and Mr. Walter H. Hickey of this city and City Treasurer Daniel F. Murphy of Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins will leave this city tonight on an extended wedding tour.

The interior of the house was decorated with palms and chrysanthemums, the work being done by McManmon. There was a vast array of most beautiful presents, showing at once the popularity of the happy couple and the large number of their friends.

CHENEY--HAYES

Two Councilmen Entertained Gallery

COSGROVE OBJECTS TO BORROWING

School House Order Remains on the Table

Aside from a clash of harmless words between Councilman Cheney and J. J. Hayes there was little of an exciting nature to the meeting of the common council last evening.

Councilman Cosgrove had a few words to say on the borrowing habit and the pernicious practice of piecing out appropriations year in and year out.

The meeting was called to order at 9 o'clock and a motion to ballot for a member of the water board was killed without ceremony.

A motion to take from the table the $40,000 order for a new school in Ennell street was also defeated.

Several minor petitions were referred to the proper committees. A second motion to take up the Ennell street school order was defeated.

The order for a $500 bell in the Middlesex Village school caused Councilman Cosgrove to remark that

"He who goes a borrowing
Goes a sorrowing."

"This is another order to borrow money," he said, "and I have noticed that our loads of people have disposed of their property and left the city because of this borrowing and its attendant tax rate. It seems to me late in the year to ask for this bell."

Councilman Mayberry said that the bell was needed, because the children did not know, in stormy weather, when there was to be no session of the school.

Councilman Peterson said that the section of the city was an outlying one, and there was no alarm in case of fire. The bell would serve a double purpose, and the expenditur ewas warranted.

After further discussion the order was adopted by a vote of 23 to 3.

The $5000 order for the pauper department and for the heating of city hall and Memorial building, which had passed the upper branch, then came up.

Councilman Cosgrove remarked: "Early in the year the committee on appropriations scaled down estimates. What excuse is there now for piecing out these two appropriations?"

Councilman Stott of the appropriations committee stated that several departments were yet to be around to piece out their appropriations.

Councilman Dodge said that there is something radically wrong in the system at city hall. "The work of the committee on appropriations goes for nothing," he said. "They decide what money shall be spent, and the heads of departments go ahead as they see fit, and come in for more money when their money is spent. This has been going on for years, and here is a fresh example of it."

But the order was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Councilman J. J. Hayes moved for the third time that the $40,000 school house order be taken up and once more it was defeated.

A motion to elect a member of the water board was lost, 13 to 12.

The order for a $5400 loan to pay the Richardson bill for legal services to the city, was adopted in concurrence.

Councilman Quinn introduced the annual order requesting the street committee to fix Maiden lane. Mayors and city councils have urged the matter before, only to run up against legal obstructions.

Councilman J. J. Hayes spoke warmly in favor of the order and thanked the ward two man for introducing it.

The order was adopted.

On the order calling for an appropriation for grade crossings Councilman Cheney moved that the messenger be sent for the chairman to give information in the matter.

The motion prevailed, but Mr. Hayes of ward one upset it by giving notice of reconsideration of the vote at the next meeting.

Then Councilman Cheney started to object, saying: "Mr. Chairman—"

"I rise to a point of order," objected Councilman Hayes, "There's no motion pending."

"I rise on a question of information" said Mr. Cheney.

"He can't," retorted Mr. Hayes.

"I don't expect to get it from the gentleman from ward one," replied Mr. Cheney.

The chairman called to order but the two men continued to argue to the great amusement of the gallery and in the midst of the fun Councilman Barry slipped in a motion to adjourn and it prevailed.

AIKEN ST. BRIDGE

Superintendent Farnham Will Repair it Thoroughly

Is Tired Waiting for the City Council and Will Give the City Practically a New Bridge Out of His Regular Appropriation

The Aiken street bridge will be repaved at once, and thoroughly repaired whether the city council votes the money for it or not.

Once more Acting Supt. of Streets Farnham has demonstrated his superior fitness for the position thrust upon him for he has tired of waiting for delinquent common council to squabble over the different kinds of pavement in the market and is going ahead at once to repair Aiken street bridge out of the regular street appropriation.

This morning Supt. Farnham sent in a requisition to Purchasing Agent Donnelly for 2650 yards of wooden block paving, to be used on the Aiken street bridge.

The requisition caused some surprise as a joint order for $8000 for that purpose is now held up in the city council.

When seen by a reporter of The Sun in relation to the matter, Supt. Farnham said:

"Yes, I have put in the requisition for the block paving and will start at once to give the Aiken street bridge a thorough overhauling, whether the city council votes the money for it or not. If they do it will come in handy. If not I shall do the work out of the regular street appropriation. The Aiken street bridge is badly in need of repair and the time to repair it is right off now. Hence I am starting at once out of my own appropriation. These paving blocks that I am going to put down will last for years and I'm going to overhaul that old bridge so that it will need no more repairs for the next 10 or 15 years. We will do one half of the street at a time, so as not to close the bridge to travel and will begin by ripping up the flooring and strengthening the underlayings if they need it. The bridge demands immediate attention and it is going to get it. It has been the policy of this department at times in the past to depend on the city council to vote money for new work or else not to do the work, but as long as I have sufficient money in my regular appropriation I shall do the work that is badly needed without waiting for any belated assistance from the city council."

HURLED A LAMP

Woman Was Burned to Death

YOUNG WIFE INJURED BY SLIGHTING REMARK

Victim of Her Fury Perished in Agony

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—Her clothing set afire by a lighted lamp dashed into her face by Annie Martin, a young matron living at No. 247 East Sixty-second street a woman whose name has not yet been learned, was burned to death last night

Failing at the end of the hall through which she had run screaming in agony the woman lay until the flames had set fire to the doors and other woodwork near her, imperilling a number of fam[illegible] of the building. When found the dead woman lay in a contorted, charred heap in the hall, her clothing burned completely from her body. The pitiably expressive position of her hands, raised as though to ward off the flames, told of the cruelty of her death.

The tragedy resulted from a quarrel between the two women over the respective merits of their husbands.

Annie Martin, who is only twenty-two years of age, admitted that she had flung the lamp in the other woman's face but for a time absolutely refused to give the police any other information. She would not give the name of the woman who had been calling upon her, and would make no statement which would in any way lead to an identification.

HER HAT AND CAPE REMAINED.

In the apartments of Mrs. Martin were found the hat and cape of the dead woman and a brass tagged door key, of the sort used in hotels, with the number "19" stamped upon.

According to the story told by Mrs Martin the unknown woman called upon her early in the evening. She had taken off her outer wraps, and they were chatting amiably together when the conversation turned upon the qualities of their husbands. The caller highly praised her own husband for his many excellent characteristics, and is said to have spoken disparingly of the husband of Mrs. Martin.

At this Mrs. Martin, according to her own admission, sprang to her feet in a frenzy of rage and, seizing the lamp on the table hurled it. The lamp struck the unfortunate woman squarely in the face breaking into fragments and deluging her clothes with burning oil.

With a shriek of agony the tortured woman sprang to her feet and blindly groped her way to the door and into the hall. Behind her in the room in which the dramatic incident had occurred, a pool of oil fanned into flame and spread gradually over the floor, while dazed and horror stricken Mrs. Martin sat and watched, overwhelmed by the horror of her act and unable to move from shee terror.

FELL IN A BLAZING HEAP.

Through the hall, her garments blazing, ran the victim of Mrs. Martin's in sane rage. Three frightful shrieks rang through the building and then was heard only a gasping groan as the flames were inhaled into the lungs. Through the hall the woman ran, blind and unable to find the stairs, falling finally at the door of Mrs. Kate Gee, who occupies the front apartment on the second floor. Here she dropped in a huddled heap, the flames leaping upward from her body and eating quickly into the woodwork of the doorway.

The woman's body was soon found in the hallway, charred and burned.

The police then burst into the apartments of Mrs. Martin. They found the room in flames and the horror-stricken woman sitting in a corner of the room, apparently unable to move. She was dragged out while the firemen were at work putting out the fire.

DID NOT LOOK THE PART.

She is a young woman of fair features and refinement, but appeared crushed beneath the horror of the frightful death she had caused. She was placed under arrest, and at the police station told of the conversation that had led to her act. She would tell nothing more than this.

HABEAS CORPUS

PALMER SEEKS RELEASE FROM INSANE HOSPITAL.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 18.—The hearing on the petition of Amos D. Palmer for a writ of habeas corpus to bring about his release from the Butler insane hospital, where he was placed after his acquittal by reason of insanity of the murder of his wife, was resumed in the supreme court here today. Mr. George C. Jelly of Boston, Dr. Walter Channing of Brookline, Mass., all stated that they believed Palmer now a sane man, the former two declaring that while he is what might be termed a high grade imbecile, he would not in their opinion be dangerous if released from restraint. The witnesses explained the different grades of imbecility and insanity at length.

Amos D. Palmer, the petitioner, next was called to the stand and gave an account of his life before and after his marriage to Mrs. Addie N. Bliss with whom he lived for eight years until the homicide occurred. Nothing regarding the murder of Mrs. Palmer was brought out in the testimony. In reply to questions, witness stated he did not believe himself to be a monomaniac. An account of his life at the hospital followed, the point being to show his improved mental condition. He gave a list of books which he had read and told of how his restraint had become gradually less as his mental condition improved.

Palmer was on the stand when recess for luncheon was taken until two o'clock.

GRAND REBEKAHS' CONVENTION.

Arrangements were made for a reception to the Rebekahs by local members from 4 to 6.30 p.m., and for the exemplification of the Rebekah degree this evening.

The Grand lodge will convene at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning with Grand Master William B. Littlefield of North Berwick presiding. The session of the Grand encampment will begin tomorrow evening.

Grand Patriarch Charles D. Page of this city will preside.

LIVELY SCENES

At Opening of French Parliament

PARIS, Oct. 18.—Parliament reassembled today in extraordinary session. Crowds filled the galleries and lobbies of the chamber of deputies anticipating that the opening debate growing out of the severance of diplomatic relations between France and the Vatican would be interesting. A lively incident occurred in the corridors between M. Pugliesi-Conto (republican) and M. Celstin Boes, a late Bonapartist condidate. The latter hissed M. Pugliesti-Conto, who responded with blows from his umbrella. The parties were eventually separated.

M. Brisson presided in the chamber, where many interpolations were presented. Premier Combes, in behalf of the ministery, proposed that the chamber first discuss the interpolations relative to the rupture with Rome and thereafter the Marseilles strike and the charges against the administration of the war office. The proposal brought on a spirited controversy.

ARGUMENTS MADE

WEINSEIMER CASE IS NEARLY ENDED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—In the trial of Philip Weinseimer, former president of the building trades alliance, on the charge of extortion, the cross-examination of Weinseimer was concluded today and Geo. F. Essig, the complainant's witness, was recalled to the stand to testify regarding several matters of which Weinseimer had spoken. This closed the testimony and the closing addresses were then delivered.

BRYAN'S SPEECH

MANY STUDENTS HEARD THE FORMER CANDIDATE.

GREEN CASTLE, Ind., Oct. 18—Wm. J. Bryan made his first speech today at a large meeting here which was attended by many students of Depauw university. His audience here was the most responsive he has met on the Indiana trip. He said Indiana needed democracy and the democracy of the nation needed Indiana. He again opposed a large standing army. Speaking of what he called the republican argument that the silver and gold democrats could help Bryan by voting against Judge Parker, Mr. Bryan said:

"If you want to see how the republicans want to help me, just see how they helped me in the last two campaigns. They bought every vote that could be bought; they coerced every vote that could be coerced and they misrepresented every argument that could be made in the country."

DIED FOR LOVE

MAN FOLLOWED EXAMPLE OF HIS FIANCEE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Ernest Skinner, a youth of 66 Cooper street, Brooklyn, committed suicide late on Sunday night by swallowing carbolic acid. He had been despondent since last June, when Lillian Wilson of 201 Hull street, a young woman with whom he was in love, ended her life. She was the only daughter of a widow and it was stated that she killed herself because she had lost her employment.

Skinner stepped into a room where his brother and mother were in conversation and, tossing a bottle into her lap, said: "I have done it, mother. I have followed in Lillian's footsteps."

JAPANESE ATTACK WAS REPULSED

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 18.—The general staff has received the following dispatch from Gen. Sakharoff dated today:

"The Russians repulsed a Japanese attack on their right wing during the night of October 17 and seized the village of Shalanditzy, on the bank of the Shakhe river and east of Shakhe. The enemy strongly bombarded and captured the village but did not advance to the attack on Lone Tree hill, now called Putiloff hill.

The work of burying the dead proceeded all night long.

Military honors were paid to the Japanese dead.

"A considerable concentration of the enemy's troops has been observed against our center. There was no fighting yesterday on our left flank."

LITTLE PROGRESS IN NEGOTIATIONS

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The Anglo-Russian negotiations on the subject of contraband of war, are making little progress, judging from the correspondence of the foreign office with a steamship company trading with the far east. The latter before accepting consignments of locomotives, fish plates, etc., to Japanese railway company's and raw cotton for consignees in Japan asked the foreign office if this class of cargo could safely be accepted. Foreign Secretary Lansdowne made the two replies, on October 10 and October 14. He said that the negotiations with Russia which were still proceeding had only resulted thus far in the admission of the principle that rice and provisions were conditionally contraband and therefore he could not undertake to say that vessels carrying a cargo of the nature indicated would be immune from capture.

HEROIC ATTACK MADE BY RUSSIANS

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 18, 2.30—There was no fighting on the Russian left yesterday and the Japanese operations on the extreme right, evidently intended to cut the railroad below the Hun river have failed the Japs being unable to get beyond Sinchih two miles west of the Shakhe river station. Field Marshal Oyama seems to be massing troops against the Russian centre and the war office here expects that he will make a desperate effort tonight or tomorrow to retake the two vital positions. The general staff believes that the storming of Lone Tree Hill, for valor and slaughter will occupy a place by itself in military annals. Kuropatkin under whose eye the assault was made, re-christened it Putiloff Hill, in honor of the man who led the attack at the head of the second brigade of the East Siberian rifle division and who was subsequently decorated on the field with the St George's cross. The hill is a precipitous, rocky height and although the Japanese had occupied it only a short time they had thrown up very strong defences. The river running at its foot increased the difficulty of the task but it was scaled and carried successfully against the unprecedented opposition.

FIERCE ATTACK REPULSED BY JAPS

TOKIO, Oct. 18, 3.30 p. m.—The Russians fiercely assaulted Gen. Oku and attacked Gens. Nodzu and Kuroki on Monday night but were everywhere repulsed with heavy losses.

ENCOURAGING NEWS FROM THE FRONT

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 18.—1.40 p.m.—This is the patron saint day, of the heir to the throne as well as the fiftieth anniversary of the bombardment and siege of Sebastopol and it had been hoped to signalize it by the announcement of a victory for Kuropatkin and at the same time announce the definite departure for the far east of the Baltic fleet, which is now believed to be on its long voyage. But the bad news from the theatre of war has caused a miscarriage of all the plans and only the ghost of a holiday remained. The city is decorated with flags but in view of the tremendous loss of life below Mukden the people have no heart for merrymaking. Besides the day was cold and dreary. The emperor marked the day by appointing his youthful heir chief of the cadet corps, and by a Ukase pensioning the survivors, widows, and orphans of the Turkish-Russian war and promoting all the retired captains of the Turkish-Russian war to the rank of lieut. colonels. In the afternoon, the crowds displayed more buoyancy on the strength of special dispatches printed in the afternoon papers heralding the Russian victory at Lone Tree Hill, and declaring that the Russinn army is advancing and capturing many guns.

SENATOR FAIRBANKS

GIVEN A CORDIAL GREETING IN PITTSFIELD.

PITTSFIELD, Oct. 18—When the train bearing Senator Fairbanks reached the city at 11 o'clock today the candidate, in accordance with a plan hurriedly arranged by telegraph, stepped to the station platform where he was greeted by a crowd of several hundred people. Mr. Fairbanks made a brief address in which he thanked the people for their greeting and expressed the opinion that the people of the country will not vote to return to the business depression of the last democratic administration.

The feature of the reception was the greeting extended to Mr. Fairbanks by Captain Jonathan North, 92 years old.

Mr. North said that he had voted the republican ticket from the time the party was organized and Mr. Fairbanks replied:

"No matter how long you live, you will always find the republican party adhering to the principles for which Mr. Lincoln stood."

As the train passed through the suburbs of the city, the employes of the Stanley Electric Mfg. Co., turned out en-masse to cheer the candidate who stood upon the rear platform of the train.

FAMOUS TROTTERS

WILL MEET FOR THE MEMPHIS GOLD CUP.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 18.—The fourth annual meeting of the Memphis Trotting association will begin today at Billings Park. Ideal weather prevails and the track is in perfect condition. The two famous trotters, Major Delmar and Lou Dillon, are named to star in today's feature contest, the Memphis Gold Cup, valued at $5000. These two horses met in the same event last year, and the race was won in straight heats by Lou Dillon.

C. K. G. Billings, who will drive Lou Dillon, said today he believed the winner would be rewarded with the record of the fastest mile ever trotted in harness.

E. E. Smathers of New York, owner of Major Delmar, expressed himself as satisfied with the track conditions. The first heat for the cup will be trotted at about 3.30 o'clock.

WITHOUT BAIL

BOLES IS HELD FOR A HEARING.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Murder in the first degree was the charge preferred against Henry F. Boles, the Brookline laborer who killed his wife and Patrolman McMurray last night, when he was brought into the Brookline police court today for arraignment. He offered a plea of guilty when the charge was read, but such a plea not being permitted in a capital case, a plea of not guilty was registered in the records. After a conference between counsel for Boles and the court, the defendant was held without bail for a hearing next Saturday. Boles was committed to the house of correction.

CASE POSTPONED

H., Oct. 18.—The Mary Burns will case which commenced in the probate court in this city yesterday was today postponed indefinitely by agreement of counsel on both sides, one of the jurors having expressed an opinion on the case. The appellee is Rev. Philip J. O'Donnell of Boston, the executor, and the appellant, Mary A. McCabe of San Francisco, a cousin of the deceased. The amount involved is estimated at $28,518, the major part being devoted to charities. The plaintiff alleges undue influence.

MIKE SLATTERY

ONCE FAMOUS BASEBALL IDOL IS DEAD.

Slattery acquired fame in the National and New England leagues and in minor bodies.

He made such a record that several clubs of the National league sought him. He finally signed with New York and was in the outfield with Gore and men of his type. After his services with New York, Slattery signed with the Cincinnati Reds, later returning to the New York team.

The presentation speech was made by Francis Loring of New York city to which Governor John G. Brady of Alaska responded.

FUNERALS STOPPED

CORONER HEARD THAT BODIES WERE ROBBED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Suspecting that Charles Pfefferman and Cora Kipling, whose bodies were found on Sunday in the Pfefferman flat at No. 403 East Seventy-eighth street on Sunday, might have been murdered and then robbed, Coroner Jackson yesterday revoked the burial permits and ordered an autopsy.

Mrs. Pfefferman, the widow, who was ready to bury her husband's body, protested vigorously and was reinforced in her fight to prevent it from being taken to the morgue by numerous relatives.

Mrs. Pfefferman declared that a $200 diamond pin, a $150 gold watch, and a $50 turquoise and diamond pin had disappeared from the dead man's person. She also insisted that he always had large sums of money with him, although but $1.35 was found in his pockets. This statement, added to that of John Oakford, Cora Kipling's husband, charging that several valuable pieces of jewelry she wore were missing, strengthens the theory that the pair were murdered.

Dr. O'Hanlon, in a cursory examination, found three wounds in the woman's head and one in the right temple of the man.

Mrs. Pfefferman returned unexpectedly to her home at 1 o'clock Sunday morning. She stated to Coroner Jackson that she left her flat at 7.45 Saturday night, carrying her parrot, which she carried to John McGovern, at No. 1415 Lexington avenue, and later went to the home of Mrs. Rotthoff, in Hoboken, where she intended to remain until Monday after breakfast. She declared that she had not heard of the death of her husband, yet volunteered no explanation why she had left her friend's house at midnight, with young Mr. Rotthoff, appearing at her home at 1 in the morning. She also denied that the veiled woman who demanded the body of her husband at 6 o'clock on Sunday was her agent, and professed not to know who the woman was.

It was pointed out by the coroner that in spite of the fact that the man and wife had been ordered out of the house and were to move on Monday, she had gone away intending to remain all day Sunday. It is known that none of the belongings of the family had been packed for removal. These things are strange features merely, and no suspicion attaches to the wife. But Coroner Jackson asserts that his duty, in view of the many conflicting statements, is to investigate thoroughly.

UNBIDDEN GUEST

HAD THE BRIDEGROOM PLACED UNDER ARREST.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—Wedded but a single day, Castante Terrokowich and his bride sat in the Yorkville Court yesterday, realizing that to entertain an unbidden guest is not always to entertain "an angel unawares." They entertained such a guest in the person of William Pierz, of No. 433 Sixth street. Hence their appearance in the police court, Terrokowich as a prisoner accused of stealing Pierz's pin, and his pretty bride as a sympathizer.

Incidentally Pierz, who was also in court, had many marks on his person as a proof that the way of the "Butter-in" as the magistrate called him, at wedding festivities is not paved with ease, especially when he insists on kissing the prettiest bridesmaid in the place against her will.

Terrokowich and Miss Annie Lucho were wedded on Sunday afternoon at the home of the bride, No. 612 East Twelfth street Terrokowich had furnished a cozy home at No. 128 Grand street, but before going thither a wedding dance was to be celebrated in the hall at No. 193 Second avenue.

The dance was in full swing when Pierz, who is described by those who know him as "a spieler," entered the hall. He announced that he had come unbidden, but that weddings appealed to him, and he couldn't help it. He was welcomed, and had a jolly time until he was accused by Miss Bertha Doutsch, a pretty bridesmaid of having tried to kiss her. Then threescore of her friends jumped on him and beat him until his shrieks attracted a policeman.

Then Pierz accused the bridegroom of stealing his scarfpin. Magistrate Ommen discharged Terrokowich, and lectured Pierz for going where he was uninvited.

$25,000 FEE

DEMANDED BY WIDOW OF RICE'S PHYSICIAN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—Mrs. Sallie A. Curry demands $25,000 as a fee said to have been due her late husband for medical service to William M. Rice, the Texas millionaire, for whose death Lawyer Patrick is now in Sing Sing under sentence of death.

As the widow of the late Dr. Walker Curry and administrator of his estate she is suing in the Federal Court the executors of Mr. Rice's estate.

The itemized bill as mentioned in her complaint covers a period from March 1900 up to and including September 23, 1900, the date of the Rice murder.

Mrs. Curry, in her petition, cites the appointment of the defendants, James A. Baker, James H. Bartine and William Rice Jr., as executors, and of their refusal to allow her husband's bill.

Dr. Curry made daily and occasionally two and three visits each day. On July 8, the doctor charges, in addition to the regular visit, "for instructing Jones," the latter being the old man's valet, whose confession and subsequent testimony against Patrick saved him from prosecution.

It is more profitable to advertise honorably and fail in the attempt to get business, than to advertise dishonorably and succeed for a little while.

CLAIMS WEALTH

Husband Wants Money Found in Wife's Desk

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—When the residence of Mrs. Nellie Ferguson, at 164 West Fifty-fourth street, was partly destroyed by fire early last Friday morning and Mrs. Ferguson was burned to death, no one could be found to claim her body. Lettie Herbert, a negress employed in the place, said that Mrs. Ferguson had a husband, but that he wasn't in the city. Last night at 8 o'clock a man who said he was John Ferguson, the husband of the dead woman, called at the house, the ruins of which were being guarded by Patrick Decoursey, a member of the Fire Patrol corps. Ferguson had been located in Kansas City, where a telegram sent by the Campbell Undertaking company of West Twenty-third street had reached him.

The body of Mrs. Ferguson has been at the undertaking shop ever since the fire. Ferguson first went to the undertaker's last night and made arrangements for the funeral, which will take place tonight. Arriving at the burned house, he told Decoursey that his wife always kept her insurance papers and valuables in a small desk in the rear parlor. The desk was found intact, as the fire had caused little damage in that part of the house.

It was broken open and in it were found two tin boxes, one of which was packed with money. The other contained both money and jewelry. In the desk were also a chatelaine bag and a small Japanese workbox. Both of these contained jewelry. Ferguson was anxious to take the money and jewelry with him.

He and Decoursey had an altercation over this proposition and it ended when Policeman Roberts of the West Forty-seventh street station was called in. He sent word to Capt. Hussey, and Detectives O'Neill and Kerr were sent around with orders to prevent Ferguson from taking anything away. Coroner Scholer was also notified and went to the fire damaged house. He sealed up the four parcels and had them placed in the safe at the West Forty-seventh street station. The stuff was taken to the coroner's office this morning. It will be turned over to Ferguson when he proves conclusively that he is the dead woman's husband.

Ferguson became angry and left the house before the coroner arrived. Before he left, the negro servant, Lettie Herbert, called and recognized him as her former mistress's husband. Both the police and the representatives of the fire department and Underwriters' association never thought that the small cabinet desk contained so much money or jewelry. The police say that the contents all told amount to about $10,000 in value.

FEARFUL STRUGGLE

MUSICIAN WITH AN INFURIATED BULL DOG.

EASTON, Pa., Oct. 18.—For twenty minutes yesterday afternoon Arthur Smith leader of the opera house orchestra, battled with a bulldog which had attacked and bitten Sue and Mary Danner, daughters of State Senator Thomas Danner He managed to choke him to death at that time. In killing the dog Smith' hands were chewed, his arms torn and most of his clothing stripped from his body.

The Misses Danner accompanied Smith on a walk after church on Sunday. They whistled for the Senator's bulldog, weighing 60 pounds, a prize winner and a pet of the two young women. The dog behaved normally for a while, but on the return home began to growl viciously.

Suddenly he jumped for Miss Sue Danner and seized her arm in his teeth, and Smith picked up a club and struck the dog over the head, breaking his hold. He dropped to the ground and then jumped for Miss Mary Danner's throat He crushed his teeth down in her shoulder.

Smith again forced the dog to break his hold. The dog then turned his attention to the musician. As he sprang for Smith's throat, Smith stepped aside and managed to catch the dog by the back of the neck. He soon had both hand around his neck.

Sixty pounds of bulldog was more than the musician could do much with and in a few seconds man and dog were rolling about the road. Time after time a hand would slip and the dog would sink his teeth in Smith's hands or arms. His nails ripped Smith's clothing in ribbons and the coach and tumble in the road finished the work of destruction. All the while the struggle was going on Smith kept calling to the two young women to run. They were too frightened.

At last, after twenty minutes, the musician felt the dog's struggles growing fainter and, bringing the animal's head up to his knee, he broke his neck. Then he took the two girls back home.

The change affected 1200 men, of whom 50 members of the union went on strike. Competition, officers of the company, say, made the longer work day necessary.

SLUMP IN JAP STOCKS.

FOUGHT FOR GIRL

FATHER AND MOTHER CREATED SCENE IN COURT ROOM.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—"You shall not have her, you brute, whatever the court says. I'm her mother, and she belongs to me. You drove me to this, and heaven knows what her life would be with you."

In a crowded court room in Chancery Chambers, Jersey City, yesterday, Mrs. Amelia Peters shouted the above words at her husband, Andrew, while she fought to detain their pretty 11 year old daughter, Christina. The custody of the child had just been awarded to the father by Vice-Chancellor Garrison, who also advised a divorce decree in favor of the husband. Peters, who is well-to-do, some two years ago instituted proceedings against his wife, naming Herman Mischau as co-respondent.

Numerous witnesses testified to Mrs. Peters' infatuation for Mischau, and also told of how she wore a lock of his hair in a golden locket next her heart. This she did not deny. Stacks of letters, written by Mrs. Peters to Mischau and by him to her, in which "Love" and "Dearest" abounded, were admitted as evidence. There were also several pictures of Mrs. Peters and Mischau, taken at Coney Island.

Both husband and wife showed great affection for their eleven-year-old daughter Christina, who has been in care of the mother since the suit began.

Yesterday Mrs. Peters, with her daughter and counsel, former Assemblyman C. R. Leonard, occupied a seat inside the railing, while her husband, with his counsel, former Assemblyman John J. Fallon, sat near the lawyer's table.

Hardly had the vice chancellor announced his decision in the husband's favor and granted him the custody of the daughter, when Peters arose, and, walking over to where the little girl sat with her mother, said: "Come with papa."

The child, whose manner showed she had a great fondness for her father, started to take the outstretched hand, when the mother, jumping from her seat, grabbed the little girl about the waist, and, with flashing eyes, shouted the words quoted above.

Peters made a grab for the child and father and mother fought for their daughter, while the court room was in an uproar. Lawyers pushed themselves between the parents, but Mrs. Peters held fast to the child until Mr. Fallon and Sergeant-at-Arms Thomas Haggerty finally broke her hold and turned the girl over to her father. Then, by order of the Vice-Chancellor, Mrs. Peters was sent from the court room.

HELEN KELLER

HONORED BY LOUISIANA EXPOSITION OFFICIALS.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—"Helen Keller Day," named in honor of Miss Helen Adams Keller of Boston, who though born deaf, dumb and blind has acquired national fame through her success in acquiring a remarkable education, and the only person in whose honor the Louisiana Purchase exposition company has designated a special day, was celebrated at the World's Fair grounds today with exercises participated in by prominent educators of the deaf, dumb and blind from all parts of the United States.

The annual conference of the superintendents of American schools for the deaf, in session here, suspended the regular order of business in honor of Miss Keller and took part in the exercises which were held in the hall of congress.

Prof. E. M. Gallaudet, of Washington, D. C., presided and introduced Miss Keller, whose address proved the feature of the exercises. In addition to her other accomplishments, Miss Keller has learned to speak in a well modulated voice with unusually plain articulation, and her remarks aroused considerable enthusiasm.

Y., Oct. 18.—John Ikwild, 13 years old, of this place, accidentally killed his playmate, John Schneider, 11 years old, while they were on Pocantico street shooting sparrows with a rifle yesterday afternoon. The bullet passed through the Schneider boy's back and heart, killing him instantly.

The Ikwild lad is almost insane from grief.

HIS DUSKY BRIDE

Soldier Makes Appeal to the President

SALEM, N. J., Oct. 18—Justifying his action in marrying Sarah Wolfert, a full-blooded negress, on the ground that "if President Roosevelt felt free to eat at the same table with a negro, I can exercise the same freedom in choosing a wife regardless of color," John T. Smith, a white man, member of the Hospital Corps at Fort Mott, near here, has appealed direct to the president against an order issued by Hospital Surgeon Sparrenberger calling for Smith's discharge from service.

The affair has created a sensation in army post circles here, and the decision of President Roosevelt is awaited with considerable interest.

The circumstances are unusual and reveal a romance that dates back to the days of the Spanish-American war. Smith was a private in the Sixteenth Infantry, which was a part of the army of invasion, and was afterward left on garrison duty in Cuba.

WAS NURSED BY MISS WOLFERT.

Shortly after the close of the war, Smith was stricken with the fever and ordered to Camp Wyckoff, New York. For two months he lingered there between life and death, being nursed faithfully throughout his illness by Sarah Wolfert, a volunteer Red Cross nurse.

When he recovered Smith was ordered to Fort Mott, about eight miles from Salem. An affection had sprung up between him and Miss Wolfert, and upon his departure a correspondence was opened between them, which lasted until about two months ago, when Miss Wolfert came to Salem, where they were married on September 26, by Rev. T. G. Murray, pastor of the New Jerusalem Union Methodist Episcopal church.

Only a few of Smith's soldier friends attended the wedding, and the matter was kept quiet, but eventually Surgeon Sparrenberger learned of the marriage, severely reprimanded Smith and then demanded his discharge.

Smith retorted by quoting the Fourteenth Amendment, and remarking that if the president of the United States felt free to dine with a negro, one of the same color was also good enough for him for a wife.

APPEALS TO THE PRESIDENT.

He followed this up with an appeal to the president to prevent his discharge, and the matter is now pending in Washington.

There is absolutely no question in the dispute which has arisen as to the character of Mrs. Smith, who is a typical Southern negress, about 25 years old, from Virginia, Md., a small town far south of Baltimore.

Smith's record as a soldier is also clear. He is a member of the Forty-second Company, Coast Artillery, and until his marriage was popular with the members of the command. Since then his position has been made somewhat uncomfortable by reason of the publicity which has been given the affair. The demand for his discharge is based on the allegation that Private Smith has brought scandal on the service and on the community. Strange to say, the colored residents of Salem are as much incensed over the affair as is Surgeon Sparrenberger and those who indorse his stand.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith have already been asked to leave restaurants because of the woman's color.

Mrs. Smith when seen at her little home here today, said:

"John and I loved each other, and we have thrown color line prejudices aside, and love reigns supreme. No matter what the government officers or President Roosevelt decide, we shall live together happily."

COLONEL GASTON

PLEDGES HIS SUPPORT TO DOUGLAS.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—The Hon. William L. Douglas, the democratic candidate for governor; Colonel William A. Gaston, who was the candidate for the past two years; ex-Congressman Robert M. Burnett and several of the local leaders, dined at the Parker House yesterday and discussed the campaign in this state, both as to national and local prospects.

It was the first meeting of Colonel Gaston and ex-Mayor Douglas since the convention, although they have had considerable communication between them as a result of recent political events.

Ex-Mayor Douglas explained how the campaign had progressed thus far, and when he had concluded Colonel Gaston pledged him his support in any manner required, and said he would enlist the services of his personal friends in the Brockton man's behalf.

Colonel Gaston said the nomination pleased him and the democracy was to be congratulated on having such an able standard bearer. Colonel Gaston assured him that from his personal observations the business men of the state felt secure in having ex-Mayor Douglas for governor as it would insure a safe and business-like administration at the state house.

RISKED HIS LIFE

Leon Mullin Stopped Runaway Horse in Central Street

One of the most daring attempts to stop a runaway horse seen in this city for many a day was made this afternoon shortly after two o'clock when a horse belonging to E. A. Smith, the well-known local contractor, became frightened, and started to run at a mad rate of speed through Central street. Leon Mullin, son of ex-Alderman Joseph Mullin, at the risk of his life, stopped the infuriated animal. People in the vicinity at the time, declared that Mr. Mullin made one of the most heroic and daring stops that they had ever seen.

Mr. Smith had stopped his horse near the New American hotel while he went into a store to transact some business and he failed to hitch the animal. A passing wagon struck Mr. Smith's carriage and frightened the latter's horse who quick as a flash started to run up the street.

Taking to the middle of the street the animal gained speed at every step, and when almost opposite the door of the New American house was going at a rapid rate. People who saw the horse running expected every minute to see the carriage come in contact with some other carriage or else see some person knocked down.

Suddenly from the sidewalk in front of the Talbot Clothing store a young man rushed into the middle of the street and regardless of his peril made a jump in the air and grasped the horse by the neck. People who saw the young man jump thought he would be dashed to pieces, but he had a firm hold on the animal's neck and despite the fact that the horse tried to shake the young man off, the latter held on like grim death. After he had succeeded in slackening the speed of the horse, the young man swung to the near side of the horse and pulling his head down headed him for the sidewalk. When the curbing was reached the animal was at a standstill and then it was that the horse started to kick, but the young man was equal to the occasion and by pulling the animal's head and holding it he succeeded in quieting the horse.

Just then Mr. Smith rushed up and took charge of the horse. The young man, who proved to be Leon Mullin, walked down the sidewalk a short way and picked up his derby hat which he had lost in the scrimmage and brushing it with his hand walked away as though nothing out of the ordinary had happened.

People in the vicinity were loud in their praise of Mr. Mullin, and Mr. Smith after he had recovered from the excitement looked around for him but he was gone. The horse escaped injury, though one of the shafts of the carriage was broken.

PROKOS DEFIANT

Will Give Jackson a Handicap Match

James Prokos and his manager had an interview with the manager of Jackson, the Campello wrestler, and offered to wrestle Jackson for $100 and gate receiptn or in private for $100 per side, with only one newspaperman from each paper present Prokos agreeing to throw Jackson three times in an hour. In the event of the men going on in private Prokos would allow Jackson to select his own referee. Mr. Jackson's manager according to Prokos accepted the offer whereupon Prokos's manager asked him to go to a lawyer's office and make out articles of agreement, but Jackson's manager declined to go with him.

Word has been received from Montreal to the effect that Billy Ladue who wrestled Trembley last Friday night in that city has been laid up ever since as the result of his strenuous encounter. It was Ladue's ambition to defeat the Canadian champion before he appeared in Lowell against Jackson. He didn't defeat him but according to report he got a big bundle of money as the loser's end as they are red hot for wrestling in Montreal.

Jackson and Trembley meet in Huntington hall on Friday night of this week and the match will be of the lightning order for Jackson agrees to throw Trembley three times in one hour to win and there are many who believe that he cannot do it. Jackson wanted a match, two falls in three, but Trembley being somewhat lighter and very jealous of his title of Canadian champion, would listen to nothing but the three in an hour proposition, which Jackson finally accepted. Trembley is one of the cleverest men on the mat and he will keep Jackson busy.

OFFICERS' REPORT

Interesting Papers Read to Textile Workers

The afternoon session of the Textile Workers yesterday was taken up with the reading of the annual reports of President Golden and Secretary Hibbert, abstracts of which appear below.

President Golden said: The textile industry, not alone of this country, but of every country in the civilized world, where cotton manufacturing is carried on, has passed through one of the greatest depressions which the industry has ever experienced; while many reasons have been advanced as to the cause of the depression, my opinion is that the principal cause may be traced to two sources, one being the short crop of raw material and the other the one that should engage the attention of all who are in any way dependent on industry for a livelihood: The wild speculation and obnoxious gambling that is practiced by those who seem to have no regard for the terrible suffering that is brought about and the hunger and want that thousands of innocent people have to endure through such nefarious and in my opinion criminal operations. If some of those who devote so much time and labor in trying to stop other forms of gambling would bend their efforts in this direction they would be accomplishing a more useful and human work.

In order to meet this depression in our industry the manufacturers have tried many remedies; millions of spindles have been idle from time to time and in consequence those whose wages are not very large at the best of times have been sorely tried during the period of curtailment. Nevertheless we are at all times willing to share a part of the burden, providing the plans adopted will tend in the course of time to bring about some relief. Our contention is that in order to bring about a demand for goods, that there is already an overabundance of, you must curtail its production. Unfortunately, some of those who are in the position of manager of the industry are so short sighted and have such a poor conception as to the right remedy that they can never see any other course to pursue than to lower the wages of the poorly paid help. We have never known of a single instance as yet where such a foolish remedy has ever been successful.

The work of thoroughly organizing the textile workers of the country should demand our serious consideration and discussion.

There is no industry in the country where the field is so large or where organization is so much needed as our own. Another matter must engage our serious attention either now or in the near future and that is to find the best methods of reaching our foreign born brothers and sisters who work with us in the mills and not being able to speak the English language, understand very little in regard to the benefits to be derived from being members of their respective unions. I believe that from time to time we should adopt the same plan that has been so successfully carried out by many of our sister unions and place men in the field who can expound the principles of trade unions in their own language. The south is often pointed out to us in regard to its long hours and low standard of wages. While many believe that the southern operatives cannot be brought in line, I firmly believe that in course of time, with that spirit of independence and courage that he has displayed on many former occasions he will see a way of organizing.

Our northern manufacturers whenever they desire to reduce wages or increase the hours of labor, raise the time-worn cry of Southern competition. The great trouble with our textile manufacturers in this country is this:

They have never tried to get away from each other as it were. They have not diversified their product as they ought to have done. When the South commenced her mill building a few years ago the northern mill man made no preparations for branching out. In many instances when he did begin to renew his old machinery he looked around for the cheapest machinery he could that could be operated by the cheapest kind of help, with the result that millions of yards of fine fabrics are imported into this country to supply the demand. The craze for cheap machinery and cheap help must be abandoned.

"The greatest struggle that the United Textile Workers of America have ever been concerned in is now taking place in the city of Fall River, Mass. All honorable means were tried to avoid a conflict, even to submitting to a proposition made by the state board of arbitration to postpone action for two weeks pending a settlement, the mill agents refusing to accede to the proposition. The Fall River people have put up a splendid fight, earning the respect of all classes of the community for the peaceable and law-abiding manner in which they have conducted themselves under the most trying circumstances not one single incident having occurred that would reflect discredit either on the unions or their members.

SECRETARY HIBBERT'S REPORT.

The secretary reported that conditions in the textile trade had been such that it had been impossible to create a sentiment in favor of organization with the result that the textile workers body had decreased in membership. The secretary also cited the action of the last convention in raising the per capita tax as a contributing cause to the loss but he held that the action increasing the tax was wise. He recommended that the convention adopt a rule making it compulsory on all local unions to have their treasurers bonded "in as much as two of the treasurers of local unions affiliated with this body have absconded and left the local unions in a helpless condition."

The number of unions in good standing at the present time is 130 a loss of 27; unions on the suspended list 13, nine less than last year.

Under the head of strikes and grievances Secretary Hibbert reported that the weavers of the Dartmouth mill in New Bedford had withdrawn from the organization because the textile workers declined to give financial aid in a strike called without the consent of the general body. Endorsement had been declined a strike inaugurated by the sloasher tenders at the granite mill number 2, Fall River, for a similar reason On this point the secretary said:

"You must all realize that in order that we may have a successful organization, you must have discipline. The general officers intend so long as they hold office to live up to the constitution and will refuse to endorse any strike that is not brought about in a proper way."

The secretary discussed the Fall River strike at some length, referring to the endorsement of the movement and the generosity of local unions in supporting the strikers and said:

"This strike has been on now 12 weeks and the people are just as determined to resist this reduction as they were on the first day of the strike."

The secretary described a new union label, which was adopted in July and which had been registered in Indiana and which he expected to be registered in Minnesota, Michigan, Idaho, Maine and Oregon within a few days and he urged all members "that they make known the fact that the textile workers have a label and that they buy nothing but goods bearing the label of organized labor."

Touching upon legislation the secretary told of efforts made to pass various measures in the Massachusetts legislative, especially the so-called overtime bill. Secretary Hibbert says concerning Governor Bates' veto of the bill:

"Massachusetts never had a governor who enjoyed the confidence of the textile workers to such an extent as the present occupant up to that time. I believe that this convention should take up this matter and pass the strongest resolution possible censuring Governor Bates and that we should request all delegates to this convention to vote and work against his re-election."

The secretary also called attention to the fact that a union button had been adopted and said that it was the duty of every member to wear it, and he urged consideration of passing rules which would enable the president to use funds now restricted in the work of organization.

The convention adjourned for the day at 5 p. m.

TREATING HABIT

Judge Hadley Not in Sympathy With It

"The treating habit is a curse," said Judge Hadley in police court today.

The case of a man charged with drunkenness was being discussed and the defendant was penitent. A man who has known him for years told the court that the man charged with drunkenness was a tradesman and one of the best in Lowell. "He is wise in everything except the use of liquor," he said.

"How did he happen to fall yesterday?" asked the court.

"Another fellow led him away," replied the man who spoke for the defendant.

It was then that Judge Hadley remarked on the treating habit. He went so far as to say that a man should be punished for asking another to drink.

"Why should men stand up against the bar and treat one another until they get drunk?" asked the judge. Continuing, he said: "They don't do it in England, or France, or Germany, and the Dutch don't do it. It is a habit known only to this country and it is a curse."

MORE BINDING

Episcopal Bishops Take Action on Divorce

BOSTON, Oct. 18—Before the sessions of the Episcopal general convention were resumed today the bishops and deputies attended a celebration of the holy communion at Trinity church in honor of the feast of St. Luke, Evangelist, red letter day in church calendar. The house of deputies at their business session again took up the new canon establishing courts of review. The work on the canon was practically completed yesterday, but a number of provisions remained to be acted upon.

The woman's auxiliary of the board of missions at their conference in Pierce hall was addressed by Rt. Rev. Lucien Lee Kinsolving, bishop of Southern Brazil; Bishop Wm. H. Moreland of Sacramento and Bishop James B. Funsten of Boise, Idaho.

A conference of diocesan Sunday school commissions and institutes was held at Trinity parish house this forenoon.

In the house of deputies, Rev. W. R. Huntington, D. D., of New York, chairman of the committee on amendments to the constitution, to which had been referred the task of defining the words "within the boundaries of the U. S." submitted a report. The committee construed that phrase in the constitution to mean all possessions within the jurisdiction of the U. S. and not merely that territory lying between the Atlantic and Pacific and between Canada and Mexico. The house voted to accept the definition as presented by Rev. Dr. Huntington. The issue was similar to one which came before the U. S. supreme court a year or two ago.

A resolution was reported by the committee on the state of the church recommending that a joint committee of two bishops, two clerical and two lay deputies be appointed for the purpose of petitioning the state legislature to consider "The great curse of divorce and to reduce the statutory grounds on which divorce is granted."

The resolution provided that those states which permit no divorce or divorce for adultery only be excepted. After a short discussion it was voted to refer the matter to the interdenominational committee on the uniformity of marriage and divorce, of which Bishop Wm. C. Doane of Albany is chairman. This action means that the present convention will take no further action on the resolution.

The committee on state of church also presented a resolution touching on the negro question in the south, which was brought up last week by Rev. Robert Strange of Richmond, Va., who submitted a memorial adopted by a conference of colored workers at Newark, asking that a missionary district in charge of a colored missionary bishop be formed in the south, the bishop to have a seat in the house of bishops. The committee on state of the church recommended that a joint commission of five bishops, five clerical and five lay deputies be appointed to obtain information and suggest proposed legislation to the next general convention. The resolution was adopted. Rev. Dr. E. A. White, of Bloomfield, N. J., presented an amendment to the divorce canon providing not only for the so-called "Rigorous" canon forbidding the remarriage of divorced persons but adding also these words, "But the section is not to be considered as the expression of an opinion by this church as to the interpretation of the ninth verse of the 19th chapter of the gospel of St. Matthew, nor as pronouncing upon the validity of the remarriage of the innocent party divorced for the cause of adultery." It went to the committee on canons. A proposition to establish a system of suffragan bishops was brought before the house by Rev. Dr. Huntington of New York and Rev. Dr. Duvenport of Memphis, Tenn. Rev. Dr. Huntington offered an amendment to the constitution removing the language which would prohibit the election of such bishops. New York has a memorial in favor of establishing the system. The subject was referred to a committee. The deputies convened with the bishops in voting to establish a foreign missionary diocese in Mexico.

T. L. Ringwatt of Omaha, Neb., offered a resolution asking that congress be petitioned to erect a statue to Edmund Burke in Boston. The resolution went to a committee. The divorce issue came up again, through a resolution read by Geo. Foster Peabody of Brooklyn, who asked for the appointment of a joint commission of four bishops, four clerical and four lay delegates to consider the question in all its phases and report to the next general convention. The matter also was referred to a committee. Rev. Robert R. Nelson of Newport, Ky., had referred to a committee a proposal to strike out of the prayer book, the rule which forbids a clergyman to conduct the burial services over a suicide, an excommunicated or unbaptized person. The house then resumed consideration of the new canon and began courts of review.

The deputies did not complete their work on the canon establishing courts of review.

For a few minutes, previous to recess there was a brief discussion regarding the divorce question. The bishops commissioned with the house an amendment which they adopted yesterday forbidding the remarriage of any divorced person and when the question of concurring came up in the house of deputies, Rev. Dr. R. H. Warner of New Orleans, moved that the amendment be referred to a special committee of five. Francis A. Lewis of Philadelphia moved that the matter be referred to the committee on canons and Rev. Dr. J. Lewis Parks of New York, the leader of the forces opposing the so-called "rigid" canon moved that the house do not concur with the bishops. The bishops amendment finally was referred to the committee on canons.

The house of bishops today adopted the following section as part of the canon on divorce:

"The judgment of the bishop shall always be taken before a divorced person who has a former husband or wife still living and who is married to another be confirmed or permitted to receive the holy communion; provided that the sacraments shall in no case be refused to any penitent person in immediate danger of death, nor to the innocent party in a divorce granted for adultery."

The effect of this section is to make the regulations of the church more binding.

The bishops nominated the following persons for missionary bishops:

Rev. Logan Hobart Roots, formerly of Ark., for Hankow, China; Rev. Franklin Spencer Spalding of Erie, Pa., for the District of Salt Lake; Rev. Alfion Williamson Knight, Jr., of Atlanta, Ga., for Cuba.

The bishops for these districts will be elected by the house of deputies. Rev. Mr. Roots has been a missionary in China for several years. Rev. Mr. Spalding is a son of the late Bishop Spalding of Colorado and is rector of St. Paul's church, Erie. Rev. Mr. Knight is dean of St. Philips Pro-Cathedral of Atlanta, Ga. The house of bishops have changed the canon so as to permit of the election of a coadjutor bishop in missionary districts. The change was made to meet the request from Bishop Wm. H. Hare of South Dakota for an assistant.

Yesterday morning it was ordered that there must be an appearance and an explanation. When the case was called, the attorney was reported dead.

Mr. Johnson was 42 years old, having been born in this city on Feb. 8, 1862. He was a son of A. L. Johnson, a prominent lawyer, and was admitted to the bar on Jan. 15, 1886. He was a member of Central City lodge, F. and A. M., and of the Citizens club.

JUDGE PARKER

WILL DELIVER TWO ADDRESSES AT ESOPUS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Judge Parker will address two delegations at Esopus this week, one of about one hundred democrats and independent voters from Hudson county, N. J., on Friday, and the other of members of the Harlem democratic club. In his speech on Friday, Judge Parker intends to discuss alleged extravagances of the republican national administration. It has not been determined whether the subject of trusts, militarism or free trade and reciprocal arrangements with foreign governments will furnish the topic for the address on Saturday. All of these subjects are to be taken up at some time before the close of the campaign.

BIG SUBWAY

GREAT CELEBRATION AT THE OPENING OF IT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—"Blow your whistle, toot your horns, yell your lungs out, Mr. and Mrs. Public!"

Mayor McClellan was yesterday asked to issue the above proclamation in different and more general language to the public asking them to devote the hour in which the subway is thrown open for the celebration of the important event. The mayor's desire is that a joyous hubbub similar to that which breaks loose at the beginning of the New Year be made.

The final ceremonies incident to the subway's opening were arranged by the committee in charge yesterday, at the rooms of the Rapid Transit Commission. The city, the Interborough company and the Rapid Transit Commission will participate in the dedication. Among those at yesterday's conference were Alexander E. Orr, president of the Commission; President Fornes, of the Board of Aldermen; Alderman Richter, Contractor John B. McDonald and Chief Engineer Parsons.

The formal declaration, "The subway is open," will be made in the aldermanic chamber at 1 o'clock p.m., October 27. At midnight, October 27, the great tube will be thrown wide to the public at large, after having been used for the preceding twelve hours by thousands who will receive special tickets, from clergymen, important business men, members of the city government and educational institutions, congressmen, railway officials and others.

The distribution of these tickets will, it is believed, minimize the crush at midnight, as thousands will by that time have made the trip through it.

President Roosevelt and distinguished men in many walks of life—about 500 or 600 altogether—will be invited to attend the formal speechmaking in the aldermanic chamber. The ceremonies will be as stately and dignified as possible, with the "Hurrah!" element eliminated. The section of the subway which Mayor McClellan will declare open for traffic is from City hall to West One Hundred and Forty-Fifth street on the west side. The East Side will be opened later.

To all intents and purposes, the subway trains were in regular operation yesterday. A double schedule was put in effect. Trains ran periodically from City hall to One Hundred and Thirty-seventh street and return. A train was run from Forty-second street to City hall in eight minutes. A round trip consumed eighteen minutes, omitting a three-minute unavoidable wait at Grand street. From One Hundred and Thirty-seventh street to the bridge a trip was made in twenty-six minutes. The regular service—not express—schedule was thirty-nine minutes from One Hundred and Thirty-seventh street to City hall.

Furniture was installed in the stations yesterday. Four heavy, long, wooden benches were placed in each waiting room. The stations are being thoroughly cleaned, and the appearance is much more artistic than in any stations seen in New York City roads heretofore.

MUST SHOW BOOKS

LABOR UNIONS' RECORDS ARE NOT EXEMPT.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 18.—Judge Ferris has decided that labor unions are not immune from an examination of their books when charged with violating an injunction. The case is that of the Carpenters' and Joiners' union, charged with violating an injunction forbidding the union to boycott the lumber firm of J. E. Patterson & Co. The union's officers were ordered to bring their books into court at the company's request so that all the names of the responsible officers could be obtained. They took refuge in the fifth amendment of the constitution, which protects a man from incriminating himself.

Judge Ferris decided, however, that if it is found the injunction has been violated it will be enforced by an attachment, which is not a criminal proceeding.

BILLERICA NEWS

250th Anniversary to be Observed

THE COMMITTEES ARE ALREADY AT WORK

Notes and Incidents About the Village

President J. Nelson Parker, of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary committee, has called a meeting of the executive committee to be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 25th, at which the chairmen of the various sub-committees which constituted the executive committee, are expected to make concise and complete reports in writing of the result and work up to the present time of each committee in preparation for the anniversary celebration. The work and duties in detail of each committee has been admirably and concisely stated in the report of the committee of five appointed by the original committee named at the last annual town meeting and much interest is centered in the coming reports. The work and interest already shown by the various committees promises well for the success of the quarter millennial celebration of the incorporation of the town, which occurs May 28 and 29, 1905, although the work is being quietly but earnestly done.

Dr. J. B. Tyler, of Billerica, who is now in Italy, having gone to Europe on account of ill health, is expected home by the middle of November.

Rowley Hobb, who manages the boating attractions on the Concord, is erecting an extensive boat house and wharf at Riverhurst.

The working crew on the southern section of the Billerica and Bedford branch narrowly escaped injury, and probably more serious results, yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock. The crew of three were running the hand car at a point below South Billerica station when suddenly an "extra" train came into view around a nearby curve. The men jumped in the nick of time, and the car which collided with the approaching train was completely demolished.

The cranberry season at the Winning Pond Farm in West Billerica came to an end Saturday. The yield this year was approximately 600 barrels. The work of picking the red berries was done as usual by a colony of 50 Italians who lived in shanties during the work.

Warren Switzer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jethro Switzer of Talbot avenue, is ill with diphtheria. He is being attended by Dr. G. T. O'Donnell, who has reported the case to the board of health.

Mr. Albert W. Slocum, assistant superintendent of the Talbot mills, is on a brief business trip to New York city.

KILLED BY CAR

Lawrence Boy Met a Horrible Death

LAWRENCE, Oct. 19.—A tragic accident occurred on the Boston & Maine tracks in the rear of Pingree's box factory, South Lawrence, about 5 o'clock yesterday evening, which resulted in the death of Fred Bonney, about 11 years old, son of Henry L. and Clara Bonney, of Dorchester street. He was crushed under the wheels of a freight car and died soon after.

The victim, with 10 or 12 other boys, whose ages ran from nine to 15 years, were playing in and about the empty freight cars near Pingree's late in the afternoon. They had been pushing an empty gravel car along the rails, but this was going too slow for them, so they turned their attention to the lighter gravel car and Bonney, with most of the other boys climbed into this and amused themselves by rocking it.

This sport having grown tame the boys, with the exception of the victim, went to where two freight cars were standing coupled at the top of the incline, 200 feet south of the car they had just left and on the same rails. Fred Bonney remained alone in the gravel car and watched the actions of his playmates. When the boys reached the freight cars they climbed to the top and released the brakes. Others pushed on the cars until they started to move down the incline and then all jumped on for the ride down. The two cars moved slowly at first but gathered momentum going down the incline and as they neared the gravel car in which was young Bonney the speed was great.

The victim was leaning far over the end of the car intent upon seeing the bumpers of the cars come together. The expected crash came and Bonney was thrown down between the two cars and two sets of wheels went over the boy's body.

A young man named Isaac Berenson and another named Solomon were attracted by the cries of his playmates and they tenderly removed the bruised and mangled body from beneath the wheels.

Medical Examiner Dow was called and the police station notified. The medical examiner ordered the remains taken to Conlin and Ryan's and the ambulance, which had been called, took the remains to the establishment. The parents of the boy were notified and they, with their two remaining children, a girl older than Fred and a boy younger, were almost broken-hearted.

That part of the Boston & Maine yards from Andover street, south to the rear of the Pingree box factory, has an unenviable reputation as regards the number of fatal accidents occurring there. Several accidents, one or two of them fatal, have been caused by young boys playing about the cars. The practice of pushing empty freight cars from the hill to the level stretch below is an old one and it was a sport that appealed strongly to boys of the age of the victim.

WARM CAMPAIGN

Canadians Will Vote on November 3

ST. JOHN, N. B., Oct. 19.—The campaign for the election of members of the Canadian parliament on November 3, upon which depends the fate of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's government, is being vehemently contested in all parts of the country. In the eastern provinces candidates have been nominated by both the Liberals and conservatives in practically every constituency. R. L. Borden of Halifax, the conservative leader, will begin a speaking tour in New Brunswick at Woodstock tomorrow. Cabinet ministers will also deliver numerous addresses in behalf of the government. The Liberals are relying on the prosperity of the country and on their program for the construction of a Trans-Continental railroad. The railroad plan is unpopular in this city and the conservatives claim they will win both seats in St. John.

Hon. Andrew G. Blain, former minister of railroads and canals, resigned his portfolio and his seat in this city about a year ago because he would not accept the railroad program, but he was later appointed chairman of the railroad commission.

Yesterday he resigned this position also. He announces that he still strongly objects to a grand trunk Pacific road, but has no intention of re-entering political life.

The Liberals hope to retain their large majorities in Quebec and Nova Scotia and thus be able to offset the conservatives' strength elsewhere.

WENT TO PRISON

WOMAN SAID SHE DID NOT WANT TO CAUSE SCANDAL.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 19.—Gertrude R. E. Lee, who claims kinship with the family of Gen. Robert E. Lee, the famous Confederate soldier, was held to the criminal court in $500 bonds by Justice Caverly yesterday on a charge of having stolen a suit case containing valuable goods from a down-town department store. Some of the stolen articles were recovered. The justice told Miss Lee if she would tell where the remainder was she might be treated with leniency.

"You may send me to the penitentiary," she replied, "but I will never tell who shared the goods with me."

"She is afraid she will cause a scandal," said E. S. McGuire, a detective, who made the arrest. "She told me a society woman was implicated. She received a new dress while in the county jail. No name was on the package when it arrived and the messenger refused to say who had sent it.

CHASED BY JAPS

Norwegian Steamer Has Reached Boston

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—Officers of the Norwegian steamer Alf, which arrived in this port yesterday morning from Manila and Cebu, P. I., with a cargo of hemp, saw an example of the thorough way in which the eastern waters are patrolled by the Japanese when they were in that section of the world early in the summer. Twice the lively Jap torpedo boats stopped the Alf, but allowed her to proceed after satisfactory answers had been given as to her cargo and destination. As the Norwegian was entering Chefoo harbor she was pursued by a torpedo boat, but she got safely within the harbor without interference.

Sailing from New York with a cargo of paraffine oil, the Alf reached Chefoo in June. A part of her cargo was to go to Niuchwang, but that port was closed and the entire cargo was discharged at Chefoo. At Chefoo, June 25, the firing during the bombardment of Port Arthur was heard plainly.

From Chefoo the Alf went to Moya, Japan, for coal and orders, and on July 8, when 14 hours out of the Japanese port, she was held up by a fleet of torpedo boats. Telling of this First Mate C. H. Kellanburg said yesterday to a correspondent:

"It was a dark night and we were steaming along not looking for anything unusual, when suddenly a light shot out from a boat almost alongside of us. We made her out to be a Japanese torpedo boat, and we stopped as soon as we could. We were questioned as to the cargo and our destination, and when Capt. Hansen told the Japanese officers that the Alf was a Norwegian steamer bound from Chefoo to Moya with ballast they allowed us to proceed. We were delayed altogether about half an hour.

"It was a good deal of a shock to be brought up so suddenly. We had no idea that there was a craft of any kind in the vicinity when the light flashed on us. We found afterward that there were four or five Japanese boats looking for us, so we could not have gotten by if we had tried.

"We were stopped a second time on July 24, the day after we sailed from Moya for Manila. I was down below and the second mate was on the bridge. I was told that there was a boat evidently trying to signal us. I went on deck and when we saw she was a Japanese torpedo boat we stopped and waited for her to come alongside. She had seen us when we were in Moya, and it took little time to explain that we were bound for Manila. At neither time were we boarded by the Japanese officers.

"During the time we were lying in Chefoo we saw a good many Chinese refugees coming in from the vicinity of Port Arthur. Some of them showed the marks of their sufferings, and they were reduced almost to skeletons. There were many bad characters among the refugees, and we heard many stories of robberies and murders on the Chefoo streets.

"We were in the harbor at Moya from July 9 to July 23 and there we saw many transports leaving with troops and others coming back with Russian prisoners. There were several torpedo boats about the harbor every day.

"We learned that a Norwegian steamer, the Sintis, which sailed into Port Arthur with a cargo of coal, was chased in by a Japanese cruiser. She went aground in the channel, but floated again and got into the harbor safely. There she was forced to stay, and the officers and crew were taken off and sent back home."

The Alf is commanded by Capt. E. Hansen and hails from Bergen. She is at the New England docks, South Boston, and will go to New York from here to discharge the remainder of her cargo.

COUPLE ROBBED

THEY WERE CHLOROFORMED WHILE THEY SLEPT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Accused of having chloroformed a man and his wife as they slept, robbing them of money and jewelry valued at $2000, and then, before leaving the house, turning on the gas at four jets, so that the couple might have been asphyxiated had not their plight have been discovered, a man and a woman are in the Tombs awaiting trial. The man is Albert Belden, 22 years old, said to be a pickpocket. The woman is Minnie Marquette, 20 years old, who comes from Valparaiso, Ind. Their victims are Elmer Whitelaw, a jeweller's salesman, who lives on the second floor of 202 West Thirty-sixth street, and his wife.

The prisoners were brought here from Peoria, Ill., having been indicted for robbery in the first degree, grand larceny, assault in the first degree and for receiving stolen goods.

As told by Whitelaw, about the middle of September Belden and the woman hired rooms from his wife and conducted themselves well. On the morning of Sept. 24 Mrs. Whitelaw awoke, and, finding that the rooms were filled with gas, aroused her husband with difficulty. After they had regained their senses, they discovered the gas escaping from several jets.

Then a systematic search was made and Mrs. Whitelaw found that $1545, which she had secreted, and of which she had spoken to the woman who passed as Mrs. Belden, was gone; also several pieces of her jewelry. When they went to Belden's room it was found he and the woman had gone. Belden and the woman were arrested in Peoria, where they were negotiating for the purchase of a restaurant.

All the jewelry which has been identified, was found in the woman's possession, and Belden had $750.

NEARLY WRECKED

GERMAN SCHOONER RUN INTO TERRIFIC STORM.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—The German schooner Karl and Ella has arrived in port, 63 days out from Ponape. She carried a cargo of $3,000 pounds of copra, together with pearl shells and ivory nuts.

On August 7, she encountered a terrific storm, which nearly wrecked her. Her rigging and sails were carried away and three feet of water rested in the hold. The pumps were kept going night and day. It was only after heroic efforts that the vessel reached this port. Even after the anchor was dropped it was necessary to keep pumps going in order to keep the craft afloat.

DAVIS AND BRYAN

Will Meet at Parkersburg on Friday

WELCH, W. Va., Oct. 19.—Henry G. Davis, democratic candidate for vice president, wound up a busy day of campaigning with a rally here last night. The Bluefield meeting, which lasted two hours, was largely attended. The meeting was held in the open air and mountaineers from many miles around added their lusty cheers to the demonstration.

Northfolk furnished another audience of proportionately large size. The rally at Welch last night was held in the court house, which was filled.

Mr. Davis is maintaining his reputation as a continuous performance campaigner and shows no ill-effects of the many speeches he has delivered and miles traveled during the past ten days. The whirlwind campaign will end today at Kenova. The itinerary for the day has been rearranged so that instead of four speeches there will be a dozen.

From Kenova, Mr. Davis will go to Parkersburg Thursday, there to await the coming of Mr. Bryan on Friday. In the meantime, numerous conferences with state leaders have been arranged to take place at Parkersburg. From there Mr. Davis will return to his home at Elkins. He is contemplating a three or four days' trip later to cover towns along the Wabash system of West Virginia.

PARNELL MODEL

ST. GAUDENS WILL START TO RE BUILD IT.

Dr. T. J. Dillon, the president of the Central Council of the United Irish league, received a letter yesterday from Augustus St. Gaudens, the famous sculptor, who is at Windsor, Vt., informing him that at the fire in his studio recently the Parnell monument design was destroyed except the head.

St. Gaudens writes that his drawing nd photographs were saved, and tha t can make a new design, which will b a correct in every detail as the one which was recently seen by Mr. Red mond and approved by him.

The sculptor says it will require three months' work to complete the design and this means the unveiling, which has been planned to take place at Dublin, in August, will necessarily be postponed.

JUDGE PARKER

Learns About Situation in Indiana

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The political situations in Indiana and New Jersey were the most important affairs of the democratic campaign considered by Judge Parker after he arrived here yesterday on his sixth visit since he was nominated for president.

A report was made to him concerning Indiana by Simon P. Sherin, who was secretary of the democratic national committee in 1892. Mr. Sherin was introduced by National Chairman Taggart who consulted with the candidate twice preliminary to leaving New York today to take a hand personally in the canvass of that state.

Mr. Sherin will remain in New York two or three days and will call on Judge Parker at Esopus before returning to Indiana.

It is said the conference did much to shape the contest to be waged by Indiana democrats for supremacy in the election. The announcement was made by those who called on Judge Parker that the prospects of carrying the state, as shown by a fourth canvass, are excellent. No figures were given out and no results of the canvass will be made public from the headquarters of Judge Parker of the national committee until the return of Mr. Taggart.

In New Jersey the situation is reported to be far more complete than in any of the other doubtful states, and the result more dependent upon the work done in the remaining two and one-half weeks of the campaign. This was the judgment of former Senator James Smith, Jr., who called on Judge Parker and declared certain the election of Black for governor, and predicted that the democratic national ticket will win also.

MORIN—LANDRY.

Mr. Avila Morin and Miss Emilia Landry were married Monday evening at St. Joseph's rectory. The ceremony was performed at 6.30 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Arnyot, O. M. I. The witnesses were Mr. Adelard Landry, the bride's father, and Mr. Isaie Morin, brother of the groom.

After the ceremony a reception to the relatives and very intimate friends took place at the residence of the bride, 19 Fourth avenue, from 7 to 9. The young couple afterwards left on a wedding trip. On their return they will reside at 19 Fourth avenue.

IS FOUND GUILTY

Weinseimer Was Accused of Extortion

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The jury in the case of Philip Weinseimer, former president of the Building Trades alliance, on trial for extortion, returned a verdict of guilty shortly before midnight. He was at once remanded to the tombs until October 28, when sentence will be pronounced.

Weinseimer has been on trial for more than a week in the court of special sessions. He was charged by George J. Essig, a master plumber, with extorting $2700 from him under a threat not to permit work to continue on the Chatsworth apartment house here unless the money was paid.

The jury retired late in the afternoon and after taking one ballot went to supper and remained away from the court building nearly two hours.

The long wait after the jury's return had caused Weinseimer and his counsel to expect a disagreement or acquittal, and Weinseimer was smiling and eager when the jury entered the court room.

When the verdict was pronounced Weinseimer trembled and grasped the railing to steady himself.

His counsel said that he would at once appeal the case on the ground that the verdict was contrary to the evidence.

STATE POLICE

TWO MORE MEN ADDED TO THIS FORCE.

BOSTON, Oct. 19—Yesterday afternoon Governor Bates made two additional appointments to the district police force, ex-Senator Charles S. Clerke of Boston and Ernest S. Bradford of Hyannis, thus bringing the total number of men in that department up to 61.

As at present constituted, there are 37 men assigned to the inspection department, while the remaining 22 compose the detective department. Of the latter number, six are called fire inspectors and one chief fire inspector. The chief and deputy chief of the department are included in the 61.

Mr. Clerke, who goes to the inspection department, was born in Falmouth in 1850. He is a civil war veteran and past commander of Dahlgren Post 2, G. A. R.

Mr. Bradford has been deputy sheriff of Barnstable county six years and rendered valuable service to Mr. Letteny whom he succeeds.

POLICE DENOUNCED

FOR BRUTALITY IN CLUBBING CROWD AT CORK.

CORK, Oct. 19.—A serious conflict between sympathizers with those who were arrested for participation in the eviction riots at Fellsport on Oct. 12 and the police occurred at the hearing of the case at the Rivertown courthouse yesterday. Twenty people were injured in the disturbance, some of them being seriously hurt.

When the Fellsport defendants were arraigned the crowd in attendance, unable to secure admission to the courtroom, attacked the police. More than 10 of the latter formed up to maintain order and charged with their batons, striking right and left, and dispersing the crowd.

The judge summoned the officer commanding the police, who said his men had been first attacked.

W. M. O'Brien, one of the court attendants, who charged excessive brutality on the part of the police, brought in one of the injured men, who was covered with blood.

The magistrate denounced the action of the police and as a protest adjourned the hearing for six weeks, bailing the defendants until that time.

BOURKE COCKRAN

MADE ANOTHER ATTACK ON PROTECTION SYSTEM.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 19—A large crowd heard W. Bourke Cockran speak in the Central Armory last night. The meeting was the first large gathering of the democrats of Cleveland and Cuyahoga county.

Mr. Cockran, who was introduced by Mayor Johnson, reviewed the fundamental principles of the two great parties and said that the return to democratic principles would mean the betterment of the condition of the workingman in shorter hours of labor and an increase of wages, such a condition being brought about by increased production, which is a fundamental of democracy.

Speaking of the trusts, Mr. Cockran said that they were a natural outcome of the protective tariff system, as were disputes between labor and capital.

As to a condition of this country, also, said Mr. Cockran, that wealthy men are held [illegible] because they are reaping [illegible] being beneficiaries of a system by which they are profiting at the expense of their fellow-citizens.

SENT TO JAIL

WOMAN SMOKED IN PRESENCE OF CHILDREN.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Oct. 19—Charged with smoking cigarettes in the presence of her children, Mrs. Jennie [illegible], of Philadelphia, has been sentenced to 30 days in the county jail for disobeying their morals. The complaint was made by her husband, after a family dispute over the morality of the act.

This is the first conviction of the kind under the state law which makes it a misdemeanor for a mother to smoke cigarettes in the presence of her family.

BARTER SYSTEM

Adopted by Missionaries Says Minister

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Ernest Lyon, the United States minister to Liberia, in a long report to the state department, severely criticises American missionaries in Africa. Mr. Lyon says:

"Many of the missionaries have adopted the barter system in their work among the natives. This places the missionary on the same level with the trader. The enormous profit made is a temptation to good men, many of whom have turned aside for filthy lucre. From 150 to 200 per cent. sometimes is easily made on some things. The government has been liberal to the missionaries in allowing free entry to everything used by them in their work. The Muhlenberg station ships coffee to the United States.

"A lady who has been a missionary at Monrovia for twenty-five years deals in kerosene oil and other commodities, which are sold at a profit. The popular opinion is that some of these bartering missionaries are quite as much interested in their wares as in the souls of the heathen. It would be far better if the boards in the United States under whose auspices they operate would relieve the workers in Africa from this practice by supplying them with sufficient means with which to carry on the work without it."

State department officers consider that Mr. Lyon's report is remarkable, not only because of the insight it gives into conditions in Liberia, about which but little has heretofore been known, but also for the interesting manner in which it is written. Minister Lyon is a colored man, was formerly a minister of the Methodist church in Baltimore and is well thought of in Washington. Mr. Lyon says:

"I have just returned from a trip into the interior. The objective point was Bobbless Island, but the annual rise of the creeks and rivers rendered travel difficult, and we were compelled to end our journey at Kpondla Hill, the site of an important town, the entrance to which lies hidden in a dense forest.

"The traveller who travels by hammock finds himself swinging to and fro, suspended from a horizontal bar whose ends rest on the shoulders of two stalwart natives, who rush him at breakneck speed through narrow and uneven paths, over dangerous ravines and huge logs which block the way. Sometimes the unequal height of the carriers occasions much suffering to the victim, which the native enjoys richly.

"The absence of railroads and of every other vehicular convenience for travel in Liberia is a serious drawback to the development and prosperity of the republic. For this reason very few Liberians venture into the interior. Only the foreigner ventures. Because of his willingness to assume the difficulties of the journey he becomes at once the object of curious wonder."

Minister Lyon has the following to say about physical and moral degeneracy of foreigners in Liberia:

"It is astonishing how quickly the foreigner degenerates in Africa. He is himself conscious of this degeneracy, but is apparently powerless to overcome the downward tendency. Climatic conditions influence the mental and moral as well as the physical and social environments. Africa is the home of some peculiar maladies. Among the most violent are the fever, the ulcer, the krn-kra and the yaws. A stranger, in coming to Africa is sure to have the African fever or its equivalent, which sometimes manifests itself in an ulcer which has been known to fasten itself upon the body, with all its hideous consequences, for more than twelve years. The climate and the fever leave the victim with his energy gone, his health impaired and his will shattered. Europeans find it necessary to make annual trips to the Madeira Islands or to the continent to build up the waste places, for which there seems to be no remedy here.

"The social life of the interior has a degenerating tendency on the morals of the foreigner also. Illustrations in sexual and moral degeneracy are numerous among white and black foreigners. These victims have not been confined to the secular life, but have been found in the religious life also. Men and women who came to teach and to lift up have been found among the victims not merely of heathenish, but of wanton, immorality."

Minister Lyon's report contains the following pen picture of the African warrior:

"The traveller would conclude from appearances that Africa must be a land of warriors. Every man appears as a warrior. He seems to live always in the fear of the enemy, and in the shadow of the great evil which prompts him to go armed from head to foot. With his sword he defends himself from the evil. His arms, which are a part of his dress, consist of a short sword, a country knife, a spear and a bow and arrow, which he uses with great precision. It is of frequent occurrence for boys between the ages of 8 and 9 years to stick a piece of chip about an inch and a half wide in the ground or in the limb of a tree and, at a distance of 200 feet, to split it in halves with the arrows from their bows.

"The country knife is indispensable to the native. It is his most effective weapon of defence. With it he can successfully meet the attacks of the boa constrictor and many of the ravenous beasts and poisonous reptiles of which he has but little fear. The only animal which he seems to fear is the baboon. He will entrap an elephant, chase a leopard and pursue a hippopotamus, but he will fly in mad haste from the hideous yells of a baboon, which resemble the cry of a man in distress. This sound unnerves him, and despite his reputation for courage he will desert you in the densest forest.

"Our party had an illustration of this during the trip. When in the midst of a thick bush, ten miles away from any settlement, we heard this doleful noise, which we mistook for the cry of distress of, perhaps, some misguided traveller. The natives came to a halt. They knew what it was and in their discomfiture started to leave us in the thickest forest, but the sudden discharge of our firearms brought them to their senses."

ITEM OF $30,000

Figures in Suit Against Jones' Estate

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Oct. 19.—The case of Mrs. Delana Curtis of Manchester against the estate of the late Hon. Frank Jones for $400,000 was called for motion in the superior court yesterday afternoon. The Hon. J. S. H. Frink, counsel for the defence, asked for more definite specification, claiming that those furnished by the plaintiff did not give information enough. Mr. Frink read the specifications, and called the attention of the court to the items, saying of the item of over $30,000 for car fare and railroad travel that he thought Mr. Jones, as president of the Boston & Maine, had passes over all roads, but it seemed that Mrs. Curtis paid all his fares.

Attorney General Eastman for the plaintiff argued that there was no cause for their filing specifications; it was only in courtesy that they had.

Judge Peasley ruled that if they relied on the items they must furnish more detailed specifications, but if they would try their case on the special contract clause, in which they claim he promised her $300,000 on condition she did not sue him for debt, they would not need to file specifications. The plaintiff was given until Monday to decide.

Attorney General Eastman asked to have the case marked for after election, as the democratic candidate for governor, Henry F. Hollis, was counsel, and his engagements were such that he could not be present. Judge Peasley ruled that if the case was not reached, Mr. Hollis' engagements would be sufficient cause for holding the case over, but if it was reached, the engagements would not be held sufficient.

CAPTAIN TALBOT'S PLUCK.

Tom Talbot has been reelected a member of the republican state committee, and is still officiating as chairman. Chairman Talbot is getting a good deal of credit for being the only man who ever had the courage to bolt the doors against Senator Lodge. He also cleared out the grafters and bums. The latter are to be kindly dealt with by the local organizations. Thus far the state committee has not had enough mone yto go around.

FRESH AIR AND PURE AIR.

Remember that fresh air is not necessarily pure air. There has been a striking proof of this in a New York hotel where a barrel of dust has been extracted from the fresh air filters in one week. The air was pumped in and in passing through the filters this quantity of dust was extracted. It is plain that by breathing the air before passing through the filters this dust would be drawn into the lungs.

During the same week the automatic sweepers in the hotel gathered two and a half barrels of dust. Now, if the air in a hotel is so charged with dust it is plain that a shop or a store is even more so. The dust bears disease germs and thus the health is threatened. It is only in the country where the breezes blow fresh from the woods and the mountains that real pure air is obtained. It is next to impossible to get a mouthful of absolutely pure air within the confines of a city.

A FEW ADVANTAGES OF RECIPROCITY WITH CANADA.

An agricultural journal has calculated that it costs now $4500 to build a house that seven years ago could have been built for $2800. The Dingley duties on lumber, structural steel, nails and other materials of house-building are held to account for most of the rise. This is a kind of "prosperity" that worries the average man, no matter how much the capitalists and Secretary of the Treasury Shaw may enjoy it.—Boston Traveller.

With a reciprocity arrangement with Canada, under which lumber could be imported free from the provinces, the cost of lumber for building houses would be greatly reduced; and as a result a greater proportion of people could afford to build and own their homes. With the cost of building material reduced a reduction in rents would follow for the benefit of those who cannot afford either to build or to buy their homes. Thus reciprocity with Canada would benefit the masses. But this is but one instance of its benefits. The advantage which the provinces offer for the production of pulp would be of vast advantage to the newspaper publishers as it would afford some relief against the oppressive charges of the paper trust.

THE RESTORATION OF THE CANTEEN.

The officials of the United States army have reported in favor of restoring the army canteen, stating that its absence has caused desertions, has led men to dives and brothels and caused demoralization more or less general. This is a very broad statement. It would be a most regrettable matter if the government should admit that it cannot run the army organization, even in time of peace, without the exhilirating influences of the canteen. Is it not possible to get recruits who can conform to army rules without the use of liquor? Does it really improve the soldiers to allow them to use liquor even without indulging to excess? But if they are prone to drink to excess outside the sphere of camp discipline, will they not do the same through the canteen if allowed the opportunity?

If the soldiers were engaged in a terrible warfare, such as is now raging in the far east, the government might be excused for granting their demand for a reasonable supply of liquor. But in time of peace while the soldiers are in training or awaiting a call for duty, we do not think it is right or proper to maintain saloons for their special accommodation. Apparently the army officers appeal for its restoration as a choice of evils, but their surrender to the demand among the men for intoxicants is anything but creditable to their capacity for maintaining discipline. It is suggestive of the mother's appeal to her child—"Now be a good boy and I'll give you some candy."

GOVERNMENT SURRENDER TO THE TRUSTS.

It is openly stated on what is acknowledged as the best authority that the appeal of the republican party for funds and the collection of funds from large corporations is accompanied by the promise of the party leaders that the administration's crusade against illegal combinations shall cease.

It is well known that Mr. Cortelyou is the close personal friend of the president, that he will return to the cabinet, and in that capacity he will be in a position to make good his promises providing that in any case, the republican party be returned to power.

It is understood that Mr. Cortelyou has given Mr. Morgan, as representing the money power, his promise on the authority of the president that the moneyed interests will be well guarded.

The contributions are pouring in from trusts and combines that feared the enforcement of the law when proceedings were entered against the Northern Securities company and against the beef trust. Have they surrendered to Roosevelt or has he given them indirect assurance of future protection in case he be elected?

On the authority of the New York Times, the New York World and the Brooklyn Eagle, there has been no surrender on the part of the trusts. Wall street has been appealed to for campaign funds and Wall street is not in the habit of paying out money to no purpose. Morgan and the other magnates of the money power received assurances of indulgent treatment before they opened their purse strings to furnish the funds to purchase Roosevelt's election.

As secretary of the department of commerce, Mr. Cortelyou was brought into touch with the great speculative combines and he was selected by the president because of the fact that he was in a position to approach them on the contribution question. From a spirit of law enforcement taken on by the president, he has relapsed into a state of masterly inactivity. No more shackles are being forged for the offending corporations. The government is standing pat, pointing to the single case in which it applied the anti-trust law as it should have had, the same law applied in dozens of cases. There is no flaunting of promises of law enforcement against the trusts. The strenuous work of the campaign is on. The trusts have been appealed to for the funds necessary to purchase the close states and they are responding with great magnanimity, with the understanding that their action will be duly reciprocated in case Roosevelt be returned to power.

Is it not plain that if the president meant to push these illegal combines, he would instruct Mr. Cortelyou to accept no contribution from them. He is compromising with the law breakers whether he gives a promise or not by the mere acceptance of their money.

Suppose the liquor dealers of Lowell combined to elect the candidate of their choice mayor of the city, suppose they subscribed large amounts to purchase votes for him and suppose that they succeeded in electing him. Would that mayor be likely to appoint a license commissioner who would push the liquor dealers? Not much.

So it is with the president. Let the trusts but pay for his election and in return he will be called upon to appoint their choice for attorney general.

That is the way the president will repay the trusts. A corporation tool like Knox will be appointed to enforce the law and he will take particular care not to enforce the law unless popular clamor moves the president to order proceedings in some special case. That is the arrangement. It is wholly satisfactory to the trusts and the speculative combines.

SEEN AND HEARD

Have you taken a stroll in the woods lately and viewed the colors that an artist can paint?

Jennie Richards, the young woman who was removed from the police station to the City farm a few days ago told the authorities at the farm yesterday afternoon that her home is at 1212 Elm street, Manchester, N. H. She said that she has been living at Nashua for the last six months and that she went to Boston several weeks ago. Last week, she said, she came to Lowell and she could not tell much about what had happened since her arrival in this city, except that she spent one night in the woods. She used to live in Howard street but she hasn't any friends or relatives living in this city at the present time.

I might have led you in the pleasant ways—
In valleys where the sweetest violets blow;
I might have made a music in your days;—
Love did not know, sweetheart, Love did not know!
I might have given you rarest wreaths of Fame.
And made your life in lyric numbers flow;—
Taught Lolier stars in your dim skies to flame.—
Love did not know, sweetheart, Love did not know.
This is the grief that fills the phantom years,
Where only thorns around your dear feet grow!
This thought has left to me a world of tears;—
Love did not know, sweetheart, Love did not know!

"Have you something in brown to match this?"

The clerk glanced up inquiringly at the tall woman, who held out nothing but a Pomeranian dog, which she was placing upon the counter. He held out his hand politely and questioningly.

"This," explained the woman, patting the little feathery dog.

The man still held out his hand, a dazed look growing on his face.

"I want a walking suit to match my dog," the woman said.

The sample barked and rolled the clerk's attention to business.

"I am sure we can do it, madam," murmured the clerk, glancing over the golden-brown of the dog's coat. "He's just in the stylish color."

"I know, and that's what put into my head the idea of having a suit to match him. A friend of mine has a black Pomeranian and she's got a black suit on purpose to wear with him. The effect is stunning, but I think mine will be more so. It is funny that his coat should be just the yellow brown that is the rage this spring."

To be sure that she was getting just the right shade, the material and the dog were carried to the door into the strong sunlight. A perfect match sent the woman with face wreathed with satisfaction into other departments with her precious sample tucked under her arm.

With a smile of accomplished purpose she left the shoe, hosiery and millinery department.

Some of the retail druggists in the city are wondering whether they have recently been "up against" a clever swindling scheme or whether it is merely a curious coincidence, says the Portland, Me., Argus. As one druggist tells the story he was recently approached by a well dressed woman, a stranger to him, who asked for a certain proprietary preparation that he did not have in stock. He had heard of it, but it had never appealed to him with any degree of force as a valuable curative agent and so he did not take pains to stock up on it.

In a short time a youngish man, also well dressed and also a stranger to the druggist, dropped in and asked for the same article. He seemed very much put out that he was not able to get it and expressed himself quite freely as to the enterprise and size of a drug store which pretended to be a good one, yet which did not keep such a standard article as this.

Within an hour two ladies came in and asked for this same article. They were even more surprised than the man had been that the druggist did not keep it. They talked to each other very audibly about how Mrs. "Sweet" had recommended this store as being thoroughly up-to-date and how they, thought, of course, they could get what they wanted there. Of course it was not kept at every seven by nine drug store that is operated in a prohibition city, they said, but in all really good, first-class legitimate drug stores they had always been able to find it.

These two women who came in last were women who live here and who were recognized by the druggist, although he does not know the name of either one of them. He knows they live here because he has often seen them on the streets, but who they are or where they live he is unable to state. He is in doubt about the Mrs. Sweet referred to also.

Two days after these people came upon him a slick looking traveling man representing the house that sells this self-same article of commerce came along and talked it to the drug man so strongly that in view of his repeated calls for it he ordered some and it came along C. O. D. in short order. And it has been on the shelves ever since. The druggist said nothing for a few days and then he began to talk about it to others of his trades and it came out that no less than five different stores had been dealt with in the self-same way.

Then the druggist woke up. To be sure it may have all been a mere coincidence, but they feel that they were made the victims of a nice slick swindle worked to the queen's taste. It looks as though the three women and the nice young man who called for the article were what are generally known as "cappers" for the salesman who came along afterward and who booked the large order and got his money for the same.

One of the druggists asked the mercantile agency for some facts about the house for which the traveling man said he worked and the reply was "This house went out of business three years ago."

INTERESTING PAPER

READ BEFORE LADIES' MISSION CIRCLE.

The Ladies' Mission Circle of St. Paul's M. E. church met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. P. Ritchie in Loring street.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Charles H. Stowell, who is out of the city, Miss Emma L. Bradley presided.

Miss Eleanor Doggett, who is on a furlough from her two years of service as teacher in the Orange Park, Florida mission school, which is located near Jacksonville, and where colored children are taught, gave a most interesting account of her work. The mission is supported by the Congregational home missionary board, and besides the instruction given in the regular English branches, household duties are taught the girls, and the boys receive lessons in manual training. The colored children are apt pupils and there is a fine field of labor for northern women.

Miss Doggett experienced the usual treatment accorded white women of the north, who engage in teaching the negro in the south—she was not accorded a cordial welcome among the white women of the community she taught. She showed a number of pictures of the school house and pupils, and also of the school house where Harriet Beecher Stowe taught many years ago.

Miss Elizabeth Stingham, the church missionary, read a paper on Mormonism.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. James Williamson and Mrs. Merton Glidden.

The attendance was large and a profitable afternoon was spent.

You can't expect to weave white satin with blackened hands, any more than you can expect good results from papers with a bogus circulation.

SENATOR PROCTOR

RE-ELECTED TO THE UNITED STATES SENATE.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 19.—Senator Redfield Proctor was re-elected to the United States senate by the Vermont legislature yesterday. His election will be confirmed today by the usual joint session of the two houses.

In the upper branch of the legislature, every vote cast was for Senator Proctor, but in the house the democrats supported their candidate, John H. Senter, of this city. Out of the 236 votes cast, 205 were for Senator Proctor and 31 for Mr. Senter. Ten members were not present when the vote was taken.

Senator Proctor will be present at the joint session of the legislature today after the vote is formally announced and he will address the legislature.

GONE TEN YEARS

MOTHER AT LAST HEARS FROM HER SON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—A letter from Robert H. Huerab, who disappeared 10 years ago, was received yesterday by his mother, who lives at 528 East 152d street. Ten years ago Huerab left his home in Aix-la-Chapelle to go to Cape Town. The vessel he sailed on was never heard from again and his family gave him up as lost. Soon after his departure the family came to New York.

A few days ago a cablegram came to his mother signed "Rageita," and telling of his safe return. Rugeita is the name of a cousin who resided at 500 East 143d street. Huerab's mother thought the despatch was some sort of hoax until a letter was received from her son yesterday in which he says among other things that he had abandoned his own name and adopted his cousin's. He tells of many months of wandering in Africa and his ultimate falling into good fortune. He says:

"I have accumulated a considerable fortune and intend coming to America when the weather becomes warmer. I have spent the last six years in Te-te, Portuguese Africa, and fear the cold of New York."

Mrs. Huerab when seen last night said: "Yes, it is true that we have heard from my son and that he is coming here in the spring. We had given him up for lost for many years, and it was a great surprise to hear from him."

Huerab says in his letter that he has spent the time of his wanderings with none but "black men."

CABINET MEETING

DECIDED TO ATTEND TO PANAMA'S COMPLAINT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The differences between the administration and the republic of Panama growing out of the construction of the canal, the existence of which trouble has been officially denied several times, constituted almost the sole subject of discussion at the cabinet meeting yesterday.

The published charges of Senor Obaldia, the minister from Panama, that the rights of Panama are being disregarded, and complaints direct from the Isthmian government, have aroused the fear that if something to conciliate the new republic is not done, there may be trouble on the isthmus which might affect the campaign.

Panama contends that this country was given control of the canal strip only for the purpose of building and guarding the canal, and that the exercise of such absolute control as the canal commission has assumed would virtually mean the establishment of an American republic within the borders of Panama.

Panama objects seriously to the levying of duties on goods, particularly fruits and foodstuffs, shipped into the canal zone from the immediately adjoining country.

It was decided to make some concessions to Panama in the hope that harmony will be restored.

It is predicted that the adjustment of all differences which may hereafter arise will be placed in the hands of Mr. Barrett, and that the Panama government will have no further cause to complain of the arbitrary methods of Gen. Davis and Admiral Walker.

"YOUNG CORBETT"

MATCHED TO MEET JABEZ WHITE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—A match for a $10,000 side bet was finally arranged early yesterday between William Rothwell ("Young Corbett") and Jabez White, the English lightweight champion. The fight will take place in London on Nov. 30.

Charles Mitchell, the former heavyweight prize fighter, conducted the negotiations on behalf of White.

An odd feature of the match is that Charles White, the American referee, will officiate. It was agreed that both sides would abide by his interpretation of Queensbery rules.

Mitchell demurred over Rothwell's program for an earlier fight in California, but the American declared it would make no difference and that he should insist on carrying out his plan to box Nelson first.

BIG BLACK BEAR

FARMER FULCHER SAW ANIMAL IN HIS ORCHARD.

UTICA, Oct. 18.—Albert Fulcher, a farmer living near Camden, galloped into that village astride one of his plough horses yesterday and reported that he had seen a black bear near his home, a mile from the village. Bears are not exactly common in that neighborhood, and the mere announcement was enough to throw the sportsmen of the village into a fever of excitement, but when Mr. Fulcher added that the bear was a great, big, fat fellow, that would weigh about four hundred pounds, then there was a scramble to bag it.

All the good guns and some of the old guns were hastily taken down. There was a hurrying and scurrying for ammunition of the right kind, and it was not long before fifty men were headed for Wolcott Hill to interview Bruin. There were twenty-two men in one party. Mr. Fulcher said that he saw the bear in his orchard. The animal was tearing open sacks of apples which had been left out over night. At last reports the bear had not been overtaken.

KNIGHTS OF MALTA.

There was a large gathering of Knights of Malta at the Odd Fellows' temple in Middlesex street last night to witness the work of the degree of the Red Cross and Sepulchre, which was performed by the degree team of Lowell Commandery, No. 261, A. I. O. K. of M.

MAN STABBED

WHILE HE WAS DRIVING NEAR CATSKILL.

CATSKILL, N. Y., Oct. 19.—William Walters of Jersey City was stabbed twice near here yesterday and is in a critical condition at the home of a relative at Green Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Walters own a summer cottage at the lake and John and Charles Deer, brothers of Mrs. Walters, live there the year round.

Walters and his family started yesterday to drive to Catskill where they intended to board a night boat for New York. While on the way Walters was assaulted by two men, who pulled him out of the vehicle and beat and stabbed him. Sheriff Post was notified and with four deputies, left for the scene. Charles Deer was arrested on suspicion and the officers are looking for his brother John.

CONFERRED WITH PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—W. Murray Crane, the newly appointed senator from Massachusetts, was in conference with President Roosevelt for some time at the White House last night. Mr. Crane was averse to talking about his visit, further than to say that it was made at the invitation of the president. He returned to Boston on a late train.

Perfect Laundry Work

SOME FIVE years ago we were induced, through words of praise heard on several occasions, to send our personal work to the E. & R. Laundry at Cambridge. We were agreeably surprised, owing to our former experience with laundries, to find the clothes returned to us, week after week, in splendid condition and without the stamp of hard usage that so many laundries place upon their output.

We were so well pleased that we mentioned the fact to numerous customers of ours, who in their turn were also well pleased.

The work was so well done, the clothes were returned so spotless, being neither torn, frayed, nor faded, that from the satisfaction of these customers and their expression of such to others, a considerable business for the E. & R. Laundry has grown up in Lowell.

Although many others wished to enjoy the benefit of the E. & R. work, the trouble of bundling and sending by express, each week, their package of laundry deterred them from so doing.

A desire to accommodate these people and others who appreciate fine work has been the means of our making special arrangements with the E. & R. Laundry, whereby we have become authorized agents of that concern.

The E. & R. Laundry has been established for many years, and today it stands at the head. In addition to the demands of man, it has always made a special effort in catering to the laundry needs of the "well-groomed" woman. It has a special department where shirt waists, white skirts, and the dainty lingerie of womankind are carefully washed and ironed, entirely by hand.

Lace curtains, embroideries, and delicate material of all kinds will be as carefully and more scientifically handled by them than in your home.

The E. & R. Laundry, now occupies a new building, completed within a few weeks, devoted entirely to its work, and equipped with every modern device. All of the necessary mechanical operations being done by electricity, it is undoubtedly the most perfectly appointed laundry in existence.

The hygienic conditions are all that the most extreme care can make them; no work is accepted from hospitals, nor, from any other source where the presence of a contagious disease is suspected.

The E. & R. Laundry is now prepared to do the entire family washing, flat work for 35 cents the dozen. We shall be pleased to furnish laundry lists giving full information; a postal will bring them.

From this time on, packages of laundry left at our store on Mondays, not later than 4 o'clock in the afternoon, will be returned to the owners the following Friday, after 2 P. M.

JOHN HENDRICKS

Honored by Middlesex County Board A. O. H.

REV. FR. FLYNN ELECTED COUNTY CHAPLAIN

Biennial Session Held in Cambridge

The biennial session of the Middlesex county board of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in Institute hall, East Cambridge, yesterday and last night, went unanimously against any alliance between America and England.

It was the largest county convention ever held in Middlesex, the five officers of each of the 48 divisions being present when the gathering was called to order at 10.30 by President Patrick J Beirne.

The convention was welcomed by William T. Phelan, who spoke for the nine Cambridge divisions that had united in preparing a banquet for the delegates. He dwelt on the wonderful growth of the order in that section of the county, and then introduced Mayor Daly, who gave the delegates a cordial greeting in behalf of the city.

In doing so he told of the important part that Irish men and women have taken in upbuilding Cambridge; cited the great number of men of that race who had responded to the country's call from the time the first shot was fired in the revolution to the outbreak of the war with Spain, and then spoke of the great benefit that has resulted from membership in the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

The church of the Sacred Heart, in whose parish the convention was held, was represented by Rev. Michael P. Muhan, who extended the greetings of the church. The responses were made by County President Beirne.

Mr. Beirne in his address congratulated the organization on the harmony existing in the county and on the fact that again it was able to show a large net increase in members.

"Today," said Mr. Beirne, "the organization is stronger in this county than for years. With 48 divisions in good standing and a membership of 6500, there is everything to be proud of. While the payments from the sick and general funds have greatly increased, the total amount in the treasury, $50,000, shows a net increase of close to $12,000. Since the last convention the order paid out $28,000 in benefits."

He felt that the Irish people in America have every reason to be pleased at the way things are going on in Ireland.

He urged that the convention should go on record against everything that tends to an Anglo-Saxon alliance, and show its appreciation of the work done for the Irish cause by George Frisbie Hoar.

The most important legislation enacted was that which calls for the county board to consist of the president of every division in the county who will work in conjunction with the county officers.

There were a number of candidates for all the offices, and the election, which began at 3 o'clock, lasted until long after 8. The officers elected are: John F. Donnelly of Cambridge, president; John Hendricks of Lowell, vice president; Thomas F. Gavin of Watertown, treasurer; Joseph P. Cooney of Wakefield, financial secretary; James R. Corbishley, recording secretary; Rev. John Patrick Flynn of Lowell, county chaplain.

During the day there were interesting addresses by State President Matthew Cummings of Neponset and by Rev. Fr. Flynn of Lowell.

John F. Donnelly, the newly-chosen county president, was born in Ireland 42 years ago, and has been a resident of Cambridge since he was 17 years old. He became a member of the A. O. H. 24 years ago. He is now serving his seventh year as president of division 15 of Cambridge, one of the oldest and strongest divisions in this state. He is employed in the Cambridge park system.

BARGE WRECKED

VALUABLE CARGOE IS A TOTAL LOSS.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 19.—Advices to owners say that the steamer Havana from Halifax towing a barge to Hamilton Inlet, Labrador, laden with barrels of flour, 100 barrels of pork and other merchandise, was struck by a gale in the straits of Belle Isle on Saturday and the cable parted. The Havana sheltered at Chateau but the barge became a wreck, breaking in two parts and drifted ashore on Sunday at Powers Cove. Everything was lost. The freight was for a lumber concern in Grand River, Hamilton Inlet, and this was the second loss met by them this year, the steamer Viking with a full cargo having been lost in August.

The choir of the First Congregational church was entertained last night by Miss Ella M. Martel at her home in June street. During the evening refreshments were served by Caterer Evans. A most pleasant evening was spent by all.

THREW UP JOB

Pat Cahill Tired of Teaching Boxing

Pat Cahill, the ex-amateur middleweight champion fighter of America who is well known in Lowell, and who is a particular friend of Martin Flaherty, was hired by the Rev. John L. Scudder, pastor of the First Congregational church of Jersey City, to teach boxing lessons in the People's Palace, which Joseph Milbank, a New York banker, built and finished for the church.

Cahill held the job a short time and then threw it up.

It had been announced that the "professor," who keeps a saloon at 325 Grove street, Jersey City, would start last night to instruct a class of Sunday school boys and others in the art of self-defence, and a large number of persons visited the anti-saloon institution, hoping to get a chance to see the saloonkeeper as he showed the boys how "to put up their dukes." Many were disappointed when Dr. Scudder announced that Cahill wouldn't put in an appearance for the reason that he was no longer teacher of boxing.

Cahill's selection as boxing master was criticized by many of Dr. Scudder's parishioners because the ex-pugilist was engaged in the liquor business. Those who had an opportunity told the minister that they didn't like the idea at all and others sent him expressions of opinion by mail. Dr. Scudder hastened to explain to everybody that he didn't know at the time he made a contract with Cahill that he was in the ginmill business. He liked the ex-pugilist's style so well that he forgot to ask him what he did for a living.

Dr. Scudder had a heart-to-heart talk with Cahill and explained the situation. The saloonkeeper offered to relieve the minister from his contract.

The class is now without a teacher and Dr. Scudder is looking for some one to fill the vacancy. Dr. Scudder made the following statement Monday night:

Owing to certain inaccuracies in the newspapers, I desire to state that Patrick Cahill was secured as teacher of boxing in the People's Palace, but at the time we were not aware that he was a saloonkeeper, and he has now voluntarily retired from the situation offered him, because of the opposition caused by the business he is engaged in. The situation, both for him and the People's Palace, was a delicate one, but I find him every inch a gentleman. He does not wish to be a bone of contention and has been both philosophical and gracious in his consideration of the peculiar situation we have been placed in.

The People's Palace will teach wrestling, fencing, boxing, tumbling and other athletic sports, which are all desirable, if kept within proper bounds. We wanted him to teach our young men the art of self defence, because he is a master in that line of work, having been amateur middleweight champion of America for some eight or ten years. Any man who can hold that position is able to teach boxing and do it well. I don't want an old woman or a D. D. to give instruction in this line. We want some one who understands the business.

Self protection is nature's first law, and I have little respect for a man who cannot protect himself with his fists, if occasion should call for their use. My father made me learn to box as a boy. In college I gave lessons in boxing to fellow students, and I would be boxing today if it were not for my spectacles.

If it were not for the saloon business Mr. Cahill would be boxing master in the People's Palace today, and I would want him there. He has never been a professional prize fighter; he has been an amateur gentleman sparrer, and competent to teach gentlemen how to box.

As our institution is substantially an anti-saloon enterprise, its interests demand that our ways should part. He has severed his connection with us before a lesson has been given. His manly way of meeting the situation has won my admiration, and in spite of his business he and I shall always be friends.

LAMP UPSET

JOHN COOK WAS SEVERELY BURNED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—While John Cook, a deckhand on the barge Thomas J. Freeman of Haverstraw, lying at the foot of East Nineteenth street, was painting in the hold Monday afternoon, he upset a lamp, which ignited the paint and caused a fierce fire. Cook was badly burned, but managed to reach the deck, where others of the crew rolled him in a piece of sail cloth and tore off his burning clothes. He was taken to Bellevue, where his condition is said to be serious.

The fireboat William L. Strong ran alongside the barge and put out the fire.

KNIGHTS OF MALTA.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18—The twenty-first annual convention of the supreme commandery of the ancient and illustrious order of the Knights of Malta began here today. Several hundred delegates attended. The day sessions were practically devoted to the reports of officers and committees. W. J. Rugh of Pittsburg, the supreme treasurer, announced a balance on hand of $2204.

The committee recommended that the per capita tax remain at 34 cents for subordinate commanderies under the immediate jurisdiction of the subordinate supreme commandery and 12 cents per capita for each member reported by grand commanderies.

HEAVY LOSSES

Several Factories Destroyed by Fire

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 19.—The R. A. Patterson tobacco factory No. 2, here was practically destroyed by fire last night. Loss about $100,000, covered by insurance. The fire is thought to have been due to spontaneous combustion in the granulating department. About 250 persons were employed in the plant.

FIFTEEN BUILDINGS BURNED.

STARKVILLE, Miss., Oct. 19.—Fifteen buildings were destroyed by fire yesterday at Sturgis, Miss. The entire business part of the town, except one store was swept away. The loss is not stated.

LOSS IS $200,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Fire last night destroyed the works of the Anchor Rubber Tire company at Setauket, L. I. The loss is estimated at $200,000, most of which was upon machinery and finished and unfinished stock. The cause of the fire is not known.

IN SIX ROUNDS

COLE HAD THE BETTER OF LARRY TEMPLE.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—After six rounds of hard, fast fighting, George Cole of this city had a shade on Larry Temple of New York in the wind-up at Manhattan athletic club last night.

When the men entered the ring it was easily seen that Cole had an advantage in height and reach, and owing to the advantage in reach he used a left jab that greatly bothered Temple. In the mixup Temple gained an advantage, but the superior foot work and cleverness of the Philadelphian was too much for his opponent.

In the opening round both men appeared afraid of each other and very little fighting was seen. Toward the close of the round Cole landed several hard punches to the face and body without a return. Just as the bell sounded he landed a hard left on Larry's jaw, sending him to the floor. He came up in a dazed condition and walked slowly to his corner.

After many clinches in the next round Temple landed two hard punches on Cole's head and dazed him for a few seconds. The New Yorker failed to follow up his advantage and Cole came back strong and had Temple worried for the rest of the round.

Both men clinched often during the third, and Temple was content to hang on until the referee separated them.

In the next two rounds Cole punished his opponent about the body and face, and had him bleeding from the mouth. Temple appeared worried and tried to avoid Cole by dodging. Toward the close of both rounds Temple took a brace and forced Cole to break ground. He landed several hard punches to the nose and body, and in the fifth had Cole against the ropes bleeding from the mouth. His blows seemed to lack steam and did not do much damage.

In the last round Temple rushed from his corner and started after Cole, determined to end the fight. Cole, however, was too shifty and after each lead that Temple would make he would land hard punches to the body. These blows took some of the steam out of Temple and the bell was welcomed and found both men clinching.

"TAKES COURAGE"

STATEMENT IN LETTER LEFT BY SUICIDE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—"It is now 3 o'clock. It has been said that a person is a coward who commits suicide. Well, it takes plenty of courage for me to do it. I have tried to put it off for two years, but the incident of today is about the worst that can happen me. Some people are born to live and some are born to die. Those that are in the inside will understand all. Say goodby to mother and 'L.' I have tried hard to think there is a God. If there was one, I know He would not permit me to do this. I know there is no God, so goodby, JOHN S. SPIER."

"I want my body cremated and the ashes thrown away."

Such is the letter left by a man who deliberately committed suicide yesterday by inhaling illuminating gas in the Clarendon hotel, 18th street and 4th avenue. He engaged a room about 2.30 in the afternoon; an hour and 40 minutes later he was found unconscious; an hour more and he was dead.

Spier registered at the hotel as "John S. Lane, Albany."

He was well dressed, wearing a blue suit and patent leather shoes. He was about 35 years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and dark hair, slightly gray.

SERIOUSLY INJURED

BOY RUN OVER BY A PASSING TRAIN.

BOSTON, Oct. 19—Two Dorchester high school boys, Charles Campbell and Carroll Gleason, were walking along the embankment adjoining the tracks of the N. Y., N. H. & H. Midland division station at Harvard street, Dorchester, about 5 p. m. yesterday, when Campbell stumbled, and missing his footing, rolled down on the tracks. A freight train was passing at the time, and by the force of his fall the lower part of his body was thrown against the rails, his legs striking in front of the rear truck of the last car.

Young Gleason, who was walking some little distance ahead of his companion, had turned to call Campbell's attention to some object when he caught sight of his friend lying on the tracks. In an instant he was bending over the other trying bravely to staunch the flow of blood and speaking words of sympathy and encouragement.

Campbell groaned piteously as Gleason lifted him from the tracks and then relapsed into a state of unconsciousness. Having made his chum as comfortable as possible, Gleason ran down the tracks to summon a physician. A doctor was soon found, who rendered such aid that it was possible to convey the boy to the depot and from there on a train to the Massachusetts general hospital.

It was found that his left leg had been cut off just below the knee and that his right foot had been badly crushed. His condition is critical.

The injured lad's mother was in ignorance of the accident until late in the evening. She had been away during the afternoon and did not learn of it until her return home shortly before 8 o'clock. She was overcome when the details were told her, but in time recovered sufficiently to visit the hospital in a carriage.

A MATTER OF HEALTH

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

HAS NO SUBSTITUTE

PRICE OF COTTON

SOME DISCUSSION ALSO OF ITS CONSUMPTION.

Mr. Brown of New Orleans is using the same kind of argument that Mr. Sully of New York used last year in support of the theory of a permanent high price for cotton. Mr. Sully was permitted to use the pages of a highly respectable magazine to convince the people that they must pay more for cotton goods and continue to wear out just as much in order to support the bull movement of the speculators, but he failed of his purpose and went down under a break of prices later on. It is evident that this year's cotton crop is going to be a large one, possibly unprecedented, but Mr. Brown is arguing that the price must keep up because the "world's requirements" for cotton goods have increased, partly as a result of the short supply of the last year or two, and because the consumer is "fully able to pay present prices for his needs." The gist of Mr. Sully's argument was that the people could afford to pay the high prices and must buy all the goods made to supply their needs at such cost as the supply and price of the material made necessary.

It is quite true that the stoppage of mills and the diminished production of cotton fabrics was primarily due to lack of material rather than price, though one incident was the cause of the other, but it is equally true that the diminished supply of goods failed to have the effect of advancing their price proportionately, because consumers refused to buy them. Whether they could afford to keep up their rate of consumption or not, they refused to do it and mills had to cut wages and shut down their machinery, not altogether because they could not get cotton, but because there was a dead loss in converting it into cloth at the price for which this could be sold. There was not enough cotton to go around and meet all requirements of the mills, but there was more than enough to meet the requirements of consumers at the prevailing prices of goods, as was proved by the accumulation of stocks at the same time that production was curtailed, though those prices were not sufficient to return a profit to the manufacturers.

It may be as Mr. Bowen says that on the first of September "the supply of raw cotton, visible and invisible, and the supply of cotton goods and cotton yarns were the smallest in proportion to requirements in the history of statistics," but it does not follow that the deficiency is to be fully made up and "requirements" maintained at the prices occasioned by a period of shortage. "Requirements" is an elastic term and does not represent a fixed need. Existing mills may require about so much cotton to keep their machinery and their operatives fully employed, but they are not the consumers. The latter do not require any fixed quantity of cotton goods,—all the mill can make, for instance, or all that can be made from the yield of the year's cotton crop. How much they will take depends, not upon how much can be supplied, but upon how much the goods will cost. It is of no use to tell them that they need so much and can afford to pay a certain price for it. The mass of people have too much use for their small incomes to be swayed by any such persuasion.

The fact of the matter is that the consumers of cotton goods, who have been economizing while the material was above ten cents a pound even though the price of cloth was not correspondingly high, will continue to economize so long as that price for the material is maintained. The fact that there is plenty of it, and that the mills can operate to their full capacity again, will not induce them to buy all the goods made unless the price comes down. The notion that just as much cotton goods can be sold with the price of cotton at ten or twelve cents a pound, as when it is at seven to nine cents, is fallacious. A crop of 11,000,000 to 12,000,000 bales cannot be sold at the same price per pound as one of 9,000,000 to 10,000,000 bales, or anything like it, for consumption will be determined not by the quantity to be had at some price, but by the actual cost of the finished goods to the consumers. A larger supply means a lower price this year just as it has in previous years.

This is the time to buy coal. See Fred H. Rourke, 984 Gorham street.

SENT TO PRISON

MARY TAYLOR ONCE WAS A DORCHESTER BELLE.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—Mary E. Taylor, formerly a silverware saleswoman in a department store and once a prominent soloist in Dorchester churches, who was arrested 14 months ago by inspector Hart on a charge of larceny, and whose sentence has been deferred many times owing to illness, was committed by Judge Sherman in the superior criminal court yesterday to the house of correction for two years, after she had pleaded guilty to two counts of the indictment.

There are many pathetic circumstances connected with the arrest and sentence of Mary E. Taylor, who about six years ago was a belle in the Dorchester district. Her marriage to James H. Taylor, according to her counsel, proved unhappy and she was obliged to work for her living. From the silverware department in the store where she worked articles were missed daily. One day Inspector Hart saw the Taylor woman pawning silverware in a South End place. An investigation followed and it was found that the woman had carried away silverware every day in the bloomers she wore. Her arrest occurred Aug. 26, 1903, and much of the property stolen was found at her home and in South End pawnshops. Friends went to her assistance and considerable property was returned to the firm. The total value of the goods stolen amounts to $685.

After her arrest the woman was taken violently ill and for a time her friends feared she was mentally deranged. When she was called for sentence a year ago her case was postponed, owing to her condition, and several times after that the case was again continued as she was undergoing treatment at a sanitarium.

In addition to her own troubles her husband began to drink heavily and while on probation for drunkenness was arrested for forgery last July. He is now serving an indefinite sentence imposed at the July term.

Trouble, friends allege, drove the defendant to drink, and one morning last week she was found in the dock of the municipal criminal court. The upper court officials were made aware of the fact that she was in custody for drunkenness and she was brought to the superior court on a default warrant and the drunk charge was placed on file.

Yesterday the woman had nothing to say when her case was called, but wept when sentence was pronounced.

Smith was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in the penitentiary at Anamosa. As trustee of large estates, he recently acknowledged embezzlement of $120,000.

HORNE COAL CO.

FOR GOVERNOR— WILLIAM L. DOUGLAS

The Best Type of a Self-Made Man—Elect Him Governor and Massachusetts' Appeal for Reciprocal Trade Treaties Will Be Heeded at Washington.

The career of the Hon. William L. Douglas, who has been nominated for Governor, is one possible only in such a country as ours. Born of worldly poor and hard-working parents, deprived by death at the age of five of the assistance and guiding hand of a father, he has risen, step by step, to his present position of honor and prosperity. His life work should prove an inspiration to every poor but ambitious boy. His achievement is a gratification to every mother, and strengthens the hope for the future of her own.

The life work of William L. Douglas is unique, in that he has been able, by hard and diligent labor to educate himself and rise from a penniless orphan to a commanding position in his chosen vocation. But, above and beyond all, and standing out in bold relief, is the fact that never has he lost his interest in the uplifting of the poor, the lowly and the unfortunate. Not one dollar of his money, be it said to his credit, has been wrung from the overworked or underpaid.

All through his life of nearly sixty years he has devoted his energies to making the world better because he lived in it; to ennobling labor, improving the working and living conditions, and to a better understanding between those who work and those who pay. He has demonstrated that it is entirely possible to employ a large army of workers in a competitive business, pay the highest wages, work the shortest hours, and still attain the greatest financial success for himself and those associated with him. In his great factories at Brockton the average pay of his employes for the fifty-two weeks of the last year was $14.01. It must be remembered, of course, that this sum does not include foremen or any high-salaried people. It represents, multiplied by fifty-two, the average annual earnings of shoe makers exclusively. These figures are nearly double the annual average wage in Massachusetts. And it can be said in passing that this comparatively high earning capacity for the workers is not the only benefit derived from employment by a humane man. The working conditions, from a moral and sanitary point of view, are of the very best.

By the foresight of William L. Douglas, while serving as a senator of the Commonwealth, he caused to be enacted the law creating the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation. He was the first Massachusetts manufacturer to join with his employes in adopting arbitration in his business affairs; and because they adopted the golden rule for their guidance each side has accepted the decisions of that board without question. Thus has he succeeded in keeping his men continuously employed. No strike has occurred, no wheel has been stopped, no door has been closed, no workman has been turned back, no family has been left without bread; but in all this time every man received each week a full pay envelope. The rule worked well in this case, for it must always work well where it is fairly tried, for it depends for its success not upon the rigor of stern laws, but upon the kindness of human hearts. William L. Douglas blazed the way for industrial peace and prosperity for the worker, as well as for himself.

His election as Governor of Massachusetts would put a check upon extravagance in State expenditures. In him the people will find no untried man, but one whose ripe judgment affords ample guarantee of wise and economical administration.

If he is elected, every legislative act will receive the careful consideration of a trained business man—one who knows exactly the situation and necessities of both, and whose honesty and judgment will be trusted by both. In him both employer and employe will find a harmonizer, a conciliator, a true friend.

William L. Douglas is a man of the people and for the people. He is conservative, but he loves mankind more than he loves money. His judgment is courted by the largest business concerns in the world. He has long been a leader in the movement to secure for New England the markets that are hers by natural right. He has worked earnestly to secure a reciprocity treaty with our Canadian neighbors on the north, that we might extend our markets and better employ our labor.

In him the business interests of the Commonwealth will find a strong believer in reciprocity with Canada in competitive products—one who will stand squarely upon the clear and unequivocal platform adopted by the convention which nominated him—a reciprocity plank in marked contrast to the work of the master jugglers of the opposition. In him the people will find a valiant champion of tariff reform that will reduce the cost of living to our people and give wider markets to our manufacturers.

His ability to manage an enormous commercial enterprise successfully is Mr. Douglas's best recommendation to the voters of the State, that he could fill the position of chief executive of the Commonwealth with marked ability and success. The brain that gives a business of over six millions of dollars a year its impetus would be worth much at the head of the affairs of the Commonwealth. The people of the State could not hire, for money, a man of such ability to be the business manager. But they can elect him. It is this ability for judging men and measures, this ability to grasp situations and analyze them, and this marvellous power for organization and executive direction that he has shown in his business and public life that will induce so many members of other parties to vote for him for Governor of Massachusetts this year.

We are now at the parting of the ways. Unless the true road is taken, Massachusetts industries will rapidly decay. The hour has arrived when a leader is needed. The leader is at hand, ready to go forward. Our leader, William L. Douglas, was born in the historic town of Plymouth 59 years ago. He began life's struggle at the age of seven years, attending school in the intervals of work and pursuing both studies and labor with that characteristic zeal which has since brought him such large rewards. In his career is exemplified every phase of industrial life, for at the age of 31 he had been apprentice, journeyman, foreman and proprietor. The business he then established has been successful, and to-day has grown to immense proportions.

In the domestic circle and in the sphere of charity he has exhibited the traits which ennoble the life of man. No better definition of the term "self-made man" can be found than in his career. Successful in his private business, he possesses in a high degree that public spirit upon which the well-being of every community so largely depends. He has represented his district in the House and in the Senate, and has served his city as councilman and mayor. He has been thrice a delegate to national conventions. No public task was ever shirked by him; no public call was ever left unanswered.

Mr. Douglas is a quiet, unassuming gentleman. Unspoiled by business success, the possession of millions, or the honors that have been his in public life, fealty to his home and the members of his family always has been and is to-day the mainspring of his life.

His philanthropy is well known. He assists with a liberal hand when satisfied of the worthiness of the object, and, although he has shown this side of his character in many public ways, only he and his devoted wife know the hundreds of other cases in which their wealth has been used to help others.

His nearly sixty years of life are unmarred by any selfish act; he believes in the greatest good to the greatest number; he believes in Massachusetts and wants to preserve and extend her industries. This can be accomplished by making of Massachusetts a doubtful political State, to the end that our appeal for justice at Washington will be heeded.

In every grinding struggle of life William L. Douglas has passed the ordeal successfully. He has not failed yet. Men of Massachusetts, give him your support for Governor and he will not fail you now.

PITCHED BATTLE

Soldiers and Bandits Faced Each Other

THREE MEN KILLED AND MANY WOUNDED

The Bandits Were Crazed by Strong Drink

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 19.—Three killed and 15 more or less seriously wounded, was the result of an attack by bandits on a residence near here and a subsequent encounter between the bandits and soldiers who were sent in pursuit of them. The dead:

LAURINO FRIAS, Santa Julia.
NESTOR FLORES, bandit.
Soldier, name unknown.

The wounded:

Vicente Godinez, Santa Julia.
Leonardo Furiquez,
Rodrigo Caledo, bandit.
Petro Herrera, bandit.
Eleven soldiers.

Crazed by drink, three bandits, Flores, Caledo and Herrera, went to the residence of Vicente Godinez at Santa Julia, a northern suburb of this city, and called for Godinez. When he issued from the house, accompanied by Laurino Frias, a servant, the band opened fire upon them. Frias was instantly killed and Godinez badly wounded.

When news of the tragedy reached the authorities of this city, 12 rurales were dispatched to a plantation, whither it was learned the desperadoes had fled. A pitched battle ensued. Not a soldier in the squad escaped unhurt.

JUNIOR Y. M. C. A.

OPENED NEW ROOMS ON HURD STREET.

The new rooms for the junior members of the local Young Men's Christian association in Hurd street were opened last night. The attendance of boys was very large, showing that the membership has greatly increased since the summer.

Mr. H. W. Gibson, of Boston, gave an address to the boys which was a mingling of good advice and funny stories.

Games were enjoyed and refreshments were served by the following ladies of the auxiliary: Mrs. W. G. McKay, Miss Edith Russell, Mrs. John Cole.

MAY AMALGAMATE

English and American Bodies to Unite

NEW YORK, Oct. 19—Two fraternal delegates from the British trades union congress to the next convention of the American Federation of Labor, have sailed from London and upon their arrival plans will be discussed for an amalgamation of the English and American long-shore men in an international union with about 150,000 members.

General Organizer Robinson of the American Federation of Labor states that the movement for amalgamation has been in progress for some years, and that a mass meeting will probably be called here while delegate Wignall of the International long-shore men's union of Great Britain is in America to discuss the question and take preliminary steps toward the amalgamation.

Pending amalgamation, the name of the International Long-shoremen's union has been changed to International Marine and Transport Workers' association. The union also now takes in all workers at the docks, as does the English organization.

COTTON GOODS

MORE BUSINESS BEING DONE IN THE MARKET.

Two things will doubtless be impressed upon the mind of the man who makes even the most casual examination into the condition of the cotton goods market at the present time. The first is that more business is being done than was the case previous to Sept. 1. During June, July and August, it will be remembered, comparatively little activity was to be found in the market, and a belief in a more active season to come, coupled with the comparatively high figure at which raw cotton was then selling, undoubtedly had a great deal to do with the spirit of independence so universally shown by manufacturers and their agents, a spirit, by the way, which is not usually found at such a trying time. It appears reasonably certain that the month of September would see an increase in the number of orders received. Some operators seemed to believe that buyers would be ready at that time to cast their doubts and fears aside, and such may have been disappointed at the result, for it must be confessed that present activity is noticeable only when placed in comparison with the period of dullness just preceding. The habits of the early part of the year were too deeply rooted to be changed at once, and considering the rather erratic manner in which the cotton market has been acting, it is perhaps hardly to be wondered at that buyers are but little disposed to make forward contracts, preferring to buy as they go along and take whatever risks may be incurred through following such a plan of action.

The second point to be brought out in the recent tendency towards increased firmness in many lines. The argument is advanced that stocks of cotton goods have not been growing larger, owing to the fact that the demand has been steadily keeping pace with the supply ever since the policy of curtailment was first decided upon. Buyers have been fighting tooth and nail in an attempt to weaken the sellers' stand on the question of prices, but have in almost every case been forced to acknowledge defeat. The victors in the war of argument still hold that high prices are to be expected, and the developments of the week in review indicate that they still hold the upper hand.—American Wool and Cotton Reporter.

POLYGAMY CHARGED

UNITED STATES OFFICIAL IS UNDER ARREST.

EVANSTON, Wyo., Oct. 19.—William H. Kensington, a leading Mormon and U. S. commissioner at Afton, a Mormon settlement in Uinta county, has been arrested, charges of polygamy being preferred against him. Residents of Afton are greatly excited as the result of the visit of the secret service men of the government said to be gathering evidence against Mormons who it is alleged are practicing polygamy.

ITALIAN BISHOPS

ASK POPE TO ALLOW CATHOLICS TO VOTE.

ROME, Oct. 19—Several bishops of North Italy, including Cardinal Ferrari, archbishop of Milan and a close friend of the pope, have petitioned him personally to consider whether the moment has not arrived to allow Catholics to participate in the general elections. According to the petitioners their absentation from voting during the last 34 years has brought no advantage to the claims of the Vatican, while it has seriously endangered the interests of religion by entrusting power to the open enemies of the church and they believe that if the Catholics are allowed to vote, if not for real clerical candidates at least for conservatives, it would ensure the presence in the chamber of deputies of a strong party capable of preventing the passage of bills aimed against religion. The pope has not yet taken a decision, but he has asked for the opinion of the most authoritative cardinals.

ANGEL SERVANTS

PASTOR TELLS WHAT TO EXPECT IN HEAVEN.

NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 19.—Housekeepers who suffer the usual vexations of the servant problem are taking heart at the utterances of the Rev. E. Hilton Post of Everett, who is conducting nightly revival services at the West End Academy. Domestics who are angels is what Mr. Post promises the long suffering mistress of the house, and, although this is not to come to pass in this world, his listeners were encouraged.

"The angels have never sinned, and you will never be an angel in this world or the next," said Mr. Post. "In heaven the angels will be our domestics. They will come to us and wait on us, glory be, and in that world we are to be the saints. If the angels could they would change places with me."

Mr. Post's picture of heaven made a profound impression and he succeeded in converting one woman.

K. OF C. CARNIVAL

BIG MEETING OF THE GENERAL COMMITTEE.

The Knights of Columbus apartments in the Associate building were crowded last evening at a meeting of the general committee, and several table committees connected with the coming carnival to be held in Huntington hall early in January. Season tickets were distributed last night, and in big sale is expected by reason of the fact that they are 50 cents for six admissions, and entitle the holder to a chance for prizes in gold.

At the meeting of the Ponto Santo table the committee was addressed by Ex-Councilman John J. Mullaney, who has just returned from the St. Louis exposition and who gave a highly interesting talk on his experiences at the Fair. While there Mr. Mullaney made a special note of the attractions and novelties that might be used on the Ponto Santo table and offered several valuable suggestions as to features.

POLITICAL NOTES.

One would think that the fountain in Hosford square had direct connection with John Nolan's establishment on Whipple street and dispensed the "Pale and Mountain Dew" free to all, there is so much talk going on as to who got it there. In a morning paper a few days ago it was reported that Councilman John Donohoe got it there, while in this morning's issue of the same paper Councilman Andrew McAloon declares that he got the fountain there and no one else and he wants the credit of it. But when it comes to arguing about this particular fountain The Sun a long time ago at the request of Police Officer John Frawley, who patrols the beat there, called the attention of the city council to the need of a drinking fountain in Hosford square and suggested that the ward councilmen take hold of the matter, which they did. Now the fountain is there and the voters of ward four will never go parched for the want of a good drink of cold water, and so what's the use of carrying over it. The voters of ward four have reason to appreciate the work of both Councilmen McAloon are entitled to for they have made good campaigners, so cut out your quarrel, have a drink together at the fountain, and work shoulder to shoulder for the success of the whole democratic ticket.

Mr. Timothy Cox, the well-known barber, is a candidate for overseer of the poor in ward nine.

The total number of names added to the list since registration began is 1363 by wards as follows: Ward one, 170; ward two, 116; ward three, 142; ward four, 170; ward five, 136; ward six, 148; ward seven, 159; ward eight, 162; ward nine, 122.

Congressman Ames has opened headquarters in the Swan building with Charles W. Teel in charge. "Charlie" will make a good man for the colonel for he has a experience and knows both the game and the players. The place, however is rather suggestive of the dying swan.

HELD BLAMELESS

Finding in Favor of B. & M. Road

BOSTON, Oct. 19—The full bench of the supreme court yesterday held that the defendant in the case of John Ghertoni, 8 years old, vs. the Boston & Maine Railroad company, was not liable for injuries which the boy received by cracking with a rock and exploding a railroad torpedo signal, which he picked up on a railroad crossing at North Adams and took home, unconscious of the danger in so doing.

The evidence indicated that the torpedo happened to be on the grade crossing through the failure of a flagman, to whom it had been thrown by a brakeman, to pick up. The court holds the company not liable because, in throwing the torpedo back and forth and leaving it there, the brakeman and flagman were not acting within the scope of their employment, as there was nothing to indicate that it was the brakeman's duty to throw a torpedo to a flagman.

The mere fact that the torpedo was found on the railroad's planking is held not sufficient evidence of negligence on the part of the company or its employes, for whose negligence it would be liable, to have warranted the case being submitted to the jury. The defendant's exceptions are sustained, and plaintiff loses a verdict of $300.

Cornelius E. Fearns of Worcester keeps a verdict of $5500 recovered against the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad company, his employer, for personal injuries received by his colliding with a defective railroad gate, at East Cambridge, Oct. 13, 1901, the full bench having yesterday overruled the company's exceptions. The company claimed that the risk of such an accident was not that he assumed and that it was not liable. While ordinarily the railroad company is not liable to its employes injured by the proximity of fixed structures to its tracks, yet the court holds that this case is different, as it was the improper and defective condition of the gates that caused the man's injury, and that he did not assume the risk of injury from such a condition.

The verdict for the defendant in the personal injury suit of Charles E. Gibson, president of the Provident Trust company, vs. the International Trust company stands, the full bench having yesterday in a majority opinion overruled Gibson's exceptions. The court says the facts show that Gibon's injuries were due to accident which could not have been anticipated or foreseen. His injuries were received on April 28, 1896, by a passenger elevator of the defendant's building, where Gibson's company was a tenant, starting while he was leaving it. The elevator was started by the operator clutching the lever to save himself from falling, just as he found that a stool, which he used to sit on, had been removed.

The plaintiff got a substantial verdict at the first trial, which became inoperative by the supreme court subsequently sustaining exceptions taken by the defendant. The present decision is upon exceptions which Gibson took at the second trial.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK

Prophesy Made by Charles E. Adams

GENERAL PROSPERITY IS DUE IN 1905

Annual Meeting of the State Board of Trade

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—The annual meeting of the Massachusetts state board of trade was held at hotel Vendome yesterday, and in many respects it was one of the most important in the 14 years' history of the organization.

The reports of the president and secretary and the chairmen of the various standing committees covered a wide range of subjects of interest to the business world, from the general condition of trade to reciprocity and the textile strike at Fall River.

The meeting opened at 11 o'clock, Pres. Charles E. Adams of Lowell in the chair. After the roll call of delegates Pres. Adams read his annual address, in which he said:

"The year embraced in the period since our last meeting in October, 1903, has not witnessed the general business prosperity that was prophesied, although in many lines of our manufacturing and commercial interests the volume of business and financial returns have been satisfactory.

"Real estate transactions are usually a good indication of commercial prosperity, and it is gratifying to note an increase in prices from the low rates that have prevailed. Sound industrial and railroad securities have strengthened in public opinion, and the general impression of the solid investor is crystallizing into a firm belief that with the presidential election settled, the year 1905 will be one of the most prosperous the country has experienced for many years.

"I recommend that we continue to urge legislation providing for biennial elections in the interest of economy and general welfare of the state, as such change it is estimated would make a saving of nearly $1,000,000 to the citizens of the commonwealth.

"Congress will be petitioned for national legislation that will provide for presidential elections being held once in six or eight years instead of four years, and it is recommended that we cooperate with kindred organizations in advancing this desirable movement.

"The new business corporation laws in which this organization with other commercial bodies was so deeply interested in having enacted, went into effect Aug. 1, 1903, and the result since that time is very gratifying to those who were instrumental in securing the revision of our state corporation laws. Under the old statute, from Aug. 1, 1902, to Aug. 1, 1903, 257 corporations were organized with a capital of $11,594,360.

"Under the new statute, from Aug. 1, 1903, to Aug. 1, 1904, 1009 corporations were organized, with a capital of $66,623,610."

Sec. Richard L. Gray then presented his annual report.

The report of the committee on manufactures was next read, and in it were these statements:

"Notwithstanding great drawbacks the leather situation in Massachusetts is reported to have been fairly satisfactory in 1904, and the future is promising.

"Lynn leads with the largest number of shoe manufacturers, a total of 124 active firms. Other cities are reported in the following order: Haverhill, Rochester, Philadelphia, Brockton, Brooklyn, Cincinnati, New York and St. Louis.

"New England, according to a directory compiled in Boston has 50 percent of the total number of shoe manufacturers, while Massachusetts alone has 38 percent of this total.

"Remove the obstacles which so hinder the shoe and leather trade of Massachusetts, and neither employer, employe nor customer will have reasonable cause for fear of either competition or cost."

The report then dealt with the "depressed and unsatisfactory condition of the cotton market in Massachusetts and throughout the country," gave the causes thereof and stated possible remedies.

"What we need here in Massachusetts," continues the report, "is a more extended market for our surplus manufactures. Our manufacturing centers need a greater diversity of manufacturing industries, so that a depression in the cotton, leather, wool and iron markets will not leave labor without employment, capital without profit and communities without business.

"The outlook for Massachusetts and New England is encouraging and hopeful. Strikes and lockouts are becoming less frequent and less aggravating. Employer and employe are coming nearer together. Increasing prosperity in the south and west means greater effort, stimulation and success for New England.

"The prosperity of Massachusetts has been stimulated, but not threatened by the thrift and success of other deserving sections of our country."

Chairman John Hopewell, in his report of the committee on commerce, submitted these resolutions:

"Resolved, That the Massachusetts state board of trade, representing the commercial and industrial interests of the state, considers the consolidation of friendship between this country and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland a necessity for the prosperity of commercial intercourse between the two nations, and welcomes heartily the proposal to re-open negotiations for a permanent treaty of abrogation between them as promoting this object.

"Resolved, That such a treaty between the two great Anglo-Saxon peoples moreover would advance the cause of permanent peace throughout the civilized world.

"Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the U. S. senators and members of the house of representatives representing Massachusetts in Congress."

For the committee on finance and financial legislation, Chairman Isaac D. Tompkins, Jr., presented a brief report.

The report of the committee on transportation was presented by Chairman E. L. Sprague and that of the committee on postal laws was read by ex-Senator Gorham D. Gilliman.

The annual reports of the treasurer and auditing committee were also presented. President Charles E. Adams was unanimously re-elected president.

A report of the committee on transportation and legislation, acting jointly was presented by Chairman Edwin L. Sprague of the former and Chairman L. E. Chamberlain of the latter.

The report of the committee on legislation, presented by L. E. Chamberlain dealt with the subjects of biennial elections, the reorganization of the U. S. consular service, antistock watering laws, a uniform system of public accounting, and the bill relative to the expenses of candidates for elective office.

The report of Treasurer W. R. Chester showed a balance on hand of about $500. The annual assessment was again fixed at $25.

Two new members, the Massachusetts state pharmaceutical association and the Dedham business association and board of trade, were elected.

The list of vice presidents is substantially the same as that of last year except that Walter C. Mentzer represents the Boston fruit and produce exchange, Hon. E. R. Hong the Chelsea board of trade, Charles E. Adams the Lowell board of trade, Thomas W. Gardner the Lynn board of trade, H. M. Saunders the New England hardware association, James A. Halloran the Norwood business association, Frank L. Watson the Paint and Oil club of New England, and Charles A. Townsend the Rockland commercial club.

The delegates sat down to lunch at 1 o'clock, and there was informal speaking afterward.

FOOTBALL NEWS

The football season to date has been prolific in the inflicting of penalties and causes for penalties to be inflicted. Offside play, interference with the centre, holding, tripping, slugging, interference with a man making a fair catch, roughing, coaching from the side lines, all the offences the football player is heir to have been punished this season. Offside play and interference with a fair catch are offences easily pardonable, being due to zeal chiefly, but the other offences smack more of a lack of sportsmanship. The officials are having their hands full, not only watching for penalties, but in trying to adjust contentions. Last Saturday there were two disputed points—whether Princeton scored another touchdown against Annapolis and whether a touchdown was made in the Leland Stanford-California freshman game. The ethics of the game might be improved. The power given to the linesman of watching out for penalties has resulted in infractions of the rules being detected more than formerly, but officials with four eyes will be needed at the rate things are going. Harvard's offence of coaching from the side lines last Saturday was much more reprehensible than the "armor plate" incident. The matter of the aluminum plates in the Harvard khaki has, in so far as it violated the rules, due to accident rather than design—carelessness in arranging the plates. The idea seems to have been permissible enough if properly carried out. The rule covering the point says:

"No one having projecting nails or iron plates on his shoes or any projecting metallic or hard substance on his person shall be allowed to play in a match. If head protectors are worn, no sole leather, papier mache or other hard or unyielding material shall be used in their construction, and all other devices for protectors must be so arranged and padded as, in the judgment of the umpire, to be without danger to other players. Leather cleats upon the shoes shall be allowed as heretofore."

In the freshman game in California, Fenton, the Stanford quarter back, kicked the ball. California waited for it to roll over her goal line, but the ball stopped a foot short of the line, and Fenton dived for it and nailed it. Then Stanford went over for a touchdown. The question raised was whether Stanford was entitled to the ball when it fell—a question of being on side. Section C of rule 9 says:

"The man who, standing back of his own line of scrimmage, receives the ball from one of his own side and then kicks it beyond the line of scrimmage may not put other men on side by running ahead of them, nor may he himself get the ball until after it has touched a player of the opposing side."

The case at Annapolis was rather complicated. Accounts say that Ritter, the Princeton quarter back, fumbled a pass, but recovered and handed the ball to Short, and when the heap was untangled back of the Annapolis goal line Ritter, as well as Short, had his hands on the ball. Under these circumstances it was not unreasonable for the official to infer that Ritter ran with the ball. The penalty for the second man running with the ball, unless five yards to the side, is a loss of fifteen yards. This was inflicted on the Tigers, and no touchdown was allowed. An official might readily believe that Ritter took the ball himself when he recovered the leather, since Ritter had his hands on the ball when the scrimmage was over. On the other hand, Short could have taken the ball over and Ritter, in helping him through, again placed his hands on the pigskin. It was the official's business to see just how the ball was carried over the line. Meagre accounts of the play make it difficult to tell whether evidence of the eyes or circumstantial evidence prompted the ruling made in the case. The moral is: Don't fumble.

Even the puissant Michiganders have been scored on, the Ohio State University team doing the trick last Saturday. Marker, the Ohio right tackle, grabbed the ball on a fumble by Longman, the Michigan full back, and scooted sixty-five yards for a touchdown. The game was very fierce, and according to one report, "each team had a doctor on the field after every play." It was a sensational game. Irresistible rushing for long gains was done by Michigan, but on the other hand there were heroic braces by Ohio, which held Michigan for downs, and often the Michican backs were thrown for a loss. One Michigan player was ruled off for being too belligerent.

Rockwell, the Yale quarter back, and Burke, who holds down the same position for Princeton, are leading in the race for the hard luck stakes. Rockwell, a star of the first magnitude, when fit, has had hard luck in the matter of injuries off the last two years. He was unable to play in the Columbia game last year, because of injuries and later was knocked out in the Princeton game. Again this year his condition is uncertain. A Harvard coach last Saturday remarked of Rockwell: "I'd hate to see him disabled again. He is too gritty a player to have to stay out of it." Burke is even more unfortunate. He suffered a broken collarbone year before last, injuries handicapped him last year, and now he comes out of the Annapolis game on the cripple list.

ARCHBISHOP RYAN

ISSUES CORRECTION OF FATHER SCHELL'S STATEMENT.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—Archbishop Ryan of this city, yesterday took occasion to correct a published statement made by the Rev. Father Schell, in which Mother Katherine Drexel, foundress of the Order for the Indians and Colored People, is alleged to be misquoted. Father Schell, who was in charge of the Catholic mission at Winnebago reservation, Neb., but was recalled by the bishop of Omaha, preferred charges against Indian Commissioner Jones, in connection with the administration of that reservation. Archbishop Ryan, who is chief advisor of Mother Katherine, says Father Schell never represented her, but was sent to the reservation as chaplain by the bishop of Omaha, his salary being paid by Mother Katherine. He was not authorized to make any statement or investigations on her behalf. She is at present in Arizona, and has written to Commissioner Jones to this effect.

Congressman Morell, who is a brother-in-law of Mother Katherine Drexel, has forwarded a letter to the commissioner of Indian affairs, denying that Father Schell was authorized to represent Mother Drexel.

CHARGES MADE BY PRIEST.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 19.—Father Schell, who is the principal witness in an official investigation at the Winnebago Indian reservation, has charged that the Indian agents permitted merchants doing business with the Indians, to take advantage of the latter and in many cases forge the names of Indians to checks and appropriate the amount to their own use. Charges were also made by the priest that liquor was sold openly to the Indians for which orders were taken on their allotment.

Father Schell has made the statement that he was pursuing the work of reform at the instance of Mother Drexel.

MINES SUSPENDED

VILLAGE OF HARWICK WILL BE DEPOPULATED.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 19.—The directors of the Allegheny Coal company have decided to suspend operations indefinitely at their Harwick mines next Saturday. This will almost depopulate a village of 1000 people and suspend business on the recently constructed spurs from the Pittsburg, Bessemer & Lake Erie railroad, and the West Pennsylvania division of the Pennsylvania system.

Harwick has never fully recovered from the terrible disaster of Jan. 25 of this year when 185 miners lost their lives by an explosion.

MAJOR DELMAR

Defeated Lou Dillon at Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 19—C. K. G. Billings' Lou Dillon, the champion trotting mare, went down to defeat yesterday before Major Delmar, owned by E. E. Smathers, in the third and last contest for the Memphis gold cup, the feature race of the opening day of the fourth annual meeting of the Memphis trotting association.

After sustaining a terrific pace to the three-quarters pole in the first heat of the contest, it was apparent that the mare was in bad condition and she was pulled up, Major Delmar winning in a jog. Despite a critical examination by veterinary surgeons, who pronounced the mare affected by an ailment known to horsemen as the "thumps," Lou Dillon was again brought on the track by Mr. Billings, against the advice of the veterinary surgeons. He announced that as a matter of form he would start the mare in the second heat.

Major Delmar rounded the course in easy time. Lou Dillon following at a slow trot. Mr. Smathers, representing the New York Driving club, becomes the permanent owner of the cup.

The diamond handicap was won in straight heats in easy fashion by Sweet Marie.

The 2.01 pace furnished the most spirited contest of the day, Dan R., Gallagher and John M., each winning a heat. In the final trial John M. was pulled up. The track was in superb condition and ideal weather prevailed. Summaries:

TOOK POISON

BECAUSE SHE SAW LOVER WITH ANOTHER GIRL.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—Miss Lillian Higgins, 19 years old, of 11 Mt. Auburn street, Cambridge, attempted suicide at 12.30 this morning at the corner of Court and Bulfinch streets by swallowing three poisonous tablets.

As near as could be found by the police she had a quarrel with her lover, whom she saw walking with another woman.

After upbraiding him she went into a drug store and purchased the poison, which she took on the sidewalk. She then returned to the drug store and told what she had done.

The clerk administered antidotes and telephoned for the ambulance to the city hospital relief station. The young woman was taken there, and a stomach pump relieved her of the poison.

She said she was sorry for what she had done, and would not repeat the attempt on her life.

DISASTROUS BLAZE

BROKE OUT IN THE CHARLESTOWN DISTRICT.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—The trunk manufactory of Cutter & Cutter on Roland street, Charlestown district, was considerably damaged by fire this morning. The structure is a four-story wooden building and owing to its proximity to other buildings a serious conflagration was at first feared, but two alarms brought sufficient apparatus to confine the fire to the trunk factory. The loss is estimated at $10,000.

A FINE READING

By Wm. F. Thornton Before M. T. I.

The regular meeting last evening of the Mathew Temperance Institute was largely attended, the members evidencing much interest in the plans of the society for the winter work, now that the parade question has been disposed of satisfactorily. President Gen. L. Hunt presided and four propositions for membership were read and five new members were enrolled into the fold.

The report of the literary committee showed that during the coming season the members will be furnished with some rare treats in the way of literary entertainments. Chairman McKenna of the committee in outlining its plans, dwelt most eloquently on the importance of such entertainments and the great good that accrues from participation in such. Two weeks hence the committee proposes to have literary exercises following the meeting, of a very high order. After the meeting, in connection with the literary exercises, ex-President William F. Thornton was introduced and gave a reading of the trial scene in E. Bulwer-Lytton's novel, "Paul Clifford," which brought forth vociferous applause. The reading occupied 45 minutes and Mr. Thornton was at his best, holding at all times the undivided attention of the audience. He was tendered a rising vote of thanks at the conclusion of his work.

The singing club will hold another of its rehearsals tomorrow evening, and from present indications many more new members will be enrolled in the club. The plans of the club are on an extensive scale and Director Murphy has the utmost confidence in the club, that it will accomplish much in its second and what promises to be its banner season.

The game of whist which held its popularity all during the summer months naturally takes on new life these cool evenings and many members have become adepts at the popular game.

Ladies' night will be observed on Friday evening at the rooms and an excellent time is assured all who attend.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

District Deputy Grand Regent John T. Deegan and staff of Boston will pay an official visit to Industry Council, Royal Arcanum, this evening.

On Thursday night Kearsarge encampment of Lawrence will be the guests of the three encampments of Odd Fellows of this city, Lowell, Wannalanett and Monomake. In four special cars the visitors will come to this city, proceeding to Odd Fellows' temple, where a banquet will be tendered them. Prominent Odd Fellows from Lowell and Lawrence will speak and there will be a musical and literary program of strength. The affair will be of the red letter order.

TO REVIVE DEAD

Man Tried to Revive Dead Girl

HE TOOK BODY FROM THE GRAVE

And Kept It Hidden in an Attic

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 19.—Sunday last persons who visited the cemetery in Millinocket discovered that one of the graves there, wherein a little 12-year-old girl had been buried a year ago, had been opened and the body removed. The upturned sod, the remains of the broken casket, and a spade lying near, told the story. Deputy Sheriff Gates began an investigation.

The spade bore peculiar marks and this fact together with the knowledge that the dead child had been a favorite of John Bradley, a man known to be afflicted with a species of religious insanity, directed attention to the house of Bradley located in that part of Millinocket known as "Little Italy". Accompanied by Trial Justice Stearns, Deputy Gates visited Bradley's house, and after brief questioning both were convinced that he had robbed the grave. A search of the house was determined upon, but this Bradley refused to permit without a warrant.

Justice Stearns started for his office to make out the warrant, but Bradley called him back, saying that the body was in the attic of the house, wrapped in a sheet. There the body was found and at once buried again. Bradley was arrested on Monday and held for the grand jury on the charge of grave robbing. He was brought to Bangor yesterday by Deputy Gates and was locked up to await trial or inquiry into his mental condition.

Bradley talked freely to a reporter, and declared that he had taken the body from the grave at the command of God, believing that he could restore to life the child he had loved so well. He says that he realizes what he has done, and expects to pay the penalty, "but," he added, "I could have brought her to life, and would have done so had they left me alone."

Bradley is 45 years old, a native of Ohio, but long a resident of Maine. He went to Millinocket several years ago from West Sebois and obtained employment at the mill of the Great Northern Paper company as a laborer. The parents of the dead child had lived in Millinocket about four years and the child died on Oct. 13, 1903. She had been a pet of Bradley's, frequently visiting at his house, and when she died the man, who lived alone, was almost prostrated with grief.

Sorrowing over the death of his pet and believing that he could bring her back to life, he went on Thursday last, the anniversary of her death, to the cemetery where she had been buried and opened the grave. On that night he opened the casket but did not remove the body. On the second night he again visited the grave, but again allowed the body to remain undisturbed. On the third night, Saturday, however, he wrapped the body in a sheet and conveyed it to his home unobserved.

Of his movements and his purpose Bradley says:

"I am able to communicate with the Lord through the stove in my room. Everybody in heaven talks in numbers. Persons are known by numbers running from 1 to 666, and animals by numbers running from 666 to 1300.

"I was sitting in my room a few days ago when my number appeared on the stove and a voice told me to find number 16, my little girl friend who died a year ago. I never questioned the command, but took a spade and going to her grave dug until I came to the casket.

"I had not the courage to move the body that night, nor the next, but on the third night I took the body in my arms, and leaving the grave open and the casket there, I carried her to my home. If the officers had not discovered that the grave had been opened I should certainly have brought her to life. It was a divine command and divine power has been given to me to perform such miracles. I have no trouble in communicating with the Lord so long as I keep my soul clean."

Bradley says he is a Spiritualist, and he is very fond of religious discussions. On all other subjects he seems perfectly rational.

The child was that of Frank Gillis of Howland, 40 miles from Millinocket, who moved from the latter place shortly after the child was buried a year ago.

HAD BAD MONEY

ITALIAN SAID TO HAVE GIVEN $100 FOR $24.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—An Italian who described himself as Putsy Krapo, 20 years old, of 651 Main street, Waltham, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of stealing $24 from Gust Johnson, a Finn, of 21 Central avenue, Gloucester, by means of an old trick.

According to the police, Krapo went up to Johnson, in front of the North station and showed him a $100 confederate bill, which he told him was good money. Krapo is said to have also told Johnson that he wanted some change, and that he would let him have the $100 bill for much less than its face value. Johnson had only $24, and Krapo agreed to take that for his bill, and the exchange was made.

Almost immediately afterward Johnson tried to pass the bill, which, of course, he could not do, and he followed Krapo until he met a policeman, who arrested him.

There appears to be a gang of confederate bill swindlers hanging around the north union station, for only last Thursday Ludwig Kopp of Manchester, N. H., was swindled out of $100 there by a man who presented a $100 confederate bill, and asked Kopp to change it for him. The accommodating man from Manchester gave the swindler five $20 bills, and didn't discover that the bill was bad until he tried to make a purchase with it.

The man who swindled Kopp was described at 36 years old, while Krapo is only 20. Owing to the similarity of their schemes, however, the police are inclined to think the two men may have been working the bad money plan together.

WOUND ON KNEE

RESULT OF AUTOPSY ON BODY OF HALL.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—It now appears that the autopsy performed on the body of Larkin Wyman Hall, who was killed in his room at 2 St. Botolph street, Saturday night, tends to support in one respect the story told by Fred Watson, one of the accused, immediately after he was taken into custody.

The young man asserted that Hall came toward him with a Japanese sword in his hand and in making a swing with it, struck himself on the left leg. He further said that Hall made an effort to strike him, with the result that he hit Hall's arm, causing the point of the sword to penetrate his lung.

Dr. Draper says in his report that on the outer side of the left knee was a superficial wound two inches long, not deep enough to penetrate the skin.

This information in the report of the medical examiner came as a surprise, since it had been stated that there was no mark on the leg, thus discrediting the story of Watson.

LONE HONEYMOON

THIS BRIDEGROOM IS HAVING A GREAT TIME.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19—An automobile dashed up in front of the Victory hotel, and a man alighting, entered and spread "Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Forest," all over the hotel register.

"Wife waiting in the ladies' parlor, I suppose?" queried the clerk.

"No, I'm alone," answered the man. "On my honeymoon. She couldn't come, and we are playing just like she was here."

The clerk gave him a suite on the parlor floor. Two bell boys picked up his belongings, and the three were gone.

It didn't take more than a minute to reach the room. Evidently the bridegroom believed in distributing his money for there was a dollar in the pocket of each of the bell boys when he left.

Two minutes later a waiter from the buffet was summoned.

"Might open a small bottle," suggested the lone bridegroom.

The waiter bowed, disappeared and returned a few minutes later.

"Send the best machine around to the entrance," requested Mr. Forest. "I want to look at the town."

He returned at noon. The ride had cost him $20. He was in a gracious mood in the afternoon and he explained:

"I used to be a professional escort. My business was to look after the comfort of ladies at so much an hour. One of my clients—that's what we call them in San Francisco—took a fancy to me. It was returned, I assure you.

"Well, the upshot of it was that we were married. Now, she had traveled much, while I had never been outside of San Francisco. She suggested that we travel to New York on our honeymoon. She became indisposed shortly afterward, and did not feel equal to traveling. I wanted to postpone the honeymoon. It didn't make any difference whether I started one day or one year after the ceremony, but my wife insisted. I just simply had to give up, and here I am. Waiter?"

"Coming, coming."

"We planned it very carefully. I am to do just as we would if she were here. When I register it is for both. When I go sightseeing, I'm to remember what I see, that I may describe it to her. I'm not to be lonely. I'm to enjoy myself and have a good time. Rather odd honeymoon, don't you think? Waiter, waiter."

GROVER CLEVELAND

HAS SOMETHING TO SAY ABOUT LITTAUER'S CANDIDACY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—A letter from Grover Cleveland indorsing the fight that is being made by the independent republicans to defeat Lucius N. Littauer for congress because of his connection with the U. S. army glove contracts, was made public yesterday. The letter was written to Mr. Joseph D. Hauchs of 49 Wall street, who made it public. Mr. Cleveland wrote:

"I am pleased to learn that your cousin, Mr. Kellogg, is making a strong and determined fight for clean politics in the 25th New York congressional district.

"I sincerely trust that the good people of that district will realize the seriousness of the issue and express at the polls their stern condemnation of a representative, who, when faced with a public charge reflecting upon his honesty and fitness to longer represent the district in congress, takes refuge in the fact that prosecution for the offense, if any was committed, has been barred by the statute of limitations.

"The statute of limitations never runs against political dishonesty or the betrayal of a public trust when the offender, to secure a vindication, offers himself for the suffrages of the people.

"You may extend to your cousin, Mr. Kellogg, for me, my hearty approval and best wishes in the splendid and gallant fight he is making, against heavy odds in behalf of honest government and purity in public life.

WARNING

KEPT FROM SCHOOL

Stories Told by Fathers—Men of Prominence—Both Children Now Well and Strong.

William A. Power, first officer of the S. S. "Halifax" Plant line, is as widely known and as popular as any mariner sailing out of the port of Boston. He says: "My little daughter Mary E., four years old, was completely run down; and had no appetite and could not eat over two mouthfuls of food when she came to the table. Advertised medicines did her no earthly good. We finally gave her Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force and it soon restored her appetite and made her well and strong in a few weeks. It built her right up, and we do not intend to be without it in the house."

(Signed) William A. Power, 152 H Street, South Boston, Mass.

Mr. Frank Foote, a highly respected resident of Haverhill, Mass., adds another testimonial to the curative qualities of Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force. He says: "My little daughter was in a very nervous condition for a long time, and we were obliged to keep her from school. At times, it did seem as if she would go all to pieces, and although we paid out money for doctor's bills and tried many of the so-called nerve-medicines, Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force cured her in a very short time of her nervous troubles. It gives me great pleasure to certify to the excellent curative qualities of Vital Force, and now that we know what an excellent medicine it is, and what it has done for our little girl, we shall always keep it in the house.

"Sincerely yours,
"FRANK FOOTE,
"No. 1 Hancock St."

ADMINISTRATRIX AND HEIRS' SALE OF THE JOHN McDERMOTT ESTATE. TWO 4-TENEMENT BLOCKS AND ABOUT 5490 SQUARE FEET OF LAND, NUMBERING 145 AND 147 SALEM STREET AND 1 AND 2 IN THE REAR.

Not living in the city is our only reason for placing this valuable parcel of property in the hands of the auctioneer to be disposed of at public auction, at the premises, on the day advertised, regardless of the weather, for the highest bid. The property has always proved a grand paying investment to us, and we regret very much to part with it, but the fact of our being non-residents of the city, causes its public disposal at the above stated time. It is free and clear, which is certainly good proof that it was always well rented, and I believe that never was a tenement idle more than a week at a time, when we were so situated as to give it the proper attention. The property consists of two 4-tenement houses, six rooms to each tenement, they rent for $9.00 a month or about $865 a year, they have slated roofs, and are in very good condition inside and out. Some of the present tenants have lived there for a long time and would be glad to remain. The lot has a frontage of about 45 feet on Salem street and about 46 feet on Decatur avenue; there is plenty of yard room; a driveway on the Salem street side, also a passageway to Decatur avenue in the rear. The property is situated on the northerly side of Salem street and adjoining the Barrett property. This is an excellent location for renting, it being but a short distance from the many industries in that part of the city. The man who is looking for large returns on his investment should give this sale his attention, for someone will certainly get a bargain on that day.

TERMS: $650 will be required as a deposit, to be paid to the auctioneer, as soon as the property is struck off; other terms at sale.

The Textile Workers Will Adopt a New Name

Reports of Committees Read at This Morning's Convention of the U. T. W.—Standing Committees Appointed

The report of the afternoon session of the United Textile Workers' convention yesterday, was given out at 5 o'clock after the session closed.

The principal business was the reading of the reports of the president and secretary and that of James H. Donnelly, of Philadelphia, an organizer appointed two months ago by the A. F. of L. to work in Pennsylvania. Formerly President Golden was the only organizer and the necessity of more work in this line becoming imperative Mr. Donnelly was appointed two months ago to work in Pennsylvania, while President Golden spent some time assisting them. Mr. Donnelly gave a highly encouraging report, which was supplemented by another from Mr. Golden.

After these reports had been accepted the matter was opened to discussion and it was found that there was a strong sentiment in favor of an aggressive campaign of organization. It was the sentiment that wages are too low and the hours too long in the textile industry and that better conditions for the operatives must be had by raising the price of the commodity if necessary. To bring about these better conditions, general organization must first prevail.

After the discussion the standing committees were appointed and the session adjourned an hour earlier to enable the committees, particularly the committee on resolutions to get to work and all resolutions must be in by five o'clock tonight.

An invitation was received from the United Textile unions of Lawrence asking the delegates to partake of suppe in Loomfixers' hall in Lawrence tonight A special car will leave at 6.30 and will return at midnight.

The standing committees appointed were as follows:

Committee on president's report—Michael Duggan, Lowell; Bella Sullivan Derby, Conn.; Maurice Noonan, Lawrence; Thomas Finn, Passaic, N. J.; Walter McCann, Lawrence.

Secretary's report—Thomas Taylor, Fall River; John W. Battey, Dover, Hebert S. Whiteman, Jamestown, N. Y.; Annie McMullen, Lowell; William Swan Adams.

SECRETARY HIBBERT.

Treasurer's report—James Humphreys, Fall River; Mary Burke, Dover; Henry Joynt, Fall River; Thomas Regan, Lowell; George Armrod, Fall River.

Executive council committee—H. C Barr, Paterson, N. J.; Charles Sykes Fall River; Michael McCarthy, Lawrence; Thomas Kellher, New Bedford; Alfred Moss, New Bedford.

Organization committee—James H. Donnelly, Philadelphia; John Meagher, Lawrence; Joseph Handford, New Bedford; Jeremiah Sullivan and John Joynt, Fall River.

Committee on resolutions—James Tansey, Fall River; John Hannigan, New Bedford; Michael White, Dover; Charles Milyes, Amsterdam; A. J. Perreault, Newmarket, N. H.

Labels and boycotts committee—Joseph G. Jackson and Michael Murphy, Fall River; Joseph Lofthouse, Lawrence; Mack Fisher, Waltham; Roscoe Willis Manchester, N. H.

Grievance committee—Thomas O'Donnell and Alfred Moss, Fall River; Edward Thornton, Philadelphia; William Kennedy, Lawrence; Joseph Ashton, Manchester; Nellie McCabe.

Committee on rules and order of business—Samuel Ross, New Bedford; John Kyle, Fall River; Michael Trainor, Dover; Cecilia Buckley, Derby; Patrick Quinlan, Lawrence.

Local unions—Lackwell McGough, Fall River; S. J. Bernard, Lawrence, Peter Reynolds, Fall River; William G. Kennedy, Lawrence; Edward Burns, Lawrence; R. Cook, Lawrence.

PRESIDENT JAMES GOLDEN, United Textile Workers.

THIS MORNING'S SESSION.

The morning session of the convention of the United Textile Workers of America opened at 9 o'clock this morning in Trades & Labor hall with a full attendance of delegates and President Golden in the chair.

The morning session was devoted to the reports of the different committees. The committee on president's report recommended that the subject matter be referred to the several committees. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were accepted and their recommendations adopted.

The committee on organization made a partial report which was accepted and the committee announced that it was not ready to report as yet. On the recommendation of the committee on rules and orders last year's rules were adopted for this convention.

The committee on boycotts and labels reported the recommendation that the secretary from time to time notify the local unions of any boycotts declared by the American Federation of Labor and that the label of the U. T. W. be advertised more extensively and that funds be furnished for the same. That part of the report referring to the label was adopted but the part which referred to the boycott was sent back to the committee with the request that they change the name "boycott" and adopt some other term synonymous thereto.

The grievance committee in the absence of the president, who had been called to Boston, reported that there were no grievances before the committee except that of the New Bedford weavers' union. There was a strong sentiment in the convention to the effect that inasmuch as the New Bedford weavers had seceded from the U. T. W., they had no standing in that body and couldn't be considered, but the convention voted to table the whole matter until the president of the grievance committee, who is familiar with the trouble in New Bedford, can be present and explain the situation. He was expected back for the afternoon session.

The matter of sending a special organizer to Lawrence was tabled until this afternoon.

One of the lady delegates to the convention reported that she had lost a gold watch between the Weavers' hall the Bon Marche and the Massachusetts mills. The finder is requested to leave the same at the Trades and Labor hall, 22 Middle street.

The convention adjourned at noon until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The first business at the afternoon session of the U. T. W. this afternoon was the admission of a belated delegate from the Carders' Union of Lowell.

The committee on organization submitted a report in which it recommended the appointment of two regular organizers, one for the New England states and one for the Middle states. But inasmuch as there are resolutions similar in effect to be presented later the matter was laid over until the resolutions are reported.

The committee on boycott and label to whom was referred back its own report with instruction to find another term to take the place of "boycott" reported back that inasmuch as the word boycott was a part of the title of the committee it could not eliminate the word but must stand by its original report. The committee on rules, however, came to the rescue by holding a meeting forthwith and in a few minutes submitting a report recommending a change in the constitution whereby the name of the committee on boycotts and labels is that of the committee on labels and unfair products. The recommendation was adopted and the name changed. The committee then suggested the term "unfair products" and henceforth that term will be used instead of boycotts.

At tonight's public meeting in Huntington hall, the resolutions denouncing the action of Governor Bates are urging all working people to assist in bringing about his defeat, will be read and adopted.

SUPERIOR COURT

McKiernan Case Given to the Jury

CASE AGAINST PELHAM STREET RAILWAY ON

Ejected Passenger Sues for $5000 Damages

The jury in the case of McKiernan vs. Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. was charged by Judge Waite at the opening of the superior court this morning, and the jury retired about ten o'clock.

LOWELL & PELHAM ST. RY. CASE.

The next case called was that of Gilbert B. Goulet vs. Lowell & Pelham St. Ry. Co. In this case the plaintiff says that the defendant corporation owns and operates a line of street railroad in Dracut in the county aforesaid. That on the 26th day of December, 1903, the plaintiff was a passenger thereon that a servant and agent of said company, while acting within the scope of his duty and by authority of the defendant, with force and arms, in and upon the plaintiff, said plaintiff being then and there in the peace of said commonwealth, made an assault and forcibly ejected the plaintiff from the defendant's car, against the plaintiff's will, to the ground and injuring said plaintiff and other injuries to said agent and servant as aforesaid, then and there, against the will of the plaintiff, at that time did to the plaintiff to the great damage, disgrace and injury of the plaintiff as he says in the sum of $5000.

The plaintiff alleges that it was near the Donohoe farm in Dracut that he was ejected from the car.

Lawyer Jas. F. Owens appeared for the plaintiff, while the defendant company is represented by Mr. Fuller of the firm of Poore & Fuller of Haverhill.

The first witness was the plaintiff, Gilbert B. Goulet, who related the manner in which he was ejected from the car and the sufferings he had endured.

John Hill and John Hiland, who were on the car at the time that it is alleged the plaintiff was ejected, were called and gave their version of the trouble between the conductor of the car and the plaintiff.

John Hill, a fireman at a portable sawmill, testified to being on the car on the night in question. He testified in part as follows: "The first that I knew that something was wrong I heard the conductor say to Mr. Goulet, "Get off." I then saw him take Mr. Goulet by the arm and push him off the car. The place where he was put off is about a mile from where he got on the car. I offered to pay Mr. Goulet's fare that night but the conductor refused to take it.

Dr. Timothy J. Halloran testified: "I have been practising medicine for six years. I was called to attend Mr. Goulet in the latter part of December of 1903. He told me that on the evening of the 26th of December he was on the last car from Lowell to Collinsville, and that after leaving the point where the defendant road takes charge of the car he found that he could not find his coupon or transfer from the Boston and Northern line to the Pelham line. He told me that he was finally ejected from the car and afterwards had to walk to his home about a mile distant. He did not go to bed until about five or six o'clock in the morning. I did not see him until five or six days after the accident. He told me that he had a pain in the back of his neck, shooting pains in the left arm and leg, two or three teeth loose in front. In the upper set there was also a scar on the upper lip, he was coughing and spitting up yellow expectoration with a slight discoloration of blood. I examined his heart and found that it was normal. There were some bruises on the left shoulder, one on the knee, some swelling on the upper part of the left arm, and considerable pain upon pressure. From the history of the case as given to me by him, I thought that he had sustained a slight concussion of the brain."

Cross-examined by Mr. Fuller, witness said: "The plaintiff is in what I would call a normal condition at the present time. I do not think that concussion of the brain can be brought about by anything other than force. It was about a week after the accident that I called to see him. I cannot tell the day he went to work in the mill. I feel certain, however, that it was more than a week. I visited Mr. Goulete every day. He told me that Dr. Lavigne had examined him before he had me visit him.

"I did not know that he was going to bring a lawsuit until several weeks after I was called to see him. He said that Mr. McVey was going to conduct his case. I gave him a thorough examination on the day when I was called to his house.

"His heart is in a normal condition at the present time, though after the accident it was not, for the heart beat more rapidly than it should in a normal condition. I do not attribute his bronchitis to any fall he may have had, but believe that it may have resulted from exposure. I had treated the plaintiff on numerous occasions prior to the accident but never noticed any signs of bronchitis.

On redirect examination Dr. Halloran said that his bill for services would be $75 and that it had not been paid as yet.

Miss Ethel Morse, a nurse at the Lowell hospital testified to riding on a car of the Lowell & Pelham St. Ry., the 26th of December, 1903. She saw Goulet on the car. When going to get off the car she said she saw the conductor put his hands on the shoulders of Mr. Goulet and push him off the car. She said: "The car, I think, was completely stopped when Mr. Goulet was thrown off, but I am not sure whether it was or not.

"When I alighted from the car I saw Mr. Goulet lying face downward on the ground. I heard the conductor say that he would not pay his fare and he would have to get off. The conductor appeared to be cross and angry."

Cross-examined: "I was accompanied by my sister. We were sitting in the last one of the cross seats. She went through the rear doorway into the vestibule first. Mr. Goulet and the conductor were near the outer door at that time. I did not see any resistance on the part of Mr. Goulet when the conductor put him off."

Mrs. Josephine Goulet, the wife of the plaintiff, testified: "On the night in question he came in about 25 minutes past 12 o'clock. His face was cut and scratched and there was blood on his face and clothing. His hands and feet were frozen and I got him some cold water. I then made him some hot tea. He then lay down on a sofa down stairs until about four o'clock in the morning. On Sunday he said he was sore all over, he was dizzy and vomited. He went out to see a doctor on Tuesday night. Friday night Dr. Halloran was called in and examined him. He could rest neither night or day and is restless at the present time, it being impossible for him to get a good night's rest. He complains of a pain in his side at the present time."

The plaintiff rested its case at this point.

After Mr. Owens had rested his case Judge Waite said: "Where is there enough of evidence to give this case to the jury, Mr. Owens? I will excuse the jury for a few minutes and hear you."

After the jury had retired Mr. Owens said: "The plaintiff was a passenger on the car. There was a change of conductors from the Boston and Northern end of the line to the defendant's line and before the change a transfer was given by one conductor to be collected by the other conductor. The conductor asked the plaintiff for his fare. There is no question that he was a passenger and had all the rights of a passenger.

"The conductor on the car of the defendant company approached Mr. Goulet and said "Fare." Immediately the plaintiff made an effort to find his transfer, which was a fare to the conductor. The conductor must wait a reasonable length of time. There must be some opportunity and the evidence of Mr. Goulet in this case is that the action of the conductor was instantaneous and without giving him an opportunity and without giving him a chance to tender him the fare he immediately threw him from the car. To corroborate, we have the statements of other witnesses. I contend that there was not enough time given to the man to find his transfer."

Mr. Owens then cited the case of Mass. 182 where a man absolutely refused to pay his fare and instead of being a passenger on the car in question was a trespasser and that the court found damages for him.

The court, however, did not agree with Mr. Owens and Judge Waite summoned the jury and stating that there was not sufficient evidence produced to warrant the case going to the jury ordered that the jury bring in a verdict for the defendant.

Court adjourned at this point for the noon recess.

Franklin Woodman, general manager of New Hampshire Traction Co., was the first witness called, and testified in part as follows: "The New Hampshire Traction Co. is a holding company, and the Lowell and Pelham and the Hudson, Pelham & Salem, N. H., St. Ry. Cos. are constituent companies. The majority of the stock is owned by the New Hampshire Traction Co. The holding company was formed previous to the accident. The Lowell & Pelham St. Ry. Co. is a Massachusetts corporation and operates between Pelham and the Old Meadow road. The Hudson, Pelham & Salem, N. H. Co. operates cars in Hudson, Pelham and Salem and is a New Hampshire corporation. I think that we advertised in the Lowell papers attractions at Canobie Lake and Hampton Beach signed by the Lowell & Pelham St. Ry. The Lowell & Pelham St. Ry. paid the conductor and motorman on that line."

Cross-examined by Mr. Fuller, witness said: "The Lowell and Pelham St. Ry. Co. operates cars only in Dracut, Mass. From the Dracut-Pelham line to Pelham the cars are operated by the Hudson, Pelham & Salem Electric Ry. Co. Kent's corner is in Pelham and the line at that point is operated by the Hudson, Pelham & Salem Electric Ry. Co."

Jerome F. Manning, a lawyer, testified to being on the car on the day the accident occurred. He was on the outbound car and saw the approaching car about half a mile ahead. He had no anxiety about a collision for he thought that there was plenty of time to bring the cars to a standstill before a collision occurred.

Witness testified to the cars coming together when the outbound car was going at a rate of from two to four miles an hour while the other car was going at a speed of about ten miles an hour. I saw the motorman on the car ahead and could se him doing nothing but standing there with his hands on the brakes.

THOMAS POWERS

Said That a Woman Stabbed Him

A hurry call was telephoned to the ambulance station about 12.30 o'clock this afternoon, the person who telephoned stating that a man had been stabbed in Daly's block in Gorham street. The ambulance made a record run to the place and upon arriving found a man with several cuts about the face and head and the blood streaming down his face, but he seemed to be suffering more from intoxication than anything else.

He claimed that he had been stabbed by a woman.

He was taken to the Emergency hospital, where upon examination it was found that there was a V shaped cut on the left side of his head. Three stitches were taken in this. A cut on the right eyebrow was closed with three stitches and a Y shaped cut on the left cheek bone necessitated the taking of two stitches.

The attending doctor asked him if he had not been hit with a bottle and he said he guessed that that was what struck him instead of a knife. In fact he really did not know what happened him.

After the wounds were dressed he left the hospital and went to the police station, where he tried to secure a warrant against the woman who threw the bottle. He said his name was Thomas Powers, he is 46 years of age and worked as a hostler for Byron Johnson, but despite the fact that he put up considerable talk in order to get the warrant he was refused one.

EXTRA

STREET WORK BOOMING

Pay Roll the Largest in History

These are busy days for the street department employes for Supt. Farnham believes in doing the work while the season is propitious and the funds available and he has four more gangs of men at work at present in the department than were ever before employed at one time.

The storm guards were put up on Centralville bridge today so that the first cold blasts will find the place protected. The guards on the Moody street bridge will be put up at once, while those on the Aiken street bridge will not go on until after the repairs are made.

The department is doing much work in the macadam line at present and some repairs are being made now that have been needed for years for all localities look alike to the acting superintendent and he is working where the work is most needed regardless of who lives in the neighborhood. Macadamizing is being done on Sherman, Chestnut, Rogers, High, Tyler and Abbott streets. The sidewalks are being relaid on Fayette street while gutters are being relaid in Third street preparatory to macadamizing. Edgestones are being put in Myrtle street, while many minor repairs are being made in Centralville.

The soft surface clay in Maple street which had rendered that street a bad hole for driving for some time, is being carted to Carter street to fill in a big hole in the street in front of the school. When this is all removed the street will be relaid with cobbles and a firm foundation put in on top of which a good gravel roadway will be made. This road will be continued through Maple to Lincoln to Tanner and the entire way will be made suitable to heavy traffic.

A new artery has been opened for travel in Stevens street. From Marginal to Middlesex street the roadbed is gravel. The street department has finished macadamizing the street from Middlesex street to Westford and is now at work on the street from Parker to the Chelmsford road. This portion of the street was accepted 20 years ago and nothing was ever done to it and as the result it has been in frightful condition for years. A sewer was recently put in there and now the street department is ploughing up the roadbed preparatory to building a first-class road there; thus opening a fine main artery for that section of the city.

"I hate to drive on Moody street while Market stret from the smooth paving to the bridge is really a disgrace," said Supt. Farnham today. "At present I have a paving gang repairing crossings down town so that teams will no longer splash mud all over the clothing of the people on the street. They are working down from Towers corner to Market street and when they get into Market street they will take up that old block paving from the smooth paving to the bridge and relay it so that the street will be temporarily in good repair. One of our great troubles is that we have too much cinder sidewalks and not enough of edgestones and cobble guters. I am a firm believer in edgestones and cobble gutters for they keep a street in good condition.

"That storm which so wrecked the streets some time ago has done far more damage than one could estimate at first glance. We have patched up all the bad holes and yet the effects of it will be felt by the department for a few years. I am going to keep all the men going as long as the weather and my appropriations hold out and we are working where the repairs are most needed. Our streets are in terrible condition and it will take a long time to fix them all right."

The sewer department is also making a big showing under the acting superintendent. The Stevens and Forest street jobs have been finished and the department is now laboring at the hardest kind of a sewer job, that in Stromquist avenue. The sewer here begins at Meadowcroft street and runs to the railroad. Then the department tunnels under the railroad and lays a pipe under it and thence continues the sewer along through private land to its outlet. This private land is nothing more than a quagmire and it is necessary to lay the pipe in cement concrete and gravel.

Both of the city ledges are working full time and in fact every department of the street and sewer work is rushing.

KILLED HIMSELF

MAN ENDED HIS LIFE LEANING ON WIFE'S CASKET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The children of old Frederick Liebfried went into their home at No. 149 Ainslie street, Williamsburg, yesterday, to find their father, with two bullet wounds in his temple, leaning over the casket in which his dead wife, Marie, was lying. To keep the promise made to her at the side of her deathbed he had blown out his brains. The aged man was heartbroken by her death, and just before she died he had held her hand and whispered he would soon join her.

Fearing that he might do something rash, his son Christian, who is a policeman, had watched him closely, but yesterday he and his two sisters went out for a few moments to complete the funeral arrangements for their mother, and on their return found he had killed himself.

FRACTURED HIS ARM.

David Dwyer, aged 16 years, while fooling with several other young men in the vicinity of the post office today, fell and fractured his right arm. He was taken to the Emergency hospital where the fracture was reduced.

AIKEN ST. BRIDGE

Superintendent Farnham Will Repair it Thoroughly

Is Tired Waiting for the City Council and Will Give the City Practically a New Bridge Out of His Regular Appropriation

The Aiken street bridge will be repaved at once, and thoroughly repaired whether the city council votes the money for it or not.

Once more Acting Supt. of Streets Farnham has demonstrated his superior fitness for the position thrust upon him for he has tired of waiting for delinquent common council to squabble over the different kinds of pavement in the market and is going ahead at once to repair Aiken street bridge out of the regular street appropriation.

This morning Supt. Farnham sent in a requisition to Purchasing Agent Donnelly for 2650 yards of wooden block paving to be used on the Aiken street bridge.

The requisition caused some surprise as a joint order for $9000 for that purpose is now held up in the city council.

When seen by a reporter of The Sun in relation to the matter, Supt. Farnham said:

"Yes, I have put in the requisition for the block paving and will start at once to give the Aiken street bridge a thorough overhauling, whether the city council votes the money for it or not. If they do it will come in handy, if not I shall do the work out of the regular street appropriation. The Aiken street bridge is badly in need of repair and the time to repair it is right off now. Hence I am starting at once out of my own appropriation. These paving blocks that I am going to put down will last for years and I'm going to overhaul that old bridge so that it will need no more repairs for the next 10 or 15 years. We will do one half of the street at a time, so as not to close the bridge to travel and will begin by ripping up the flooring and strengthening the underlayings if they need it. The bridge demands immediate attention and it is going to get it. It has been the policy of this department at times in the past to depend on the city council to vote money for new work or else not to do the work, but as long as I have sufficient money in my regular appropriation I shall do the work that is badly needed without waiting for any belated assistance from the city council."

WOMAN HELD UP

POLICE OFFICER THOUGHT SHE WAS DRUNK.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—When Mrs. Katherine Savage, who lives at 240 East Eighty-third street, was arrested early yesterday morning charged with being intoxicated it developed that she had been assaulted and robbed and left unconscious on the sidewalk at the corner of Fifty-fifth street and Ninth avenue.

When Policeman Murphy took her before the sergeant in the West Forty-seventh street station Mrs. Savage said that two men had attacked her and taken a black rosary, a statuette of St. Anthony and $25 which she had in a hand bag. She gave a minute description of the men.

"I'll bet one of them was Dan Doherty," said Detective Sergeant Kerr, who heard the woman's story.

Doherty, the police say, is an ex-convict, who was shot by Policeman Johnson in a duel in West Fifty-second street nine years ago as he was trying to break into the house at 208. He lives at 584 West Fiftieth street. Detective O'Neil knew his address and started out to look for him.

After Mrs. Savage had been locked up Policeman Murphy went back on post. At Fifty-second street and Ninth avenue he saw three men fighting. He got only one of them, a man who was lying on the sidewalk bleeding. The man's lip was cut. When Murphy got him to the station house Kerr recognized him as Doherty. He was searched, and a rosary, a statuette of St. Anthony and $23.50 were found in his pockets.

Doherty was taken to Roosevelt hospital, and in order to dress the wound in his lip his mustache was shaved off. Later Mrs. Savage saw him.

"That's one of the men," she said, "only he has cut off his mustache."

In the West Side court yesterday afternoon Mrs. Savage said that she could positively identify Savage.

He was held on the charge of highway robbery in $1000 bail. Mrs. Savage was discharged.

BIGAMOUS WIFE

TWO HUSBANDS PLAN TO DIVORCE HER.

NEW YORK, N. Y., October 19.—When the divorce suit of Thomas J. Smith, a contractor, who lives at No. 326 West Fifty-second street, against Jennie Smith, whose address is 247 Chauncey street, Brooklyn, comes up for trial next Wednesday, the story of two husbands of the same woman who have banded together to help each other get a divorce will be told.

Although both men swear that the woman whom they called wife, is a bigamist, and although they have brought forth their marriage certificates to prove their claims, they have agreed not to prosecute her.

Thomas Smith was married May 25, 1896. Two years ago his wife disappeared from his home on West Fifty-second street. He at once employed detectives to search for her, but it was not until a few months ago that he learned that she was living as the wife of William Carey, in Brooklyn. He immediately employed Attorney George Robinson, of No. 99 Nassau street, to begin divorce proceedings. In the complaint William Carey was named. When Carey was told of the suit for divorce against his bride of only a few months, he learned for the first time that she had been previously married. To him she did not deny that she had not been divorced from her first husband.

Carey separated from his wife and hunted up Thos. Smith, her first husband, and declared that he would go on the witness stand and aid him in securing his divorce. Mr. Smith said yesterday:

"Carey and I have both been greatly wronged, but we agreed that we loved our wife too much to see her sent to prison for bigamy. When he learned that his wife had committed bigamy Carey came to me and offered to help me get a divorce. We went to my attorney's office together, and talked the matter over. As soon as I get my divorce Carey will bring suit for divorce, and I will help him with my testimony."

BOGUS DETECTIVE

SENT TO JAIL FOR SWINDLING A RAILROAD.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 19.—Frank O. Lambert, who swindled the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad out of $675 last February, was sentenced yesterday to two years in state's prison. Lambert pleaded guilty.

Last winter Lambert applied to the New Haven railroad for a job, alleging that he knew of plans being made in St. Louis to defraud the company of great sums of money during the exposition. He told of circumstances that supported his theory and he was engaged at once to look out for the road's interest in St. Louis. He was supplied with about $700 in cash by the road.

When no word was received as to his progress in the case the railroad officials here asked him for a report, but he replied that he was still working on the case. Becoming suspicious they employed a detective to watch him. In confidence Lambert told the detective that he was "working the road." His arrest followed.

ROMAN MISSING

SOCIETY MAN WAS INDICTED FOR GAMBLING.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Oct. 19.—The city is agog over the unceremonious departure of Capt. J. P. Roman, member of the Cumberland bar, society leader, republican politician, athlete and club man. It is said on authority that Captain Roman, who took his wife and child with him, does not intend to return. He converted all his property, real and personal, into cash. It is believed he had about $30,000 with him when he left.

Captain Roman was energetic and had a lucrative practice at the bar here. He was especially active in republican politics, and led several hard and bitter fights. He was defeated for state senator in 1901. He is young and has an attractive personality, and had a great following in sporting circles, in which he was a figure.

The grand jury, which adjourned yesterday, found several indictments against Captain Roman in connection with his alleged operation of the Silver Leaf club, an alleged gambling institution. Chin Murphy, Earl Gordon and Patrick Callagen have been indicted on the charge of holding up of the men in the club. Roman owned the building. He erected it recently after designs of his own, obtained in New York. The fine furnishings were disposed of yesterday for a song.

HORSE RAN AWAY

SOME EXCITEMENT IN MOODY STREET.

A runaway horse, the property of F. M. Bill & Co., made things a bit lively in Moody street this forenoon. The horse was attached to a covered wagon and his driver, Clarence Clark, after throwing out the weight called on one of the company's customers. While he was in the store, the horse, for some reason unknown, started and broke away from the weight. After going about 100 yards he ran in between a telegraph pole and a fence and cleared himself of the wagon. He was stopped in Tremont street.

HARVARD AND YALE MATCH.

HAMILTON, Mass., Oct. 19—Harvard and Yale met today in the final team match to decide the inter-collegiate golf championship, on the links of the Myopia Hunt club here. Yesterday, Harvard defeated Pennsylvania, and Yale defeated Princeton. Harvard was the favorite before play commenced today, particularly as H. Chandler Egan, the national golf champion, is captain of the Harvard team. The light showers during the night served only to make the green faster this morning, and while it was cloudy there was little promise of rain and the wind was light, making conditions very favorable for low scoring.

It was arranged that 18 holes should be played in the forenoon and a second round of 18 holes in the afternoon.

Two Councilmen Entertained Gallery

COSGROVE OBJECTS TO BORROWING

School House Order Remains on the Table

Aside from a clash of harmless words between Councilman Cheney and J. J. Hayes there was little of an exciting nature to the meeting of the common council last evening.

Councilman Cosgrove had a few words to say on the borrowing habit and the pernicious practice of pleeing out appropriations year in and year out.

The meeting was called to order at 9 o'clock and a motion to ballot for a member of the water board was killed without ceremony.

A motion to take from the table the $40,000 order for a new school in Ennell street was also defeated.

Several minor petitions were referred to the proper committees. A second motion to take up the Ennell street school order was defeated.

The order for a $500 bell in the Middlesex Village school caused Councilman Cosgrove to remark that

"He who goes a borrowing
Goes a sorrowing."

"This is another order to borrow money," he said, "and I have noticed that car loads of people have disposed of their property and left the city because of this borrowing and its attendant tax rate. It seems to me late in the year to ask for this bell."

Councilman Mayberry said that the bell was needed, because the children did not know, in stormy weather, when there was to be no session of the school.

Councilman Peterson said that the section of the city was an outlying one, and there was no alarm in case of fire. The bell would serve a double purpose, and the expenditur ewas warranted.

After further discussion the order was adopted by a vote of 23 to 3.

The $5000 order for the pauper department and for the heating of city hall and Memorial building, which had passed the upper branch, then came up.

Councilman Cosgrove remarked: "Early in the year the committee on appropriations scaled down estimates. What excuse is there now for pleeing out these two appropriations?"

Councilman Stott of the appropriations committee stated that several departments were yet to be around to piece out their appropriations.

Councilman Dodge said that there is something radically wrong in the system at city hall. "The work of the committee on appropriations goes for nothing," he said. "They decide what money shall be spent, and the heads of departments go ahead as they see fit, and come in for more money when their money is spent. This has been going on for years, and here is a fresh example of it."

But the order was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Councilman J. J. Hayes moved for the third time that the $40,000 school house order be taken up and once more it was defeated.

A motion to elect a member of the water board was lost, 13 to 12.

The order for a $5400 loan to pay the Richardson bill for legal services to the city, was adopted in concurrence.

Councilman Quinn introduced the annual order requesting the street committee to fix Maiden lane. Mayors and city councils have urged the matter before, only to run up against legal obstructions.

Councilman J. J. Hayes spoke warmly in favor of the order and thanked the ward two man for introducing it.

The order was adopted.

On the order calling for an appropriation for grade crossings Councilman Cheney moved that the messenger be sent for the chairman to give information in the matter.

The motion prevailed, but Mr. Hayes of ward one upset it by giving notice of reconsideration of the vote at the next meeting.

Then Councilman Cheney started to object, saying: 'Mr. Chairman—"

"I rise to a point of order," objected Councilman Hayes, "there's no motion pending."

"I rise on a question of information," said Mr. Cheney.

"He can't," retorted Mr. Hayes.

"I don't expect to get it from the gentleman from ward one," replied Mr. Cheney.

The chairman called to order but the two men continued to argue to the great amusement of the gallery and in the midst of the fun Councilman Barry slipped in a motion to adjourn and it prevailed.

BRILLIANT WEDDING

OF JOHN A. COLLINS AND MISS KATHERINE T. KENNEY.

One of the prettiest weddings that has been held in this city for a long time took place at St. Michael's church this morning when Miss Katherine T. Kenney and Mr. John A. Collins were united in marriage.

The bride is the well known Central street dressmaker and daughter of Mr and Mrs. John Kenney of 291 Ludlam street. She is a popular young lady and prominent in the work of St. Michael's parish.

Mr. Collins, formerly of Lawrence though of late a resident of this city, is agent of the American Express company at the Northern station, and is well known both in this city and Lawrence.

The wedding took place this morning at a nuptial mass which was held at St. Michael's church at 9 o'clock. Owing to the popularity of the couple and the number of invitations sent out, there was a very large attendance, the beautiful edifice being filled with people long before the service started.

Promptly at 9 o'clock the bride, accompanied by her sister, entered the church, and a few seconds later the groom, accompanied by his brother, entered and the bridal party marched down the main aisle to the sanctuary rail. They then mounted the steps to the altar, the bride and bridesmaid occupying seats on the gospel side, while the groom and best man occupied seats on the epistle side of the altar.

The bride was becomingly attired in white chiffon crepe de chene over white silk, the gown being trimmed with duchess and rose point lace, and the bodice and skirt was accordion plaited. She also wore a white picture hat.

The bridesmaid, Miss Mary A. Kenney, a sister of the bride, wore white liberty silk, trimmed with renaissance lace, with a sash and train. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white chrysanthemums and wore a white picture hat. Mr. Collins was accompanied by his brother, William C. Collins, of Lawrence.

The mass was celebrated by Rev. Thos. J. Lee of Newton, a cousin of the bride while the marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles A. Driscoll, O. S. A., of St. Lawrence's church of Lawrence, the latter being an uncle of the groom. Seated in the sanctuary were Rev. John J. Shaw, pastor of St. Michael's church, and Rev. Thomas Fields O. S. A., of Lawrence.

The choir was augmented for the occasion and was under the direction of Mr. James A. Murphy. The quartet, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Murphy, Mr. Thomas P. Boulger and Miss Nano M. Gallagher, was present and Miss Carolyn A. White presided at the organ.

As the bridal party entered the church Miss White rendered Lohengrin's wedding march and as the party was leaving she played Mendelssohn's march. During the service she played Edwin H. Lemare's "Andantino."

The following was the musical program carried out:

Bridal chorus (Lohengrin).....Wagner
Quartet.
Salve Regina .....Dudley Buck
Mr. Boulger.
O Perfect Love .....Barnby
Quartet.
Ave Maria .....Abt
Mrs. Mabel Ware-Murphy.
O Salutaris .....Rossini
Miss Gallagher.
The Voice That Breathes O'er Eden, Warren
Quartet.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the happy couple repaired to the home of the bride's parents, 204 Ludlam street, where a reception was held and a wedding supper served. Among those present at the reception were prominent people of this city as well as of Nashua, Lawrence, Haverhill, Boston, Newton Centre and Franklin, Mass.

The gifts at the church and house were a check from James J. Gallagher, Purchasing Agent James E. Donnelly and Mr. Walter B. Hickey of this city and City Treasurer Daniel F. Murphy of Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins will leave this city for [illegible] on an extended wedding tour.

The interior of the house was decorated with palms and chrysanthemums, the work having been done by McManmon. There was a profusion of most beautiful [illegible] showing at once the popularity of the happy couple and the large number of their friends.

CHURCHES TO UNITE.

ST. L[illegible], Oct. 19.—A definite step has been taken toward the amalgamation of the Disciples Baptist church of America with the Disciples of Christ, or the Christian church, now holding a national convention here. A committee appointed at the last convention to consider the propriety of the union has reported favorably, inasmuch as the doctrinal views of the two is practically the same. Another committee has been appointed by the Christian convention to complete the negotiations with the Baptists in accord with the report of the committee on recommendation.

The union will add 100,000 members to the disciples.

$5000 VERDICT

Woman Alleged Alienation of Affections

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—Having lost the affection of her husband 18 years ago, Mrs. Marcia L. Conant, now of Somerville, but formerly of Chelsea, seeks compensation from the young woman who she alleges was the cause of destroying her home.

During the entire period she has worked for the support of herself and child, the latter a deaf and dumb boy, at present in a school in New Bedford. She buried one other child.

In the superior court yesterday a jury sitting in the fourth session before Judge Schofield, after hearing her story on the stand awarded her $5000 damages, the full amount sought by her writ.

The defendant, Miss Lillie E. Hill, did not put in an appearance, and the jury simply assessed damages.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendant had alienated the affections of her husband. The plaintiff is under the impression that Miss Hill has money, and is making an effort to procure such compensation as the law provides. She caused three different banks to be summoned into court as trustees, but on their pleadings it appeared that one bank held $20 as a deposit of the defendant and the others had no account of a woman of that or any other two names furnished by the plaintiff as having been used by the defendant.

Miss Hill had been keeping a lodging house at the South End, where services was made on her about three years ago. Previously she could not be found, which caused a delay in the bringing of the action. She is about 20 years younger than George W. Conant. The latter has been seen only three or four times by his wife since he left her and she is not aware of his present whereabouts.

George H. Millin, counsel for the defendant, was in court when the case was called, but his client did not appear, though he told the court that he expected she would be there and was surprised not to find her in the room. He asked the court to continue the case, but his honor refused to do so.

The plaintiff testified to the circumstances set out in the pleadings and the case was given to the jury to pass on the question of damages. For half an hour the jury considered the case and then returned a verdict for the full amount of the damages.

Counsel for the defendant says his client has no money.

NIANTIC, Conn., Oct. 19—A protest has been sent to the Connecticut senators and representatives in congress by the New London county W. C. T. U., against the clause in the new statehood bill for New Mexico, Arizona, Oklahoma and Indian Territory, classing women as paupers, imbeciles, etc., on the ground that the classification is a needless insult, as the bill would have the same effect by excluding women from the privilege of voting had the clause been framed in other language.

KRINKO IS HELD

CHARGE OF ABDUCTION AGAINST YOUNG MAN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Abe Krinko, 20 years old, of 810 Marcy avenue, Williamsburg, was arraigned yesterday in the Lee avenue police court, accused of having abducted seventeen-year-old Annie Bott, of 58 Nostrand avenue, and detained her against her will in a house in East Thirteenth street, Manhattan.

The girl was formerly employed in a braid factory near her home and earned $5 a week. Krinko met her a few weeks ago and offered to get her a place where she could earn $8 a week.

The girl told her mother, who permitted her, a week ago yesterday, to meet the young man at Third avenue and Ninth street, Manhattan.

Another young man accosted the girl at the appointed place and told her that Krinko had sent him. The girl accompanied the stranger and she was taken to the East Thirteenth street house. It is alleged by the girl that Krinko met her there, made her a prisoner in the house and maltreated her.

She managed through a letter sent to a girl in Williamsburg to let her mother know where she was detained and Mrs. Bott informed the police. Detective Grosel went to Manhattan with Mrs. Bott on Monday. They found the girl and Krinko in a room and arrested them.

Both were taken yesterday to the Lee avenue police court, where Mrs. Bott made a charge of abduction against Krinko. Magistrate Higginbotham learned from the girl that the alleged abduction took place in Manhattan and he telephoned to District Attorney Jerome's office. Detectives were sent to Williamsburg to get the prisoner and he was brought to this borough to be tried.

KELLEY'S BLUNDER

HE WAS ON HIS WAY TO LOWELL.

A Nashua paper has the following:

William Kelley, charged with being drunk, and John Edwards with being a vagabond, were the only occupants of the cage at police court this morning. Kelley entered a plea of guilty and was fined $3 and costs or 30 days at the city farm. Edwards entered a plea of not guilty, and after a hearing was sentenced to Goffstown for four months.

Kelley stated to the court that he wished for a suspended sentence, but in looking up his record it was found that he was arrested in this city last April. He is a horseman who follows the races. Kelley in his own behalf stated that he was on his way from Woodsville and bound for Lowell, had stopped over in this city and had drunk too much liquor, but said if the court would let him go he would leave town. The court looked up his record and found that he served a term in prison about 10 years ago and has been in jail twice since then. The court decided that the best place for him during the winter was on the farm at Goffstown.

Sisters of Mrs. Boles in Lowell

Mrs. Henry F. Boles, who was shot to death by her husband in Brookline on Monday, has four sisters living in this city. The McNichols' girls, while they do not enjoy a very wide circle of acquaintances they are very favorably known by those whom they have chanced to meet. The news of Henry F. Boles's crime was a terrible shock to them. They had heard their sister speak in the highest terms of her husband, and they could not understand why he would kill the woman whom he loved and honored. They knew that he was in the habit of taking a drink but they did not know that he was in the habit of indulging in sprees. Mrs. Boles lived in Lowell for a short time about seven years ago. From this city she went to Brookline where she met Boles and married him. Two of Mrs. Boles sisters have recently come from Ireland and their parents still live in Ireland. They are all respectable young ladies. Mrs. Boles was a kind and faithful wife, and her husband killed her in a drunken frenzy.

GOOD INCREASE

IN MEMBERSHIP OF ODD FELLOWS IN MAINE.

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 19—Grand Master William B. Littlefield of North Berwick presided at the annual session of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows today. Grand secretary Russell G. Dyer of Portland, reported the condition of the order in part as follows:

At the close of the year we numbered 22,026 members, which is a gain of 523 for the year. The real work of the order is better expressed in the number of initiations, which for the year, amounted to 1106, with other admissions of 86.

This is the best record in a single year since 1882.

The suspensions for non-payment of dues were 318, against 281 for the year previous. A net gain on membership of 1059 in two years, and this without the institution of a lodge, must be considered satisfactory in a jurisdiction so conservative as Maine. One gratifying feature of the returns is that the largest gains come from the oldest lodges.

The greatest gain was made by Laconia Lodge of Biddeford, with 41 initiations and one reinstatement. Penobscot Lodge of Bangor is a close second with 35 initiations and six admissions. The total relief for the year was $75,287, nearly $5000 larger than 1902.

"The returns from the Rebekah Lodges are fully as flattering as are those from the subordinates. The net gain is 376, a small decrease from the previous year. The assets are nearly $16,000, a substantial gain. There are 140 subordinate and 112 Rebekah Lodges in the state."

Reports were also made by the grand master, grand treasurer and grand representatives.

JUDGE PARKER

HAD A TALK WITH CONNECTICUT CANDIDATES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—A. Heaton Robinson and Henry A. Bishop, candidates for governor and lieutenant governor, of Connecticut visited Judge Parker today at his headquarters at the hotel Seville. Both Messrs. Robertson and Bishop conferred with the presidential candidate concerning the democratic prospects in Connecticut and left his apartments greatly encouraged at the interest taken by Judge Parker. General Nelson A. Miles called on the judge today. Later he said:

"All that is possible is being done for Judge Parker and when the voters go into the booths in the presence of their God alone, they will vote the democratic ticket."

Among the callers today were Representative E. J. Bowers of Mississippi and A. Zindgraff of Dallas, Tex.

TAUSSIG ARRESTED

HE IS CHARGED WITH TAKING $140,000.

VIENNA, Oct. 19.—Otto Taussig, who absconded Oct. 11 at about the time his brother Victor, head of the firm of S. Taussig & Co., committed suicide, was arrested yesterday in the Canary Islands. SINGER'S CHARGE

Divorce Sleuth is Under Arrest

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Charles Berry a private detective, with an office at 247 West 125th street, was accused by Mrs. Anna Jones of 307 East Fifty-fifth street in Yorkville court yesterday of appropriating jewelry and papers belonging to her, incidental to helping her get evidence for a divorce suit, which she once thought of beginning.

Mrs. Jones is a singer. She came to this country two years ago with a theatrical troupe, and married John J. Jones, who is said to be a half-caste West Indian, and who at that time was employed in Terrace Garden.

Recently Mrs. Jones formed an idea that her husband hypnotized her at night and brought other women into their house. On Aug. 31 last she went to Berry and asked him to secure her evidence on which to base divorce proceedings. On the following day, she said, one of Berry's sleuths, John Ruff, claimed to have got the evidence.

On Sept. 2, Mrs. Jones said, Ruff told her that the newspapers had heard of the case and her picture and full accounts of the scandal would be printed unless $100 was paid to "square the reporters". That afternoon Berry himself appeared, she alleges, and said that as his expenses had been heavy he would like to know what security the woman could offer for the payment of his bill.

Mrs. Jones, who had a receipt for $10 as evidence of her first visit to the detective agency, said she had no cash. She had, however, much jewelry, and three or four deeds of city property. She showed all these to Berry. Then she went into the adjoining room to close her safe. In her absence, Berry, she charges, walked away with the papers and jewelry, pawning the latter for $65.

Ignorant of American laws and ways, Mrs. Jones says she supposed this was quite regular, and when Berry returned an hour later with a man who he said was the best divorce lawyer in the country, she affixed her signature to a summons and complaint in a divorce action brought in the supreme court. She knew nothing of the nature of the papers, she says, and signed them simply because Berry advised her to do so. Berry at the time handed the lawyer, who said in court yesterday that he was Irving E. Ziegler of 27 William street, $10, with the remark that he might need carfare.

After the papers had been served Mrs. Jones and her husband patched up their differences. Mrs. Jones then went to Berry to regain her property and was told that it was all in the hands of her lawyer.

Ziegler admitted yesterday that the woman had refused to retain him when he said he would charge her $200 to bring suit against her husband.

Mrs. Jones secured two summonses for Berry. He could not be served and later he was arrested at his apartment in the hotel Endicott by two detective sergeants.

One of the things that Magistrate Ommen couldn't understand was that although Berry admitted never having seen Mrs. Jones before Aug. 31, when she paid him $10, his bill included an item for $7 for "services on Aug. 30".

"That," he said, "must be a mistake on the part of my bookkeeper."

Berry was held in $1600 bail for trial.

RUSSIAN VICTORY

Japanese Left Cut Off and Lone Tree Hill Held

General Kuropatkin Resumes the Offensive Driving the Japanese Southward—Russia Again Rejoices

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 19, 1.45 p. m.—The flush of enthusiasm yesterday evening over the capture of Lone Tree Hill and Shakhe, the repulse of the attacks of the Japanese left and the hard drubbing given General Yamada with the capture of 14 additional guns has given way this morning to a calmer and more sober appraisement of these partial successes.

There is no official confirmation of the report that General Kuropatkin had resumed a genuine offensive, that the rather general Japanese offensive had exhausted itself and that the position of the armies is now a sort of deadlock, with the country rendered so sudden by the heavy rain as to compel a temporary suspension of general operations. A complete veil hides the movements east, but both Kuropatkin's and Sakharoff's reports say there were no collisions on that portion of the battle ground Monday or Tuesday. Field Marshal Oyama evidently considers that Lone Tree Hill from which Kuropatkin could pivot a turning movement against his left to be of vital importance as both Monday and Tuesday nights, the latter during a terrific storm made desperate efforts to recapture it, accompanying the assaults with demonstrative attacks against other points. But all the efforts failed. Neither Kuropatkin nor Sakharoff in the dispatches given out this morning send details of the defeat of Yamada's column and the capture of the Japanese guns. Pitiful pictures are painted by the war correspondents of the shelterless troops bivouacking in the cold rain, the roads converted into quagmires and the streams flooded.

The military critics are not yet satisfied that Oyama is ready to relinquish the offensive, expressing the opinion that he may still try to break through the Russian centre in order to compel Kuropatkin to retire from the line of the Hun river, unless, as they believe, he has become convinced that the superiority of the Russian numbers and reserves makes his withdrawal to the line of the Taitse river advisable.

General Gelsman, asserts positively that up to yesterday, Kuropatkin had not brought anything like all the regiments of his reserves into action and the number of fresh units behind which his battered troops could reform accounts for Kuropatkin's ability to resume the offensive. The line of battle thus far engaged, counting westward from the east, general Gelsman says, comprised General Bilderlings seventeenth European corps, parts of General Zeloleff's sixth East Siberian corps, portions of General Slouchevsky's tenth corps, General Meyendorff's first European corps and General Zassulitch's second Siberian corps. The extreme Russian left, which essayed a turning movement, and was meeting with success according to Russian accounts, until the situation at the right centre compelled its withdrawal, consisted of General Ivanoff's third corps and General Zaroubaieff's fourth East Siberian corps, the third corps bearing the brunt of the assaults in a group of passes of the Tumin range.

Therefore two complete corps, General Stakelberg's first corps and General Dembowski's fifth Siberian corps and parts of five other corps are still unused.

JAPS ARE RETIRING.

The dispatch from a correspondent of the Associated Press at Mukden, filed this morning, saying that there was no fighting yesterday and no firing during the night, indicates that the Japanese are retiring, as the light of fires was seen against the heavens, possibly showing that they were burning their stores. The correspondent also reports that a resumption of the battle is probable so soon as the roads permit, the Russians being everywhere in close touch with the Japanese.

The Associated Press learns that the reports representing Emperor Nicholas as being despondent and depressed are far from the truth. General Velitchko who saw him Monday night, declares that while his majesty is greatly grieved at the terrible sacrifice of life, he is as firmly resolved as ever that the war must be prosecuted to a successful conclusion, and that he is by no means satisfied that Kuropatkin, in whom he expressed the fullest confidence would not be able to turn the tables on Oyama before the present engagement is ended.

By General Velitchko, who returns at once to the front, the emperor sent a personal message to Kuropatkin renewing his expressions of faith and confidence and announcing his readiness to send such reinforcements of men and guns as Kuropatkin might ask for.

TERRIBLE SLAUGHTER OF JAPANESE

MUKDEN, Oct. 19.—Lone Tree Hill, won by the Russians after a desperate struggle, was the object of a gallant but unsuccessful attempt at recapture by the Japanese. In spite of the awful slaughter with which they had been driven from the hill, the Japanese returned to the charge during the night of Oct. 17, recognizing that the hill was the key to the position on the southwest front. Nine regiments participated, creeping up through the night and delivering a furious assault at dawn. But the hill had been bought too dearly by the Russians to relinquish it and the Japanese were driven back with terrible slaughter.

It is reported that General Mistchko's Cossacks, under command of Adjutant Cavrilloff, were engaged in a hot fight on Oct. 17 towards the southwest. A Cossack horse battery silenced the Japanese guns and drove back several infantry battalions, but were unable to capture the guns, which the Japanese succeeded in carrying off.

Shakhe station, or what is left of it, has been re-captured by the Russians who will shortly reopen it for railway traffic with Mukden.

FIGHTING CONTINUES ALONG THE FRONT

FIDYATUN, SIX MILES EAST OF SHAKHE, Oct. 19.—Fighting still continues along almost the whole front. The Japanese have made a nonsuccessful attempt to recapture Lone Tree Hill. The Russian infantry met several attacks and repulsed them all. Heavy rains continue. There was a terrific cannonading last night. Everyone is terribly exhausted, but full of fight.

The battle field of Lone Tree Hill presents the most awful spectacle that can be conceived. Russian and Japanese dead are mingled in heaps in inextricable fashion. The ground is strewn with broken rifles that had been smashed in hand to hand fighting. Everything seems to have been utilized as weapons. The Russian doctors are working heroically on the slopes of the hill in the attempt to save those of the wounded who still survive, but the Japanese keep up a sniping fire and render the work of relief difficult and dangerous.

The fighting yesterday slackened considerably, owing to rain and the impassable condition of the roads.

JAPANESE ATTACK WAS REPULSED

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 19.—The emperor has received from General Kuropatkin, under date of October 18, the following dispatch:

During the night, the Japanese attacked our advanced positions at Lone Tree Hill but they were repulsed.

No reports have been received of any other engagements.

Everything was quiet at all our positions up to 10 o'clock this morning. Rain fell all night and the roads have been greatly damaged.

JAPANESE PREPARE FOR WITHDRAWAL

MUKDEN, Oct. 19.—5 a.m.—Yesterday passed off quietly. No firing was heard last night.

The Japanese appear to be slowly falling back.

A glare seen above their encampment may indicate that they are burning their stores prior to withdrawal.

This morning broke chilly but clear. So soon as the roads are drier a resumption of the battle is probable, as the Russians everywhere are in close touch with the Japanese.

MORE GUNS TAKEN BY RUSSIANS

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 19.—General Sakharoff telegraphs at midday today, that the Japanese are concentrating at Linshinpu west of the railroad.

A detachment of Russian cavalry reconnoitering last night in the vicinity of Shakhe captured two Japanese guns with no losses to themselves.

YOUNG WIDOW

WILL BRAVE SMALL-POX IN ORDER TO WED.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19—Mrs. Eva Lyons, a young widow, of 2446 North Twenty-ninth street, this city, will risk contagion today from small-pox by marrying her lover, Frederick Mehren, aged 31 years, of 2252 North Lambert street, at the Municipal Hospital, where he lies critically ill from the disease.

Mrs. Lyons met Mehren three years ago shortly after the death of her husband and three months ago they became engaged. Mehren was taken ill ten days ago and on last Thursday was taken to the Municipal Hospital suffering from small-pox. When Mrs. Lyons learned that he might die she decided that she would expose herself to contagion rather than not fulfil the promise she had made to become Mehren's wife. She has secured permission from the health authorities to go to the bedside and be joined with him in wedlock.

She applied yesterday for a marriage license at the City Hall and said she would call for it at 9 o'clock this morning.

One of the lady delegates atending the convention of the United Textile Workers of America, now being held in this city, lost her watch yesterday between Weavers' hall, the Bon Marche and the Massachusetts mills. The finder will kindly return to the Trades & Labor hall, 22 Middle street.

UNION'S CHARGES

Says That Contractors Violated Agreement

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 19.—The Bridgeport carpenters' union has sent to the local assembly of the inter-state association of contractors, builders and dealers, a notice to the effect that it has abandoned the arbitration and working agreement entered into with the master carpenters less than a year ago. The union claims that members of the assembly have violated the agreement repeatedly by hiring non-union men when this was forbidden, that more apprentices have been taken than agreed to by the union and that an alleged boycott through a blacklist has been established against three union members.

The master carpenters who are directly concerned in the present labor troubles say that the union through its business agent has attempted to interfere with their contracts by threatening union men in their employ with fines of $25 for failure to leave their work at his order.

The breaking of the agreement has brought labor matters here to a crisis and a general lockout against all union carpenters here to be later extended to all the unionized building trades is expected tomorrow.

NEGRESS SUES

SAYS SHE IS WHITE MAN'S WIFE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19—Joseph Blackman, cashier and bookkeeper for Albert J. Elias, banker at 20 Broad street, married Lillian Mock in the Reformed Church, Harlem, on Sept. 12. Yesterday he appeared through counsel before Supreme Court Justice Amend to oppose an application for temporary alimony made by Martha J. Blackman, a negress, who says she has been his common law wife since 1896. Blackman denies that he ever married the negress.

According to the negress's story as told to Justice Amend by her counsel, E. T. Chappell, a negro lawyer, Blackman and she had been living together since 1896, when they first met in South Carolina. The laws of that state forbid both miscegenation and common law marriage, but when they came to New York, she says Blackman made her his common law wife and lived with her as such for several years. She was always addressed as such, she says, even in his letters to her after they separated this summer.

On Sept. 12, she says, he signed a written separation agreement by which he was to allow her $10 a week. The next news she received was that he had married Miss Mock the same day. Accordingly she began her divorce action, naming the second Mrs. Blackman as co-respondent.

Blackman's contention is that he never married or agreed to marry the negress, but that she merely lived with him. Justice Amend took the papers and reserved decision. Both lawyers declined to discuss the case afterward.

TRICK BICYCLIST

WAS KILLED WHILE DOING A DARING ACT.

ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 18—Word was received in Orange this morning of the death, yesterday, at Canton, Ill., of Henry Tilden Badgeley, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Badgeley of 23 Dodd street, Orange. He was killed while doing a bicycle act at a fair in Canton. The act was the climax of the shows. He performed under the name of "Tilden" and employed several men in his act. For some time he and his wife and two children had been living in Chicago. He went to Canton a week ago.

Badgeley rode from the top of an incline and dived from his wheel as it left the jumping-off place, landing in a tank of water fifty feet distant. From the top of the incline to the tank below was more than 150 feet. He made light of the risk he ran and often said the thing had been worked out on such a careful mathematical basis that an accident was almost impossible. In the act yesterday, it is said Tilden did not obtain the momentum necessary to carry him out to the tank.

MORE ARRESTS

In the Melrose Explosion Case

JUDGE EMMONS ORDERS ATTORNEY TO ACT

Several Violations of the Law Reported

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—Chairman W. H. H. Emmons, of the Boston police board announced today that he had directed the board's attorney, Edward B. Adams, to apply for summonses for everybody concerned in the violation of the statute laws in connection with the handling of dynamite which caused the Melrose car explosion. This week, Driver Roy Fenton, of the express wagon which transported the explosive, and Foreman Percy Hawkins of the express company, were held for the grand jury on the charge of manslaughter in connection with the affair. It is the intention of the police board to prosecute everybody except Hawkins and Fenton, who had anything to do with the transportation of the dynamite through the streets of Boston. Attorney Adams' inquiry into the matter has resulted in his reporting that the violations included the failure to notify the fire department that the dynamite was to be moved, the failure to pack the dynamite in sawdust and the carrying of more than one box on one wagon.

Nine persons were killed at the Melrose explosion and thirty were injured.

The majority of the applicants, however, were pretty well posted and they managed to "run the gauntlet."

BILLERICA NEWS

250th Anniversary to be Observed

THE COMMITTEES ARE ALREADY AT WORK

Notes and Incidents About the Village

President J. Nelson Parker, of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary committee, has called a meeting of the executive committee to be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 25th, at which the chairmen of the various sub-committees which constituted the executive committee, are expected to make concise and complete reports in writing of the result and work up to the present time of each committee in preparation for the anniversary celebration. The work and duties in detail of each committee has been admirably and concisely stated in the report of the committee of five appointed by the original committee named at the last annual town meeting and much interest is centered in the coming reports. The work and interest already shown by the various committees promises well for the success of the quarter millennial celebration of the incorporation of the town, which occurs May 29 and 30, 1905, although the work is being quietly but earnestly done.

Dr. J. B. Tyler, of Billerica, who is now in Italy, having gone to Europe on account of ill health, is expected home by the middle of November.

Rowley Hobb, who manages the boating attractions on the Concord, is erecting an extensive boat house and wharf at Riverhurst.

The working crew on the southern section of the Billerica and Bedford branch narrowly escaped injury, and probably more serious results, yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock. The crew of three were running the hand car at a point below South Billerica station when suddenly an "extra" train came into view around a nearby curve. The men jumped in the nick of time, and the car which collided with the approaching train was completely demolished.

The cranberry season at the Winning Pond Farm in West Billerica came to an end Saturday. The yield this year was approximately 500 barrels. The work of picking the red berries was done as usual by a colony of 50 Italians who lived in shanties during the work.

NORTH BILLERICA.

The prizes which were offered by the Talbot mills for the company's tenants last spring for the best kept premises, flower gardens vines, window and porch boxes and vegetable gardens, will be awarded to the winners on Friday. The announcement will be made in Thomas Talbot Memorial hall, and in connection with the affair a stereopticon exhibition will be given which will include views of foreign points of interest.

Warren Switzer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jethro Switzer of Talbot avenue, is ill with diphtheria. He is being attended by Dr. G. T. O'Donnell, who has reported the case to the board of health.

Mr. Albert W. Slocum, assistant superintendent of the Talbot mills, is on a brief business trip to New York city.

GARBAGE CREMATOR

DISCUSSED BY BOARD OF HEALTH YESTERDAY.

The board of health discussed the cremator question at its meeting, yesterday afternoon. They are still waiting for figures. Some firms have sent in the amounts for which they will build a new cremator, but Chairman Jackson desires to give all makers a chance to submit their wares and prices. No action was taken on the cremator matter. Adjourned for one week.

KILLED BY CAR

Lawrence Boy Met a Horrible Death

LAWRENCE, Oct. 19.—A tragic accident occurred on the Boston & Maine tracks in the rear of Pingree's box factory, South Lawrence, about 5 o'clock yesterday evening, which resulted in the death of Fred Bonney, about 11 years old, son of Henry L. and Clara Bonney, of Dorchester street. He was crushed under the wheels of a freight car and died soon after.

The victim, with 10 or 12 other boys, whose ages ran from nine to 15 years, were playing in and about the empty freight cars near Pingree's late in the afternoon. They had been pushing an empty gravel car along the rails, but this was going too slow for them, so they turned their attention to the lighter gravel car and Bonney, with most of the other boys climbed into this and amused themselves by rocking it.

This sport having grown tame the boys, with the exception of the victim, went to where two freight cars were standing coupled at the top of the incline, 200 feet south of the car they had just left and on the same rails. Fred Bonney remained alone in the gravel car and watched the actions of his playmates. When the boys reached the freight cars they climbed to the top and released the brakes. Others pushed on the cars until they started to move down the incline and then all jumped on for the ride down. The two cars moved slowly at first but gathered momentum going down the incline and as they neared the gravel car in which was young Bonney the speed was great.

The victim was leaning far over the end of the car intent upon seeing the bumpers of the cars come together. The expected crash came and Bonney was thrown down between the two cars and two sets of wheels went over the boy's body.

A young man named Isaac Berenson and another named Solomon were attracted by the cries of his playmates and they tenderly removed the bruised and mangled body from beneath the wheels.

Medical Examiner Dow was called and the police station notified. The medical examiner ordered the remains taken to Conlin and Ryan's and the ambulance, which had been called, took the remains to the establishment. The parents of the boy were notified and they, with their two remaining children, a girl older than Fred and a boy younger, were almost broken-hearted.

That part of the Boston & Maine yards from Andover street, south to the rear of the Pingree box factory, has an unenviable reputation as regards the number of fatal accidents occurring there. Several accidents, one or two of them fatal, have been caused by young boys playing about the cars. The practice of pushing empty freight cars from the hill to the level stretch below is an old one and it was a sport that appealed strongly to boys of the age of the victim.

WARM CAMPAIGN

Canadians Will Vote on November 3

ST. JOHN, N. B., Oct. 19.—The campaign for the election of members of the Canadian parliament on November 3, upon which depends the fate of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's government, is being vehemently contested in all parts of the country. In the eastern provinces candidates have been nominated by both the Liberals and conservatives in practically every constituency. R. L. Borden of Halifax, the conservative leader, will begin a speaking tour in New Brunswick at Woodstock tomorrow. Cabinet ministers will also deliver numerous addresses in behalf of the government. The Liberals are relying on the prosperity of the country and on their program for the construction of a Trans-Continental railroad. The railroad plan is unpopular in this city and the conservatives claim they will win both seats in St. John.

Hon. Andrew G. Blain, former minister of railroads and canals, resigned his portfolio and his seat in this city about a year ago because he would not accept the railroad program, but he was later appointed chairman of the railroad commission.

Yesterday he resigned this position also. He announces that he still strongly objects to a grand trunk Pacific road, but has no intention of re-entering political life.

The Liberals hope to retain their large majorities in Quebec and Nova Scotia and thus be able to offset the conservatives' strength elsewhere.

WENT TO PRISON

WOMAN SAID SHE DID NOT WANT TO CAUSE SCANDAL.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 19.—Gertrude R. E. Lee, who claims kinship with the family of Gen. Robert E. Lee, the famous Confederate soldier, was held to the criminal court in $500 bonds by Justice Caverly yesterday on a charge of having stolen a suit case containing valuable goods from a down-town department store. Some of the stolen articles were recovered. The justice told Miss Lee if she would tell where the remainder was she might be treated with leniency.

"You may send me to the penitentiary," she replied, "but I will never tell who shared the goods with me."

"She is afraid she will cause a scandal," said E. S. McGuire, a detective, who made the arrest. "She told me a society woman was implicated. She received a new dress while in the county jail. No name was on the package when it arrived and the messenger refused to say who had sent it.

CHASED BY JAPS

Norwegian Steamer Has Reached Boston

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—Officers of the Norwegian steamer Alf, which arrived in this port yesterday morning from Manila and Cebu, P. I., with a cargo of hemp, saw an example of the thorough way in which the eastern waters are patrolled by the Japanese when they were in that section of the world early in the summer. Twice the lively Jap torpedo boats stopped the Alf, but allowed her to proceed after satisfactory answers had been given as to her cargo and destination. As the Norwegian was entering Chefoo harbor she was pursued by a torpedo boat, but she got safely within the harbor without interference.

Sailing from New York with a cargo of paraffine oil the Alf reached Chefoo in June. A part of her cargo was to go to Niuchwang, but that port was closed and the entire cargo was discharged at Chefoo. At Chefoo, June 25, the firing during the bombardment of Port Arthur was heard plainly.

From Chefoo the Alf went to Moya, Japan, for coal and orders, and on July 8, when 14 hours out of the Japanese port, she was held up by a fleet of torpedo boats. Telling of this First Mate C. H. Kellanburg said yesterday to a correspondent:

"It was a dark night and we were steaming along not looking for anything unusual, when suddenly a light shot out from a boat almost alongside of us. We made her out to be a Japanese torpedo boat, and we stopped as soon as we could. We were questioned as to the cargo and our destination, and when Capt. Hansen told the Japanese officers that the Alf was a Norwegian steamer bound from Chefoo to Moya with ballast they allowed us to proceed. We were delayed altogether about half an hour.

"It was a good deal of a shock to be brought up so suddenly. We had no idea that there was a craft of any kind in the vicinity when the light flashed on us. We found afterward that there were four or five Japanese boats looking for us, so we could not have gotten by if we had tried.

"We were stopped a second time on July 24, the day after we sailed from Moya for Manila. I was down below and the second mate was on the bridge. I was told that there was a boat evidently trying to signal us. I went on deck and when we saw she was a Japanese torpedo boat we stopped and waited for her to come alongside. She had seen us when we were in Moya, and it took little time to explain that we were bound for Manila. At neither time were we boarded by the Japanese officers.

"During the time we were lying in Chefoo we saw a good many Chinese refugees coming in from the vicinity of Port Arthur. Some of them showed the marks of their sufferings, and they were reduced almost to skeletons. There were many bad characters among the refugees, and we heard many stories of robberies and murders on the Chefoo streets.

"We were in the harbor at Moya from July 9 to July 23 and there we saw many transports leaving with troops and others coming back with Russian prisoners. There were several torpedo boats about the harbor every day.

"We learned that a Norwegian steamer, the Sintis, which sailed into Port Arthur with a cargo of coal, was chased in by a Japanese cruiser. She went aground in the channel, but floated again and got into the harbor safely. There she was forced to stay, and the officers and crew were taken off and sent back home."

The Alf is commanded by Capt. E. Hansen and hails from Bergen. She is at the New England docks, South Boston, and will go to New York from here to discharge the remainder of her cargo.

COUPLE ROBBED

THEY WERE CHLOROFORMED WHILE THEY SLEPT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Accused of having chloroformed a man and his wife as they slept, robbing them of money and jewelry valued at $2000, and then, before leaving the house, turning on the gas at four jets, so that the couple might have been asphyxiated had not their plight have been discovered, a man and a woman are in the Tombs awaiting trial. The man is Albert Belden, 22 years old, said to be a pickpocket. The woman is Minnie Marquette, 20 years old, who comes from Valparaiso, Ind. Their victims are Elmer Whitelaw, a jeweller's salesman, who lives on the second floor of 262 West Thirty-sixth street, and his wife.

The prisoners were brought here from Peoria, Ill., having been indicted for robbery in the first degree, grand larceny, assault in the first degree and for receiving stolen goods.

As told by Whitelaw, about the middle of September Belden and the woman hired rooms from his wife and conducted themselves well. On the morning of Sept. 24 Mrs. Whitelaw awoke, and, finding that the rooms were filled with gas, aroused her husband with difficulty. After they had regained their senses, they discovered the gas escaping from several jets.

Then a systematic search was made and Mrs. Whitelaw found that $1545, which she had secreted, and of which she had spoken to the woman who passed as Mrs. Belden, was gone; also several pieces of her jewelry. When they went to Belden's room it was found he and the woman had gone. Belden and the woman were arrested in Peoria, where they were negotiating for the purchase of a restaurant.

All the jewelry which has been identified, was found in the woman's possession, and Belden had $750.

NEARLY WRECKED

GERMAN SCHOONER RUN INTO TERRIFIC STORM.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19—The German schooner Karl and Ella has arrived in port, 63 days out from Ponape. She carried a cargo of 83,000 pounds of copra, together with pearl shells and ivory nuts.

On August 7, she encountered a terrific storm, which nearly wrecked her. Her rigging and sails were carried away and three feet of water rested in the hold. The pumps were kept going night and day. It was only after heroic efforts that the vessel reached this port. Even after the anchor was dropped it was necessary to keep pumps going in order to keep the craft afloat.

DAVIS AND BRYAN

Will Meet at Parkersburg on Friday

WELCH, W. Va., Oct. 19.—Henry G. Davis, democratic candidate for vice president, wound up a busy day of campaigning with a rally here last night. The Bluefield meeting, which lasted two hours, was largely attended. The meeting was held in the open air and mountaineers from many miles around added their lusty cheers to the demonstration.

Northfolk furnished another audience of proportionately large size. The rally at Welch last night was held in the court house, which was filled.

Mr. Davis is maintaining his reputation as a continuous performance campaigner and shows no ill-effects of the many speeches he has delivered and miles traveled during the past ten days. The whirlwind campaign will end today at Kenova. The itinerary for the day has been rearranged so that instead of four speeches there will be a dozen.

From Kenova, Mr. Davis will go to Parkersburg Thursday, there to await the coming of Mr. Bryan on Friday. In the meantime, numerous conferences with state leaders have been arranged to take place at Parkersburg. From there Mr. Davis will return to his home at Elkins. He is contemplating a three or four days' trip later to cover towns along the Wabash system of West Virginia.

PARNELL MODEL

ST. GAUDENS WILL START TO RE BUILD IT.

Dr. T. J. Dillon, the president of the Central Council of the United Irish league, received a letter yesterday from Augustus St. Gaudens, the famous sculptor, who is at Windsor, Vt., informing him that at the fire in his studio recently the Parnell monument design was destroyed except the head.

St. Gaudens writes that his drawing and photographs were saved, and that he can make a new design, which will be as correct in every detail as the one which was recently seen by Mr. Redmond and approved by him.

The sculptor says it will require three months' work to complete the design and this means the unveiling, which has been planned to take place at Dublin, in August, will necessarily be postponed.

JUDGE PARKER

Learns About Situation in Indiana

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The political situations in Indiana and New Jersey were the most important affairs of the democratic campaign considered by Judge Parker after he arrived here yesterday on his sixth visit since he was nominated for president.

A report was made to him concerning Indiana by Simon P. Sherin, who was secretary of the democratic national committee in 1892. Mr. Sherin was introduced by National Chairman Taggart who consulted with the candidate twice preliminary to leaving New York today to take a hand personally in the canvass of that state.

Mr. Sherin will remain in New York two or three days and will call on Judge Parker at Esopus before returning to Indiana.

It is said the conference did much to shape the contest to be waged by Indiana democrats for supremacy in the election. The announcement was made by those who called on Judge Parker that the prospects of carrying the state, as shown by a fourth canvass, are excellent. No figures were given out and no results of the canvass will be made public from the headquarters of Judge Parker of the national committee until the return of Mr. Taggart.

In New Jersey the situation is reported to be far more complete than in any of the other doubtful states, and the result more dependent upon the work done in the remaining two and one-half weeks of the campaign. This was the judgment of former Senator James Smith, Jr., who called on Judge Parker and declared certain the election of Black for governor, and predicted that the democratic national ticket will win also.

MORIN—LANDRY.

Mr. Avila Morin and Miss Emilia Landry were married Monday evening at St. Joseph's rectory. The ceremony was performed at 6.30 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Amyot, O. M. I. The witnesses were Mr. Adelard Landry, the bride's father, and Mr. Issie Morin, brother of the groom.

After the ceremony a reception to the relatives and very intimate friends took place at the residence of the bride, 19 Fourth avenue, from 7 to 9. The young couple afterwards left on a wedding trip. On their return they will reside at 19 Fourth avenue.

IS FOUND GUILTY

Weinseimer Was Accused of Extortion

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The jury in the case of Philip Weinseimer, former president of the Building Trades alliance, on trial for extortion, returned a verdict of guilty shortly before midnight. He was at once remanded to the tombs until October 28, when sentence will be pronounced.

Weinseimer has been on trial for more than a week in the court of special sessions. He was charged by George J. Essig, a master plumber, with extorting $2700 from him under a threat not to permit work to continue on the Chatsworth apartment house here unless the money was paid.

The jury retired late in the afternoon and after taking one ballot went to supper and remained away from the court building nearly two hours.

The long wait after the jury's return had caused Weinseimer and his counsel to expect a disagreement or acquittal, and Weinseimer was smiling and eager when the jury entered the court room.

When the verdict was pronounced Weinseimer trembled and grasped the railing to steady himself.

His counsel said that he would at once appeal the case on the ground that the verdict was contrary to the evidence.

STATE POLICE

TWO MORE MEN ADDED TO THIS FORCE.

BOSTON, Oct. 19—Yesterday afternoon Governor Bates made two additional appointments to the district police force, ex-Senator Charles S. Clerke of Boston and Ernest S. Bradford of Hyannis, thus bringing the total number of men in that department up to 61.

As at present constituted, there are 37 men assigned to the inspection department, while the remaining 22 compose the detective department. Of the latter number, six are called fire inspectors and one chief fire inspector. The chief and deputy chief of the department are included in the 61.

Mr. Clerke, who goes to the inspection department, was born in Falmouth in 1850. He is a civil war veteran and past commander of Dahlgren Post 2, G. A. R.

Mr. Bradford has been deputy sheriff of Barnstable county six years and rendered valuable service to Mr. Letteny whom he succeeds.

POLICE DENOUNCED

FOR BRUTALITY IN CLUBBING CROWD AT CORK.

CORK, Oct. 19—A serious conflict between sympathizers with those who were arrested for participation in the eviction riots at Fellsport on Oct. 12 and the police occurred at the hearing of the case at the Rivertown courthouse yesterday. Twenty people were injured in the disturbance, some of them being seriously hurt.

When the Fellsport defendants were arraigned the crowd in attendance, unable to secure admission to the courtroom, attacked the police. More than 10 of the latter formed up to maintain order and charged with their batons, striking right and left, and dispersing the crowd.

The judge summoned the officer commanding the police, who said his men had been first attacked.

W. M. O'Brien, one of the court attendants, who charged excessive brutality on the part of the police, brought in one of the injured men, who was covered with blood.

The magistrate denounced the action of the police and as a protest adjourned the hearing for six weeks, bailing the defendants until that time.

BOURKE COCKRAN

MADE ANOTHER ATTACK ON PROTECTION SYSTEM.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 19—A large crowd heard W. Bourke Cockran speak in the Central Armory last night. The meeting was the first large gathering of the democrats of Cleveland and Cuyahoga county.

Mr. Cockran, who was introduced by Mayor Johnson, reviewed the fundamental principles of the two great parties and said that the return to democratic principles would mean the betterment of the condition of the workingman in shorter hours of labor and an increase of wages, such a condition being brought about by increased production, which is a fundamental of democracy.

Speaking of the trusts, Mr. Cockran said that they were a natural outcome of the protective tariff system, as were disputes between labor and capital.

It is a condition of this country, also, said Mr. Cockran, that wealthy men are held in contempt because they are regarded as being beneficiaries of a system by which they are profiting at the expense of their fellow-citizens.

SENT TO JAIL

WOMAN SMOKED IN PRESENCE OF CHILDREN.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Oct. 19—Charged with smoking cigarettes in the presence of her children, Mrs. Jennie Lasher, of Philadelphia, has been sentenced to 30 days in the county jail for endangering their morals. The complaint was made by her husband, after a family dispute over the morality of the act.

This is the first conviction of the kind under the state law which makes it a misdemeanor for a mother to smoke cigarettes in the presence of her family.

BARTER SYSTEM

Adopted by Missionaries Says Minister

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Ernest Lyon, the United States minister to Liberia, in a long report to the state department, severely criticises American missionaries in Africa. Mr. Lyon says:

"Many of the missionaries have adopted the barter system in their work among the natives. This places the missionary on the same level with the trader. The enormous profit made is a temptation to good men, many of whom have turned aside for filthy lucre. From 150 to 200 per cent. sometimes is easily made on some things. The government has been liberal to the missionaries in allowing free entry to everything used by them in their work. The Muhlenberg station ships coffee to the United States.

"A lady who has been a missionary at Monrovia for twenty-five years deals in kerosene oil and other commodities, which are sold at a profit. The popular opinion is that some of these bartering missionaries are quite as much interested in their wares as in the souls of the heathen. It would be far better if the boards in the United States under whose auspices they operate would relieve the workers in Africa from this practice by supplying them with sufficient means with which to carry on the work without it."

State department officers consider that Mr. Lyon's report is remarkable, not only because of the insight it gives into conditions in Liberia, about which but little has heretofore been known, but also for the interesting manner in which it is written. Minister Lyon is a colored man, was formerly a minister of the Methodist church in Baltimore and is well thought of in Washington. Mr. Lyon says:

"I have just returned from a trip into the interior. The objective point was Bobbies Island, but the annual rise of the creeks and rivers rendered travel difficult, and we were compelled to end our journey at Kpondla Hill, the site of an important town, the entrance to which lies hidden in a dense forest.

"The traveller who travels by hammock finds himself swinging to and fro, suspended from a horizontal bar whose ends rest on the shoulders of two stalwart natives, who rush him at breakneck speed through narrow and uneven paths, over dangerous ravines and huge logs which block the way. Sometimes the unequal height of the carriers occasions much suffering to the victim, which the native enjoys richly.

"The absence of railroads and of every other vehicular convenience for travel in Liberia is a serious drawback to the development and prosperity of the republic. For this reason very few Liberians venture into the interior. Only the foreigner ventures. Because of his willingness to assume the difficulties of the journey he becomes at once the object of curious wonder."

Minister Lyon has the following to say about physical and moral degeneracy of foreigners in Liberia:

"It is astonishing how quickly the foreigner degenerates in Africa. He is himself conscious of this degeneracy, but is apparently powerless to overcome the downward tendency. Climate conditions influence the mental and moral as well as the physical and social environments. Africa is the home of some peculiar maladies; Among the most violent are the fever, the ulcer, the krn-krn and the yaws. A stranger, in coming to Africa is sure to have the African fever or its equivalent, which sometimes manifests itself in an ulcer which has been known to fasten itself upon the body, with all its hideous consequences, for more than twelve years. The climate and the fever leave the victim with his energy gone, his health impaired and his will shattered. Europeans find it necessary to make annual trips to the Madeira Islands or to the continent to build up the waste places, for which there seems to be no remedy here.

"The social life of the interior has a degenerating tendency on the morals of the foreigner also. Illustrations in social and moral degeneracy are numerous among white and black foreigners. These victims have not been confined to the secular life, but have been found in the religious life also. Men and women who came to teach and to lift up have been found among the victims not merely of heathenish, but of wanton, immorality."

Minister Lyon's report contains the following pen picture of the African warrior:

"The traveller would conclude from appearances that Africa must be a land of warriors. Every man appears as a warrior. He seems to live always in the fear of the enemy, and in the shadow of the great evil which prompts him to go armed from head to foot. With his sword he defends himself from the evil. His arms, which are a part of his dress, consist of a short sword, a country knife, a spear and a bow and arrow, which he uses with great precision. It is of frequent occurrence for boys between the ages of 8 and 9 years to stick a piece of chip about an inch and a half wide in the ground or in the limb of a tree and, at a distance of 200 feet, to split it in halves with the arrows from their bows.

"The country knife is indispensable to the native. It is his most effective weapon of defence. With it he can successfully meet the attacks of the boa constrictor and many of the ravenous beasts and poisonous reptiles of which he has but little fear. The only animal which he seems to fear is the baboon. He will entrap an elephant, chase a leopard and pursue a hippopotamus, but he will fly in mad haste from the hideous yells of a baboon, which resemble the cry of a man in distress. This sound unnerves him, and despite his reputation for courage he will desert you in the deepest forest.

"Our party had an illustration of this during the trip. When in the midst of a thick bush, ten miles away from any settlement, we heard this doleful noise, which we mistook for the cry of distress of, perhaps, some misguided traveller, the natives came to a halt. They knew what it was and in their discomfiture started to leave us in the thickest forest, but the sudden discharge of our firearms brought them to their senses."

ITEM OF $30,000

Figures in Suit Against Jones' Estate

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Oct. 19.—The case of Mrs. Delana Curtis of Manchester against the estate of the late Hon. Frank Jones for $400,000 was called for motion in the superior court yesterday afternoon. The Hon. J. S. H. Frink, counsel for the defence, asked for more definite specification, claiming that those furnished by the plaintiff did not give information enough. Mr. Frink read the specifications, and called the attention of the court to the items, saying of the item of over $30,000 for car fare and railroad travel that he thought Mr. Jones, as president of the Boston & Maine, had passes over all roads, but it seemed that Mrs. Curtis paid all his fares.

Attorney General Eastman for the plaintiff argued that there was no cause for their filing specifications; it was only in courtesy that they had.

Judge Peasley ruled that if they relied on the items they must furnish more detailed specifications, but if they would try their case on the special contract clause, in which they claim he promised her $300,000 on condition she did not sue him for debt, they would not need to file specifications. The plaintiff was given until Monday to decide.

Attorney General Eastman asked to have the case marked for after election as the democratic candidate for governor, Henry F. Hollis, was counsel, and his engagements were such that he could not be present. Judge Peasley ruled that if the case was not reached, Mr. Hollis' engagements would be sufficient cause for holding the case over, but if it was reached, the engagements would not be held sufficient.

CAPTAIN TALBOT'S PLUCK.

Tom Talbot has been reelected a member of the republican state committee, and is still officiating as chairman. Chairman Talbot is getting a good deal of credit for being the only man who ever had the courage to bolt the doors against Senator Lodge. He also cleared out the grafters and hums. The latter are to be kindly dealt with by the local organizations. Thus far the state committee has not had enough mone yto go around.

FRESH AIR AND PURE AIR.

Remember that fresh air is not necessarily pure air. There has been a striking proof of this in a New York hotel where a barrel of dust has been extracted from the fresh air filters in one week. The air was pumped in and in passing through the filters this quantity of dust was extracted. It is plain that by breathing the air before passing through the filters this dust would be drawn into the lungs.

During the same week the automatic sweepers in the hotel gathered two and a half barrels of dust. Now, if the air in a hotel is so charged with dust it is plain that a shop or a store is even more so. The dust bears disease germs and thus the health in threatened. It is only in the country where the breezes blow fresh from the woods and the mountains that real pure air is obtained. It is next to impossible to get a mouthful of absolutely pure air within the confines of a city.

A FEW ADVANTAGES OF RECIPROCITY WITH CANADA.

An agricultural journal has calculated that it costs now $4500 to build a house that seven years ago could have been built for $2800. The Dingley duties on lumber, structural steel, nails and other materials of house-building are held to account for most of the rise. This is a kind of "prosperity" that worries the average man, no matter how much the capitalists and Secretary of the Treasury Shaw may enjoy it.—Boston Traveller.

With a reciprocity arrangement with Canada, under which lumber could be imported free from the provinces, the cost of lumber for building houses would be greatly reduced; and as a result a greater proportion of people could afford to build and own their homes. With the cost of building material reduced a reduction in rents would follow for the benefit of those who cannot afford either to build or to buy their homes. Thus reciprocity with Canada would benefit the masses. But this is but one instance of its benefits. The advantage which the provinces offer for the production of pulp would be of vast advantage to the newspaper publishers as it would afford some relief against the oppressive charges of the paper trust.

THE RESTORATION OF THE CANTEEN.

The officials of the United States army have reported in favor of restoring the army canteen, stating that its absence has caused desertions, has led men to dives and brothels and caused demoralization more or less general. This is a very broad statement. It would be a most regrettable matter if the government should admit that it cannot run the army organization, even in time of peace, without the exhilirating influences of the canteen. Is it not possible to get recruits who can conform to army rules without the use of liquor? Does it really improve the soldiers to allow them to use liquor even without indulging to excess? But if they are prone to drink to excess outside the sphere of camp discipline, will they not do the same through the canteen if allowed the opportunity?

If the soldiers were engaged in a terrible warfare, such as is now raging in the far east, the government might be excused for granting their demand for a reasonable supply of liquor. But in time of peace while the soldiers are in training or awaiting a call for duty, we do not think it is right or proper to maintain saloons for their special accommodation. Apparently the army officers appeal for its restoration as a choice of evils, but their surrender to the demand among the men for intoxicants is anything but creditable to their capacity for maintaining discipline. It is suggestive of the mother's appeal to her child—"Now be a good boy and I'll give you some candy."

GOVERNMENT SURRENDER TO THE TRUSTS.

It is openly stated on what is acknowledged as the best authority that the appeal of the republican party for funds and the collection of funds from large corporations is accompanied by the promise of the party leaders that the administration's crusade against illegal combinations shall cease.

It is well known that Mr. Cortelyou is the close personal friend of the president, that he will return to the cabinet, and in that capacity he will be in a position to make good his promises providing that in any case, the republican party be returned to power.

It is understood that Mr. Cortelyou has given Mr. Morgan, as representing the money power, his promise on the authority of the president that the moneyed interests will be well guarded.

The contributions are pouring in from trusts and combines that feared the enforcement of the law when proceedings were entered against the Northern Securities company and against the beef trust. Have they surrendered to Roosevelt or has he given them indirect assurance of future protection in case he be elected?

On the authority of the New York Times, the New York World and the Brooklyn Eagle, there has been no surrender on the part of the trusts. Wall street has been appealed to for campaign funds and Wall street is not in the habit of paying out money to no purpose. Morgan and the other magnates of the money power received assurances of indulgent treatment before they opened their purse strings to furnish the funds to purchase Roosevelt's election.

As secretary of the department of commerce, Mr. Cortelyou was brought into touch with the great speculative combines and he was selected by the president because of the fact that he was in a position to approach them on the contribution question. From a spirit of law enforcement taken on by the president, he has relapsed into a state of masterly inactivity. No more shackles are being forged for the offending corporations. The government is standing pat, pointing to the single case in which it applied the anti-trust law as it should have had, the same law applied in dozens of cases. There is no flaunting of promises of law enforcement against the trusts. The strenuous work of the campaign is on. The trusts have been appealed to for the funds necessary to purchase the close states and they are responding with great magnanimity, with the understanding that their action will be duly reciprocated in case Roosevelt be returned to power.

Is it not plain that if the president meant to push these illegal combines, he would instruct Mr. Cortelyou to accept no contribution from them. He is compromising with the law breakers whether he gives a promise or not by the mere acceptance of their money.

Suppose the liquor dealers of Lowell combined to elect the candidate of their choice mayor of the city, suppose they subscribed large amounts to purchase votes for him and suppose that they succeeded in electing him. Would that mayor be likely to appoint a license commissioner who would push the liquor dealers? Not much.

So it is with the president. Let the trusts but pay for his election and in return he will be called upon to appoint their choice for attorney general.

That is the way the president will repay the trusts. A corporation tool like Knox will be appointed to enforce the law and he will take particular care not to enforce the law unless popular clamor moves the president to order proceedings in some special case. That is the arrangement. It is wholly satisfactory to the trusts and the speculative combines.

SEEN AND HEARD

Have you taken a stroll in the woods lately and viewed the colors that n artist can paint?

Jennie Richards, the young woman who was removed from the police station to the City farm a few days ago told the authorities at the farm yesterday afternoon that her home is at 1212 Elm street, Manchester, N. H. She said that she has been living at Nashua for the last six months and that she went to Boston several weeks ago. Last week, she said, she came to Lowell and she could not tell much about what had happened since her arrival in this city, except that she spent one night in the woods. She used to live in Howard street but she hasn't any friends or relatives living in this city at the present time.

I might have led you in the pleasan ways—
In valleys where the sweetest violets blow;
I might have made a music in your days;—
Love did not know, sweetheart, Love did not know!
I might have given you rarest wreaths of Fame,
And made your life in lyric numbers flow;—
Taught holier stars in your dim skies to flame;—
Love did not know, sweetheart, Love did not know.
This is the grief that fills the phantom years,
Where only thorns around your dear feet grow!
This thought has left to me a world of tears;—
Love did not know, sweetheart, Love did not know!

"Have you something in brown to match this?"

The clerk glanced up inquiringly at the tall woman, who held out nothing but a Pomeranian dog, which she was placing upon the counter. He held out his hand politely and questioningly.

"This," explained the woman, patting the little feathery dog.

The man still held out his hand, a dazed look growing on his face.

"I want a walking suit to match my dog," the woman said.

The sample barked and called the clerk's attention to business.

"I am sure we can do it, madam," murmured the clerk, glancing over the golden-brown of the dog's coat. "He's just in the stylish color."

"I know, and that's what put into my head the idea of having a suit to match him. A friend of mine has a black Pomeranian and she's got a black suit on purpose to wear with him. The effect is stunning, but I think mine will be more so. It is funny that his coat should be just the yellow brown that is the rage this spring."

To be sure that she was getting just the right shade, the material and the dog were carried to the door into the strong sunlight. A perfect match sent the woman with face wreathed with satisfaction into other departments with her precious sample tucked under her arm.

With a smile of accomplished purpose she left the shoe, hosiery and millinery department.

Some of the retail druggists in the city are wondering whether they have recently been "up against" a clever swindling scheme or whether it is merely a curious coincidence, says the Portland, Me., Argus. As one druggist tells the story he was recently approached by a well dressed woman, a stranger to him, who asked for a certain proprietary preparation that he did not have in stock. He had heard of it, but it had never appealed to him with any degree of force as a valuable curative agent and so he did not take pains to stock up on it.

In a short time a youngish man, al so well dressed and also a stranger to the druggist, dropped in and asked for the same article. He seemed very much put out that he was not able to get it and expressed himself quite freely as to the enterprise and size of a drug store which pretended to be a good one, yet which did not keep such a standard article as this.

Within an hour two ladies came in and asked for this same article. They were even more surprised than the man had been that the druggist did not keep it. They talked to each other very audibly about how Mrs. "Sweet" had recommended this store as being thoroughly up-to-date and how they thought, of course, they could get what they wanted there. Of course it was not kept at every seven by nine drug store that is operated in a prohibition city, they said, but in all really good, first-class legitimate drug stores they had always been able to find it.

These two women who came in last were women who live here and who were recognized by the druggist although he does not know the name of either one of them. He knows they live here because he has often seen them on the streets, but who they are or where they live he is unable to state. He is in doubt about the Mrs. Sweet referred to also.

Two days after these people came upon him a slick looking traveling man representing the house that sells this self-same article of commerce came along and talked it to the drug man so strongly that in view of his repeated calls for it he ordered some and it came along C. O. D. in short order. And it has been on the shelves ever since. The druggist said nothing for a few days and then he began to talk about it to others of his trades and it came out that no less than five different stores had been dealt with in the self-same way.

Then the druggist woke up. To be sure it may have all been a mere coincidence, but they feel that they were made the victims of a nice slick swindle worked to the queen's taste. It looks as though the three women and the nice young man who called for the article were what are generally known as "peppers" for the salesman who came along afterward and who booked the large order made got his money for the same.

One of the druggists asked the mercantile agency for some facts about the house for which the traveling man said he worked and the reply was "This house went out of business three years ago."

INTERESTING PAPER

READ BEFORE LADIES' MISSION CIRCLE.

The Ladies' Mission Circle of St. Paul's M. E. church met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. P. Ritchie in Loring street.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Charles H. Stowell, who is out of the city, Miss Emma L. Bradley presided.

Miss Eleanor Doggett, who is on a furlough from her two years of service as teacher in the Orange Park, Florida mission school, which is located near Jacksonville, and where colored children are taught, gave a most interesting account of her work. The mission is supported by the Congregational home missionary board, and besides the instruction given in the regular English branches, household duties are taught the girls, and the boys receive lessons in manual training. The colored children are apt pupils and there is a fine field of labor for northern women.

Miss Doggett experienced the usual treatment accorded white women of the north, who engage in teaching the negro in the south—she was not accorded a cordial welcome among the white women of the community she taught. She showed a number of pictures of the school house and pupils, and also of the school house where Harriet Beecher Stowe taught many years ago.

Miss Elizabeth Stingham, the church missionary, read a paper on Mormonism.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. James Williamson and Mrs. Merton Gildden.

The attendance was large and a profitable afternoon was spent.

You can't expect to weave white satin with blackened hands, any more than you can expect good results from papers with a bogus circulation.

SENATOR PROCTOR

RE-ELECTED TO THE UNITED STATES SENATE.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 19.—Senator Redfield Proctor was re-elected to the United States senate by the Vermont legislature yesterday. His election will be confirmed today by the usual joint session of the two houses.

In the upper branch of the legislature, every vote cast was for Senator Proctor, but in the house the democrats supported their candidate, John H. Senter, of this city. Out of the 236 votes cast, 205 were for Senator Proctor and 31 for Mr. Senter. Ten members were not present when the vote was taken.

Senator Proctor will be present at the joint session of the legislature today after the vote is formally announced and he will address the legislature.

GONE TEN YEARS

MOTHER AT LAST HEARS FROM HER SON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—A letter from Robert H. Huerab, who disappeared 10 years ago, was received yesterday by his mother, who lives at 628 East 152d street. Ten years ago Huerab left his home in Aix-la-Chapelle to go to Cape Town. The vessel he sailed on was never heard from again and his family gave him up as lost. Soon after his departure the family came to New York.

A few days ago a cablegram came to his mother signed "Ragetta," and telling of his safe return. Ragetta is the name of a cousin who resided at 500 East 143d street. Huerab's mother thought the despatch was some sort of hoax until a letter was received from her son yesterday in which he says among other things that he had abandoned his own name and adopted his cousin's. He tells of many months of wandering in Africa and his ultimate falling into good fortune. He says:

"I have accumulated a considerable fortune and intend coming to America when the weather becomes warmer. I have spent the last six years in Te-te, Portuguese Africa, and fear the cold of New York."

Mrs. Huerab when seen last night said: "Yes, it is true that we have heard from my son and that he is coming here in the spring. We had given him up for lost for many years, and it was a great surprise to hear from him."

Huerab says in his letter that he has spent the time of his wanderings with none but "black men."

CABINET MEETING

DECIDED TO ATTEND TO PANAMA'S COMPLAINT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The differences between the administration and the republic of Panama growing out of the construction of the canal, the existence of which trouble has been officially denied several times, constituted almost the sole subject of discussion at the cabinet meeting yesterday.

The published charges of Senor Obaldia, the minister from Panama, that the rights of Panama are being disregarded, and complaints direct from the Isthmian government, have aroused the fear that if something to conciliate the new republic is not done, there may be trouble on the Isthmus which might affect the campaign.

Panama contends that this country was given control of the canal strip only for the purpose of building and guarding the canal, and that the exercise of such absolute control as the canal commission has assumed would virtually mean the establishment of an American republic within the borders of Panama.

Panama objects seriously to the levying of duties on goods, particularly fruits and foodstuffs, shipped into the canal zone from the immediately adjoining country.

It was decided to make some concessions to Panama in the hope that harmony will be restored.

It is predicted that the adjustment of all differences which may hereafter arise will be placed in the hands of Mr. Barrett, and that the Panama government will have no further cause to complain of the arbitrary methods of Gen. Davis and Admiral Walker.

"YOUNG CORBETT"

MATCHED TO MEET JABEZ WHITE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—A match for a $10,000 side bet was finally arranged early yesterday between William Rothwell ("Young Corbett") and Jabez White, the English lightweight champion. The fight will take place in London on Nov. 30.

Charles Mitchell, the former heavyweight prize fighter, conducted the negotiations on behalf of White.

An odd feature of the match is that Charles White, the American referee, will officiate. It was agreed that both sides would abide by his interpretation of Queensbery rules.

Mitchell demurred over Rothwell's program for an earlier fight in California, but the American declared it would make no difference and that he should insist on carrying out his plan to box Nelson first.

BIG BLACK BEAR

FARMER FULCHER SAW ANIMAL IN HIS ORCHARD.

UTICA, Oct. 18.—Albert Fulcher, a farmer living near Camden, galloped into that village astride one of his plough horses yesterday and reported that he had seen a black bear near his home, a mile from the village. Bears are not exactly common in that neighborhood, and the mere announcement was enough to throw the sportsmen of the village into a fever of excitement, but when Mr. Fulcher added that the bear was a great, big, fat fellow, that would weigh about four hundred pounds, then there was a scramble to bag it.

All the good guns and some of the old guns were hastily taken down. There was a hurrying and scurrying for ammunition of the right kind, and it was not long before fifty men were headed for Wolcott Hill to interview Bruin. There were twenty-two men in one party. Mr. Fulcher said that he saw the bear in his orchard. The animal was tearing open sacks of apples which had been left out over night. At last reports the bear had not been overtaken.

KNIGHTS OF MALTA.

There was a large gathering of Knights of Malta at the Odd Fellows' temple in Middlesex street last night to witness the work of the degree of the Red Cross and Sepulchre, which was performed by the degree team of Lowell Commandery, No. 261, A. I. O. K. of M.

Perfect Laundry Work

SOME FIVE years ago we were induced, through words of praise heard on several occasions, to send our personal work to the E. & R. Laundry at Cambridge. We were agreeably surprised, owing to our former experience with laundries, to find the clothes returned to us, week after week, in splendid condition and without the stamp of hard usage that so many laundries place upon their output.

We were so well pleased that we mentioned the fact to numerous customers of ours, who in their turn were also well pleased.

The work was so well done, the clothes were returned so spotless, being neither torn, frayed, nor faded, that from the satisfaction of these customers and their expression of such to others, a considerable business for the E. & R. Laundry has grown up in Lowell.

Although many others wished to enjoy the benefit of the E. & R. work, the trouble of bundling and sending by express, each week, their package of laundry deterred them from so doing.

A desire to accommodate these people and others who appreciate fine work has been the means of our making special arrangements with the E. & R. Laundry, whereby we have become authorized agents of that concern.

The E. & R. Laundry has been established for many years, and today it stands at the head. In addition to the demands of man, it has always made a special effort in catering to the laundry needs of the "well-groomed" woman. It has a special department where shirt waists, white skirts, and the dainty lingerie of womankind are carefully washed and ironed, entirely by hand.

Lace curtains, embroideries, and delicate material of all kinds will be as carefully and more scientifically handled by them than in your home.

The E. & R. Laundry, now occupies a new building, completed within a few weeks, devoted entirely to its work, and equipped with every modern device. All of the necessary mechanical operations being done by electricity, it is undoubtedly the most perfectly appointed laundry in existence.

The hygienic conditions are all that the most extreme care can make them; no work is accepted from hospitals, nor, from any other source where the presence of a contagious disease is suspected.

The E. & R. Laundry is now prepared to do the entire family washing, flat work for 35 cents the dozen. We shall be pleased to furnish laundry lists giving full information; a postal will bring them.

From this time on, packages of laundry left at our store on Mondays, not later than 4 o'clock in the afternoon, will be returned to the owners the following Friday, after 2 P. M.

MAN STABBED

WHILE HE WAS DRIVING NEAR CATSKILL.

CATSKILL, N. Y., Oct. 19.—William Walters of Jersey City was stabbed twice near here yesterday and is in a critical condition at the home of a relative at Green Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Walters own a summer cottage at the lake and John and Charles Deer, brothers of Mrs. Walters, live there the year round.

Walters and his family started yesterday to drive to Catskill where they intended to board a night boat for New York. While on the way Walters was assaulted by two men, who pulled him out of the vehicle and beat and stabbed him. Sheriff Post was notified and with four deputies, left for the scene. Charles Deer was arrested on suspicion and the officers are looking for his brother John.

CONFERRED WITH PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—W. Murray Crane, the newly appointed senator from Massachusetts, was in conference with President Roosevelt for some time at the White House last night. Mr. Crane was averse to talking about his visit, further than to say that it was made at the invitation of the president. He returned to Boston on a late train.

JOHN HENDRICKS

Honored by Middlesex County Board A. O. H.

REV. FR. FLYNN ELECTED COUNTY CHAPLAIN

Biennial Session Held in Cambridge

The biennial session of the Middlesex county board of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in Institute hall, East Cambridge, yesterday and last night, went unanimously against any alliance between America and England.

It was the largest county convention ever held in Middlesex, the five officers of each of the 48 divisions being present when the gathering was called to order at 10.30 by President Patrick J Beirne.

The convention was welcomed by William T. Phelan, who spoke for the nine Cambridge divisions that had united in preparing a banquet for the delegates. He dwelt on the wonderful growth of the order in that section of the county, and then introduced Mayor Daly, who gave the delegates a cordial greeting in behalf of the city.

In doing so he told of the important part that Irish men and women have taken in upbuilding Cambridge; cited the great number of men of that race who had responded to the country's call from the time the first shot was fired in the revolution to the outbreak of the war with Spain, and then spoke of the great benefit that has resulted from membership in the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

The church of the Sacred Heart, in whose parish the convention was held, was represented by Rev. Michael P. Mahan, who extended the greetings of the church. The responses were made by County President Beirne.

Mr. Beirne in his address congratulated the organization on the harmony existing in the county and on the fact that again it was able to show a large net increase in members.

"Today," said Mr. Beirne, "the organization is stronger in this county than for years. With 48 divisions in good standing and a membership of 6500, there is everything to be proud of. While the payments from the sick and general funds have greatly increased, the total amount in the treasury, $60,000, shows a net increase of close to $12,000. Since the last convention the order paid out $28,000 in benefits."

He felt that the Irish people in America have every reason to be pleased at the way things are going on in Ireland.

He urged that the convention should go on record against everything that tends to an Anglo-Saxon alliance, and show its appreciation of the work done for the Irish cause by George Frisbie Hoar.

The most important legislation enacted was that which calls for the county board to consist of the president of every division in the county who will work in conjunction with the county officers.

There were a number of candidates for all the offices, and the election, which began at 3 o'clock, lasted until long after 8. The officers elected are: John F. Donnelly of Cambridge, president; John Hendricks of Lowell, vice president; Thomas F. Gavin of Watertown, treasurer; Joseph P. Cooney of Wakefield, financial secretary; James R. Corbishley, recording secretary; Rev. John Patrick Flynn of Lowell, county chaplain.

During the day there were interesting addresses by State President Matthew Cummings of Neponset and by Rev. Fr. Flynn of Lowell.

John F. Donnelly, the newly-chosen county president, was born in Ireland 43 years ago, and has been a resident of Cambridge since he was 17 years old. He became a member of the A. O. H. 24 years ago. He is now serving his seventh year as president of division 15 of Cambridge, one of the oldest and strongest divisions in this state. He is employed in the Cambridge park system.

BARGE WRECKED

VALUABLE CARGOE IS A TOTAL LOSS.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 19.—Advices to owners say that the steamer Havana from Halifax towing a barge to Hamilton Inlet, Labrador, laden with barrels of flour, 100 barrels of pork and other merchandise, was struck by a gale in the straits of Belle Isle on Saturday and the cable parted. The Havana sheltered at Chateau but the barge became a wreck, breaking in two parts and drifted ashore on Sunday at Powers Cove. Everything was lost. The freight was for a lumber concern in Grand River, Hamilton Inlet, and this was the second loss met by them this year, the steamer Viking with a full cargo having been lost in August.

The choir of the First Congregational church was entertained last night by Miss Ella M. Martel at her home in June street. During the evening refreshments were served by Caterer Evans. A most pleasant evening was spent by all.

THREW UP JOB

Pat Cahill Tired of Teaching Boxing

Pat Cahill, the ex-amateur middleweight champion fighter of America who is well known in Lowell, and who is a particular friend of Martin Flaherty, was hired by the Rev. John L. Scudder, pastor of the First Congregational church of Jersey City, to teach boxing lessons in the People's Palace, which Joseph Milbank, a New York banker, built and finished for the church.

Cahill held the job a short time and then threw it up.

It had been announced that the "professor," who keeps a saloon at 325 Grove street, Jersey City, would start last night to instruct a class of Sunday school boys and others in the art of self-defence, and a large number of persons visited the anti-saloon institution, hoping to get a chance to see the saloonkeeper as he showed the boys how "to put up their dukes." Many were disappointed when Dr. Scudder announced that Cahill wouldn't put in an appearance for the reason that he was no longer teacher of boxing.

Cahill's selection as boxing master was criticized by many of Dr. Scudder's parishioners because the ex-pugilist was engaged in the liquor business. Those who had an opportunity told the minister that they didn't like the idea at all and others sent him expressions of opinion by mail. Dr. Scudder hastened to explain to everybody that he didn't know at the time he made a contract with Cahill that he was in the ginmill business. He liked the ex-pugilist's style so well that he forgot to ask him what he did for a living.

Dr. Scudder had a heart-to-heart talk with Cahill and explained the situation. The saloonkeeper offered to relieve the minister from his contract.

The class is now without a teacher and Dr. Scudder is looking for some one to fill the vacancy. Dr. Scudder made the following statement Monday night:

Owing to certain inaccuracies in the newspapers, I desire to state that Patrick Cahill was secured as teacher of boxing in the People's Palace, but at the time we were not aware that he was a saloonkeeper, and he has now voluntarily retired from the situation offered him, because of the opposition caused by the business he is engaged in. The situation, both for him and the People's Palace, was a delicate one, but I find him every inch a gentleman. He does not wish to be a bone of contention and has been both philosophical and gracious in his consideration of the peculiar situation we have been placed in.

The People's Palace will teach wrestling, fencing, boxing, tumbling and other athletic sports, which are all desirable, if kept within proper bounds. We wanted him to teach our young men the art of self defence, because he is a master in that line of work, having been amateur middleweight champion of America for some eight or ten years. Any man who can hold that position is able to teach boxing and do it well. I don't want an old woman or a D. D. to give instruction in this line. We want some one who understands the business.

Self protection is nature's first law, and I have little respect for a man who cannot protect himself with his fists, if occasion should call for their use. My father made me learn to box as a boy. In college I gave lessons in boxing to fellow students, and I would be boxing today if it were not for my spectacles.

If it were not for the saloon business Mr. Cahill would be boxing master in the People's Palace today, and I would want him there. He has never been a professional prize fighter; he has been an amateur gentleman sparrer, and competent to teach gentlemen how to box.

As our institution is substantially an anti-saloon enterprise, its interests demand that our ways should part. He has severed his connection with us before a lesson has been given. His manly way of meeting the situation has won my admiration, and in spite of his business he and I shall always be friends.

LAMP UPSET

JOHN COOK WAS SEVERELY BURNED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—While John Cook, a deckhand on the barge Thomas J. Freeman of Haverstraw, lying at the foot of East Nineteenth street, was painting in the hold Monday afternoon, he upset a lamp, which ignited the paint and caused a fierce fire. Cook was badly burned, but managed to reach the deck, where others of the crew rolled him in a piece of sail cloth and tore off his burning clothes. He was taken to Bellevue, where his condition is said to be serious.

The tiebant William L. Strong ran alongside the barge and put out the fire.

KNIGHTS OF MALTA.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18—The twenty-first annual convention of the supreme commandery of the ancient and illustrious order of the Knights of Malta began here today. Several hundred delegates attended. The day sessions were practically devoted to the reports of officers and committees. W. J. Rugh of Pittsburg, the supreme treasurer, announced a balance on hand of $2904.

The committee recommended that the per capita tax remain at 34 cents for subordinate commanderies under the immediate jurisdiction of the subordinate supreme commandery and 12 cents per capita for each member reported by grand commanderies.

HEAVY LOSSES

Several Factories Destroyed by Fire

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 19.—The R. A. Patterson tobacco factory No. 2, here was practically destroyed by fire last night. Loss about $100,000, covered by insurance. The fire is thought to have been due to spontaneous combustion in the granulating department. About 250 persons were employed in the plant.

FIFTEEN BUILDINGS BURNED.

STARKVILLE, Miss., Oct. 19.—Fifteen buildings were destroyed by fire yesterday at Sturgis, Miss. The entire business part of the town, except one store was swept away. The loss is not stated.

LOSS IS $200,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Fire last night destroyed the works of the Anchor Rubber Tire company at Setauket, L. I. The loss is estimated at $200,000, most of which was upon machinery and finished and unfinished stock. The cause of the fire is not known.

IN SIX ROUNDS

COLE HAD THE BETTER OF LARRY TEMPLE.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—After six rounds of hard, fast fighting, George Cole of this city had a shade on Larry Temple of New York in the wind-up at Manhattan athletic club last night.

When the men entered the ring it was easily seen that Cole had an advantage in height and reach, and owing to the advantage in reach he used a left jab that greatly bothered Temple. In the mixup Temple gained an advantage, but the superior foot work and cleverness of the Philadelphian was too much for his opponent.

In the opening round both men appeared afraid of each other and very little fighting was seen. Toward the close of the round Cole landed several hard punches to the face and body without a return. Just as the bell sounded he landed a hard left on Larry's jaw, sending him to the floor. He came up in a dazed condition and walked slowly to his corner.

After many clinches in the next round Temple landed two hard punches on Cole's head and dazed him for a few seconds. The New Yorker failed to follow up his advantage and Cole came back strong and had Temple worried for the rest of the round.

Both men clinched often during the third, and Temple was content to hang on until the referee separated them.

In the next two rounds Cole punished his opponent about the body and face, and had him bleeding from the mouth. Temple appeared worried and tried to avoid Cole by dodging. Toward the close of both rounds Temple took a brace and forced Cole to break ground. He landed several hard punches to the nose and body, and in the fifth had Cole against the ropes bleeding from the mouth. His blows seemed to lack steam and did not do much damage.

In the last round Temple rushed from his corner and started after Cole, determined to end the fight. Cole, however, was too shifty and after each lead that Temple would make he would land hard punches to the body. These blows took some of the steam out of Temple and the bell was welcomed and found both men clinching.

"TAKES COURAGE"

STATEMENT IN LETTER LEFT BY SUICIDE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—"It is now 3 o'clock. It has been said that a person is a coward who commits suicide. Well, it takes plenty of courage for me to do it. I have tried to put it off for two years, but the incident of today is about the worst that can happen me. Some people are born to live and some are born to die. Those that are in the inside will understand all. Say goodby to mother and 'L.' I have tried hard to think there is a God. If there was one, I know He would not permit me to do this. I know there is no God, so goodby. JOHN S. SPIER."

"I want my body cremated and the ashes thrown away."

Such is the letter left by a man who deliberately committed suicide yesterday by inhaling illuminating gas in the Clarendon hotel, 18th street and 4th avenue. He engaged a room about 2.30 in the afternoon; an hour and 40 minutes later he was found unconscious; an hour more and he was dead.

Spier registered at the hotel as "John S. Lane, Albany."

He was well dressed, wearing a blue suit and patent leather shoes. He was about 35 years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, with a smooth face and dark hair, slightly gray.

SERIOUSLY INJURED

BOY RUN OVER BY A PASSING TRAIN.

BOSTON, Oct. 19—Two Dorchester high school boys, Charles Campbell and Carroll Gleason, were walking along the embankment adjoining the tracks of the N. Y., N. H. & H. Midland division station at Harvard street, Dorchester, about 5 p. m. yesterday, when Campbell stumbled, and missing his footing, rolled down on the tracks. A freight train was passing at the time, and by the force of his fall the lower part of his body was thrown against the rails, his legs striking in front of the rear truck of the last car.

Young Gleason, who was walking some little distance ahead of his companion, had turned to call Campbell's attention to some object when he caught sight of his friend lying on the tracks. In an instant he was bending over the other trying bravely to staunch the flow of blood and speaking words of sympathy and encouragement.

Campbell groaned piteously as Gleason lifted him from the tracks and then relapsed into a state of unconsciousness. Having made his chum as comfortable as possible, Gleason ran down the tracks to summon a physician. A doctor was soon found, who rendered such aid that it was possible to convey the boy to the depot and from there on a train to the Massachusetts general hospital.

It was found that his left leg had been cut off just below the knee and that his right foot had been badly crushed. His condition is critical.

The injured lad's mother was in ignorance of the accident until late in the evening. She had been away during the afternoon and did not learn of it until her return home shortly before 8 o'clock. She was overcome when the details were told her, but in time recovered sufficiently to visit the hospital in a carriage.

A MATTER OF HEALTH

BAKING POWDER

HAS NO SUBSTITUTE

PRICE OF COTTON

SOME DISCUSSION ALSO OF ITS CONSUMPTION.

Mr. Brown of New Orleans is using the same kind of argument that Mr. Sully of New York used last year in support of the theory of a permanent high price for cotton. Mr. Sully was permitted to use the pages of a highly respectable magazine to convince the people that they must pay more for cotton goods and continue to wear out just as much in order to support the bull movement of the speculators, but he failed of his purpose and went down under a break of prices later on. It is evident that this year's cotton crop is going to be a large one, possibly unprecedented, but Mr. Brown is arguing that the price must keep up because the "world's requirements" for cotton goods have increased, partly as a result of the short supply of the last year or two, and because the consumer is "fully able to pay present prices for his needs." The gist of Mr. Sully's argument was that the people could afford to pay the high prices and must buy all the goods made to supply their needs at such cost as the supply and price of the material made necessary.

It is quite true that the stoppage of mills and the diminished production of cotton fabrics was primarily due to lack of material rather than price, though one incident was the cause of the other, but it is equally true that the diminished supply of goods failed to have the effect of advancing their price proportionately, because consumers refused to buy them. Whether they could afford to keep up their rate of consumption or not, they refused to do it and mills had to cut wages and shut down their machinery, not altogether because they could not get cotton, but because there was a dead loss in converting it into cloth at the price for which this could be sold. There was not enough cotton to go around and meet all requirements of the mills, but there was more than enough to meet the requirements of consumers at the prevailing prices of goods, as was proved by the accumulation of stocks at the same time that production was curtailed, though these prices were not sufficient to return a profit to the manufacturers.

It may be as Mr. Bowen says that on the first of September "the supply of raw cotton, visible and invisible, and the supply of cotton goods and cotton yarns were the smallest in proportion to requirements in the history of statistics," but it does not follow that the deficiency is to be fully made up and "requirements" maintained at the prices occasioned by a period of shortage. "Requirements" is an elastic term and does not represent a fixed need. Existing mills may require about so much cotton to keep their machinery and their operatives fully employed, but they are not the consumers. The latter do not require any fixed quantity of cotton goods,—all the mill can make, for instance, or all that can be made from the yield of the year's cotton crop. How much they will take depends, not upon how much can be supplied, but upon how much the goods will cost. It is of no use to tell them that they need so much and can afford to pay a certain price for it. The mass of people have too much use for their small incomes to be swayed by any such persuasion.

The fact of the matter is that the consumers of cotton goods, who have been economizing while the material was above ten cents a pound even though the price of cloth was not correspondingly high, will continue to economize so long as that price for the material is maintained. The fact that there is plenty of it, and that the mills can operate to their full capacity again, will not induce them to buy all the goods made unless the price comes down. The notion that just as much cotton goods can be sold with the price of cotton at ten or twelve cents a pound, as when it is at seven to nine cents, is fallacious. A crop of 11,000,000 to 12,000,000 bales cannot be sold at the same price per pound as one of 9,000,000 to 10,000,000 bales, or anything like it, for consumption will be determined not by the quantity to be had at some price, but by the actual cost of the finished goods to the consumers. A larger supply means a lower price this year just as it has in previous years.

This is the time to buy coal. See Fred H. Rourke, 994 Gorham street.

MARY TAYLOR ONCE WAS A DORCHESTER BELLE.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—Mary E. Taylor, formerly a silverware saleswoman in a department store and once a prominent soloist in Dorchester churches, who was arrested 14 months ago by Inspector Hart on a charge of larceny, and whose sentence has been deferred many times owing to illness, was committed by Judge Sherman in the superior criminal court yesterday to the house of correction for two years, after she had pleaded guilty to two counts of the indictment.

There are many pathetic circumstances connected with the arrest and sentence of Mary E. Taylor, who about six years ago was a belle in the Dorchester district. Her marriage to James H. Taylor, according to her counsel, proved unhappy and she was obliged to work for her living. From the silverware department in the store where she worked articles were missed daily. One day Inspector Hart saw the Taylor woman pawning silverware in a South End place. An investigation followed and it was found that the woman had carried away silverware every day in the bloomers she wore. Her arrest occurred Aug. 26, 1903, and much of the property stolen was found at her home and in South End pawnshops. Friends went to her assistance and considerable property was returned to the firm. The total value of the goods stolen amounts to $685.

After her arrest the woman was taken violently ill and for a time her friends feared she was mentally deranged. When she was called for sentence a year ago her case was postponed, owing to her condition, and several times after that the case was again continued as she was undergoing treatment at a sanitarium.

In addition to her own troubles her husband began to drink heavily and while on probation for drunkenness was arrested for forgery last July. He is now serving an indefinite sentence imposed at the July term.

Trouble, friends allege, drove the defendant to drink, and one morning last week she was found in the dock of the municipal criminal court. The upper court officials were made aware of the fact that she was in custody for drunkenness and she was brought to the superior court on a default warrant and the drunk charge was placed on file.

Yesterday the woman had nothing to say when her case was called, but wept when sentence was pronounced.

Smith of this city, son of Samuel Francis Smith, author of "My Country 'Tis of Thee," stood before Judge House in the district court yesterday afternoon to receive sentence on two indictments for embezzlement and one for perjury. Smith was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in the penitentiary at Anamosa. As trustee of large estates, he recently acknowledged embezzlement of $120,000.

HORNE COAL CO.

FOR GOVERNOR— WILLIAM L. DOUGLAS

The Best Type of a Self-Made Man—Elect Him Governor and Massachusetts' Appeal for Reciprocal Trade Treaties Will Be Heeded at Washington.

The career of the Hon. William L. Douglas, who has been nominated for Governor, is one possible only in such a country as ours. Born of worldly poor and hard-working parents, deprived by death at the age of five of the assistance and guiding hand of a father, he has risen, step by step, to his present position of honor and prosperity. His life work should prove an inspiration to every poor but ambitious boy. His achievement is a gratification to every mother, and strengthens the hope for the future of her own.

The life work of William L. Douglas is unique, in that he has been able, by hard and diligent labor to educate himself and rise from a penniless orphan to a commanding position in his chosen vocation. But, above and beyond all, and standing out in bold relief, is the fact that never has he lost his interest in the uplifting of the poor, the lowly and the unfortunate. Not one dollar of his money, be it said to his credit, has been wrung from the overworked or underpaid.

All through his life of nearly sixty years he has devoted his energies to making the world better because he lived in it; to ennobling labor, improving the working and living conditions, and to a better understanding between those who work and those who pay. He has demonstrated that it is entirely possible to employ a large army of workers in a competitive business, pay the highest wages, work the shortest hours, and still attain the greatest financial success for himself and those associated with him. In his great factories at Brockton the average pay of his employes for the fifty-two weeks of the last year was $14.04. It must be remembered, of course, that this sum does not include foremen or any high-salaried people. It represents, multiplied by fifty-two, the average annual earnings of shoe makers exclusively. These figures are nearly double the annual average wage in Massachusetts. And it can be said in passing that this comparatively high earning capacity for the workers is not the only benefit derived from employment by a humane man. The working conditions, from a moral and sanitary point of view, are of the very best.

By the foresight of William L. Douglas, while serving as a senator of the Commonwealth, he caused to be enacted the law creating the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation. He was the first Massachusetts manufacturer to join with his employes in adopting arbitration in his business affairs; and because they adopted the golden rule for their guidance each side has accepted the decisions of that board without question. Thus has he succeeded in keeping his men continuously employed. No strike has occurred, no wheel has been stopped, no door has been closed, no workman has been turned back, no family has been left without bread; but in all this time every man received each week a full pay envelope. The rule worked well in this case, as it must always work well where it is fairly tried, for it depends for its success not upon the rigor of stern laws, but upon the kindness of human hearts. William L. Douglas blazed the way for industrial peace and prosperity for the worker, as well as for himself.

His election as Governor of Massachusetts would put a check upon extravagance in State expenditures. In him the people will find no untried man, but one whose ripe judgment affords ample guaranty of wise and economical administration.

If he is elected, every legislative act will receive the careful consideration of a trained business man—one who has been employe and employer—one who knows exactly the situation and necessities of both, and whose honesty and judgment will be trusted by both. In him both employer and employe will find a harmonizer, a conciliator, a true friend.

William L. Douglas is a man of the people and for the people. He is conservative, but he loves mankind more than he loves money. His judgment is courted by the largest business concerns in the world. He has long been a leader in the movement to secure for New England the markets that are hers by natural right. He has worked earnestly to secure a reciprocity treaty with our Canadian neighbors on the north, that we might extend our markets and better employ our labor.

In him the business interests of the Commonwealth will find a strong believer in reciprocity with Canada in competitive products—one who will stand squarely upon the clear and unequivocal platform adopted by the convention which nominated him—a reciprocity plank in marked contrast to the work of the master jugglers of the opposition. In him the people will find a valiant champion of tariff reform that will reduce the cost of living to our people and give wider markets to our manufacturers.

His ability to manage an enormous commercial enterprise successfully is Mr. Douglas's best recommendation to the voters of the State, that he could fill the position of chief executive of the Commonwealth with marked ability and success. The brain that gives a business of over six millions of dollars a year its impetus would be worth much at the head of the affairs of the Commonwealth. The people of the State could not hire, for money, a man of such ability to be the business manager. But they can elect him. It is this ability for judging men and measures, this ability to grasp situations and analyze them, and this marvellous power for organization and executive direction that he has shown in his business and public life that will induce so many members of other parties to vote for him for Governor of Massachusetts this year.

We are now at the parting of the ways. Unless the true road is taken, Massachusetts industries will rapidly decay. The hour has arrived when a leader is needed. The leader is at hand, ready to go forward. Our leader, William L. Douglas, was born in the historic town of Plymouth 59 years ago. He began life's struggle at the age of seven years, attending school in the intervals of work and pursuing both studies and labor with that characteristic zeal which has since brought him such large rewards. In his career is exemplified every phase of industrial life, for at the age of 31 he had been apprentice, journeyman, foreman and proprietor. The business he then established has been successful, and to-day has grown to immense proportions.

In the domestic circle and in the sphere of charity he has exhibited the traits which ennoble the life of man. No better definition of the term "self-made man" can be found than in his career. Successful in his private business, he possesses in a high degree that public spirit upon which the well-being of every community so largely depends. He has represented his district in the House and in the Senate, and has served his city as councilman and mayor. He has been thrice a delegate to national conventions. No public task was ever shirked by him; no public call was ever left unanswered.

Mr. Douglas is a quiet, unassuming gentleman. Unspoiled by business success, the possession of millions, or the honors that have been his in public life, fealty to his home and the members of his family always has been and is to-day the mainspring of his life.

His philanthropy is well known. He assists with a liberal hand when satisfied of the worthiness of the object, and although he has shown this side of his character in a number of public ways, only he and his devoted wife know the hundreds of other cases in which their wealth has been used to help others.

His nearly sixty years of life are unmarred by any selfish act; he believes in the greatest good to the greatest number; he believes in Massachusetts and wants to preserve and extend her industries. This can be accomplished by making of Massachusetts a doubtful political State, to the end that our appeal for justice at Washington will be heeded.

In every grinding struggle of life William L. Douglas has passed the ordeal successfully. He has not failed yet. Men of Massachusetts, give him your support for Governor and he will not fail you now.

PITCHED BATTLE

Soldiers and Bandits Faced Each Other

THREE MEN KILLED AND MANY WOUNDED

The Bandits Were Crazed by Strong Drink

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 19.—Three killed and 15 more or less seriously wounded, was the result of an attack by bandits on a residence near here and a subsequent encounter between the bandits and soldiers who were sent in pursuit of them. The dead:

LAURINO FRIAS, Santa Julia.
NESTOR FLORES, bandit.
Soldier, name unknown.

The wounded:

Vicento Godinez, Santa Julia.
Leonardo Barquez.
Rodrigo Caledo, bandit.
Petro Herrera, bandit.
Eleven soldiers.

Crazed by drink, three bandits, Flores, Caledo and Herrera, went to the residence of Vicento Godinez at Santa Julia, a northern suburb of this city, and called for Godinez. When he issued from the house, accompanied by Laurino Frias, a servant, the band opened fire upon them. Frias was instantly killed and Godinez badly wounded.

When news of the tragedy reached the authorities of this city, 12 rurales were dispatched to a plantation, whither it was learned the desperadoes had fled. A pitched battle ensued. Not a soldier in the squad escaped unhurt.

JUNIOR Y. M. C. A.

OPENED NEW ROOMS ON HURD STREET.

The new rooms for the junior members of the local Young Men's Christian association in Hurd street were opened last night. The attendance of boys was very large, showing that the membership has greatly increased since the summer.

Mr. H. W. Gibson, of Boston, gave an address to the boys which was a mingling of good advice and funny stories.

Games were enjoyed and refreshments were served by the following ladies of the auxiliary: Mrs. W. G. McKay, Miss Edith Russell, Mrs. John Cole.

MAY AMALGAMATE

English and American Bodies to Unite

NEW YORK, Oct. 19—Two fraternal delegates from the British trades union congress to the next convention of the American Federation of Labor, have sailed from London and upon their arrival plans will be discussed for an amalgamation of the English and American long-shore men in an international union with about 150,000 members.

General Organizer Robinson of the American Federation of Labor states that the movement for amalgamation has been in progress for some years, and that a mass meeting will probably be called here while delegate Wignall of the International long-shore men's union of Great Britain is in America to discuss the question and take preliminary steps toward the amalgamation.

Pending amalgamation, the name of the International Long-shoremen's union has been changed to International Marine and Transport Workers' association. The union also now takes in all workers at the docks, as does the English organization.

COTTON GOODS

MORE BUSINESS BEING DONE IN THE MARKET.

Two things will doubtless be impressed upon the mind of the man who makes even the most casual examination into the condition of the cotton goods market at the present time. The first is that more business is being done than was the case previous to Sept. 1. During June, July and August, it will be remembered, comparatively little activity was to be found in the market, and a belief in a more active season to come, coupled with the comparatively high figure at which raw cotton was then selling, undoubtedly had a great deal to do with the spirit of independence so universally shown by manufacturers and their agents, a spirit, by the way, which is not usually found at such a trying time. It appears reasonably certain that the month of September would see an increase in the number of orders received. Some operators seemed to believe that buyers would be ready at that time to cast their doubts and fears aside, and such may have been disappointed at the result, for it must be confessed that present activity is noticeable only when placed in comparison with the period of dullness just preceding. The habits of the early part of the year were too deeply rooted to be changed at once, and considering the rather erratic manner in which the cotton market has been acting, it is perhaps hardly to be wondered at that buyers are but little disposed to make forward contracts, preferring to buy as they go along and take whatever risks may be incurred through following such a plan of action.

The second point to be brought out is the recent tendency towards increased firmness in many lines. The argument is advanced that stocks of cotton goods have not been growing larger, owing to the fact that the demand has been steadily keeping pace with the supply ever since the policy of curtailment was first decided upon. Buyers have been fighting tooth and nail in an attempt to weaken the sellers' stand on the question of prices, but have in almost every case been forced to acknowledge defeat. The victors in the war of argument still hold that high prices are to be expected, and the developments of the week in review indicate that they still hold the upper hand.—American Wool and Cotton Reporter.

POLYGAMY CHARGED

UNITED STATES OFFICIAL IS UNDER ARREST.

EVANSTON, Wyo., Oct. 19.—William H. Kensington, a leading Mormon and U. S. commissioner at Afton, a Mormon settlement in Uinta county, has been arrested, charges of polygamy being preferred against him. Residents of Afton are greatly excited as the result of the visit of the secret service men of the government said to be gathering evidence against Mormons who it is alleged are practicing polygamy.

ITALIAN BISHOPS

ASK POPE TO ALLOW CATHOLICS TO VOTE.

ROME, Oct. 19—Several bishops of North Italy, including Cardinal Ferrari, archbishop of Milan and a close friend of the pope, have petitioned him personally to consider whether the moment has not arrived to allow Catholics to participate in the general elections. According to the petitioners their abstentation from voting during the last 34 years has brought no advantage to the claims of the Vatican, while it has seriously endangered the interests of religion by entrusting power to the open enemies of the church and they believe that if the Catholics are allowed to vote, if not for real clerical candidates at least for conservatives, it would ensure the presence in the chamber of deputies of a strong party capable of preventing the passage of bills aimed against religion. The pope has not yet taken a decision, but he has asked for the opinion of the most authoritative cardinals.

ANGEL SERVANTS

PASTOR TELLS WHAT TO EXPECT IN HEAVEN.

NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 19.—Housekeepers who suffer the usual vexations of the servant problem are taking heart at the utterances of the Rev. E. Hilton Post of Everett, who is conducting nightly revival services at the West End Academy. Domestics who are angels is what Mr. Post promises the long suffering mistress of the house, and, although this is not to come to pass in this world, his listeners were encouraged.

"The angels have never sinned, and you will never be an angel in this world or the next," said Mr. Post. "In heaven the angels will be our domestics. They will come to us and wait on us, glory be, and in that world we are to be the saints. If the angels could they would change places with me."

Mr. Post's picture of heaven made a profound impression and he succeeded in converting one woman.

K. OF C. CARNIVAL

BIG MEETING OF THE GENERAL COMMITTEE.

The Knights of Columbus apartments in the Associate building were crowded last evening at a meeting of the general committee, and several table committees connected with the coming carnival to be held in Huntington hall early in January. Season tickets were distributed last night, and a big sale is expected by reason of the fact that they are 50 cents for six admissions, and entitle the holder to a chance for prizes in gold.

At the meeting of the Ponto Santo table the committee was addressed by Ex-Councilman John J. Mullaney, who has just returned from the St. Louis exposition and who gave a highly interesting talk on his experiences at the Fair. While there Mr. Mullaney made a special note of the attractions and novelties that might be used on the Ponto Santo table and offered several valuable suggestions as to features.

POLITICAL NOTES.

One would think that the fountain in Hosford square had direct connection with John Nolan's establishment on Whipple street and dispensed the "rale auld Mountain Dew" free to all, there is so much talk going on as to who got it there. In a morning paper a few days ago it was reported that Councilman John Donohoe got it there, while in this morning's issue of the same paper Councilman Andrew McAloon declares that he got the fountain there and no one else and he wants the credit of it. But when it comes to arguing about this particular fountain The Sun a long time ago at the request of Police Officer John Frawley, who patrols the beat there, called the attention of the city council to the need of a drinking fountain in Hosford square and suggested that the ward councilmen take hold of the matter, which they did. Now the fountain is there and the voters of ward four will never go parched for the want of a good drink of cold water, and so what's the use of scrapping over it. The voters of ward five have reason to appreciate the work of both Councilmen McAloon and Donohoe for they have made good councilmen, so cut out your quarrel, have a drink together at the fountain, and work shoulder to shoulder for the success of the whole democratic ticket.

Mr. Terrance Cox, the well-known barber, is a candidate for overseer of the poor in ward nine.

The total number of names added to the list since registration began is 1363 by wards as follows: Ward one, 170; ward two, 146; ward three, 142; ward four, 220; ward five, 136; ward six, 148; ward seven, 159; ward eight, 162; ward nine, 133.

Congressman Ames has opened headquarters in the Swan building with Charles W. Fell in charge. "Charlie" will make a good man for the colonel for he has had experience and knows both the game and the players. The place, however, is rather suggestive of the dying swan.

HELD BLAMELESS

Finding in Favor of B. & M. Road

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—The full bench of the supreme court yesterday held that the defendant in the case of John Oberlind, 8 years old, vs. the Boston & Maine Railroad company, was not liable for injuries which the boy received by cracking with a rock and exploding a railroad torpedo signal, which he picked up on a railroad crossing at North Adams and took home, unconscious of the danger in so doing.

The evidence indicated that the torpedo happened to be on the grade crossing through the failure of a flagman, to whom it had been thrown by a brakeman, to pick up. The court holds the company not liable because, in throwing the torpedo back and forth and leaving it there, the brakeman and flagman were not acting within the scope of their employment, as there was nothing to indicate that it was the brakeman's duty to throw a torpedo to a flagman.

The mere fact that the torpedo was found on the railroad's planking is held not sufficient evidence of negligence on the part of the company or its employes, for whose negligence it would be liable, to have warranted the case being submitted to the jury. The defendant's exceptions are sustained, and plaintiff loses a verdict of $300.

Cornelius E. Fearns of Worcester keeps a verdict of $5500 recovered against the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad company, his employer, for personal injuries received by his colliding with a defective railroad gate, at East Cambridge, Oct. 13, 1901, the full bench having yesterday overruled the company's exceptions. The company claimed that the risk of such an accident was not that he assumed and that it was not liable. While ordinarily the railroad company is not liable to its employes injured by the proximity of fixed structures to its tracks, yet the court holds that this case is different, as it was the improper and defective condition of the gates that caused the man's injury, and that he did not assume the risk of injury from such a condition.

The verdict for the defendant in the personal injury suit of Charles E. Gibson, president of the Provident Trust company, vs. the International Trust company stands, the full bench having yesterday in a majority opinion overruled Gibson's exceptions. The court says the facts show that Gibson's injuries were due to accident which could not have been anticipated or foreseen. His injuries were received on April 28, 1896, by a passenger elevator of the defendant's building, where Gibson's company was a tenant, starting while he was leaving it. The elevator was started by the operator clutching the lever to save himself from falling, just as he found that a stool, which he used to sit on, had been removed.

The plaintiff got a substantial verdict at the first trial, which became inoperative by the supreme court subsequently sustaining exceptions taken by the defendant. The present decision is upon exceptions which Gibson took at the second trial.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK

Prophesy Made by Charles E. Adams

GENERAL PROSPERITY IS DUE IN 1905

Annual Meeting of the State Board of Trade

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—The annual meeting of the Massachusetts state board of trade was held at hotel Vendome yesterday, and in many respects it was one of the most important in the 11 years' history of the organization.

The reports of the president and secretary and the chairmen of the various standing committees covered a wide range of subjects of interest to the business world, from the general condition of trade to reciprocity and the textile strike at Fall River.

The meeting opened at 11 o'clock, Pres. Charles E. Adams of Lowell in the chair. After the roll call of delegates Pres. Adams read his annual address, in which he said:

"The year embraced in the period since our last meeting in October, 1903, has not witnessed the general business prosperity that was prophesied, although in many lines of our manufacturing and commercial interests the volume of business and financial returns have been satisfactory.

"Real estate transactions are usually a good indication of commercial prosperity, and it is gratifying to note an increase in prices from the low rates that have prevailed. Sound industrial and railroad securities have strengthened in public opinion, and the general impression of the solid investor is crystallizing into a firm belief that with the presidential election settled, the year 1905 will be one of the most prosperous the country has experienced for many years.

"I recommend that we continue to urge legislation providing for biennial elections in the interest of economy and general welfare of the state, as such change it is estimated would make a saving of nearly $1,000,000 to the citizens of the commonwealth.

"Congress will be petitioned for national legislation that will provide for presidential elections being held once in six or eight years instead of four years, and it is recommended that we cooperate with kindred organizations in advancing this desirable movement.

"The new business corporation laws in which this organization with other commercial bodies was so deeply interested in having enacted, went into effect Aug. 1, 1903, and the result since that time is very gratifying to those who were instrumental in securing the revision of our state corporation laws. Under the old statute, from Aug. 1, 1902, to Aug. 1, 1903, 257 corporations were organized with a capital of $11,594,460.

"Under the new statute, from Aug. 1, 1903, to Aug. 1, 1904, 1000 corporations were organized, with a capital of $66,623,610."

Sec. Richard L. Gray then presented his annual report.

The report of the committee on manufactures was next read, and in it were these statements:

"Notwithstanding great drawbacks the leather situation in Massachusetts is reported to have been fairly satisfactory in 1904, and the future is promising.

"Lynn leads with the largest number of shoe manufacturers, a total of 124 active firms. Other cities are reported in the following order: Haverhill, Rochester, Philadelphia, Brockton, Brooklyn, Cincinnati, New York and St. Louis.

"New England, according to a directory compiled in Boston has 50 percent of the total number of shoe manufacturers, while Massachusetts alone has 38 percent of this total.

"Remove the obstacles which so hinder the shoe and leather trade of Massachusetts, and neither employer, employe nor customer will have reasonable cause for fear of either competition or cost."

The report then dealt with the "depressed and unsatisfactory condition of the cotton market in Massachusetts and throughout the country," gave the causes thereof and stated possible remedies.

"What we need here in Massachusetts," continues the report, "is a more extended market for our surplus manufactures. Our manufacturing centers need a greater diversity of manufacturing industries, so that a depression in the cotton, leather, wool and iron markets will not leave labor without employment, capital without profit and communities without business.

"The outlook for Massachusetts and New England is encouraging and hopeful. Strikes and lockouts are becoming less frequent and less aggravating. Employer and employe are coming nearer together. Increasing prosperity in the south and west means greater effort, stimulation and success for New England.

"The prosperity of Massachusetts has been stimulated, but not threatened by the thrift and success of other deserving sections of our country."

Chairman John Hopewell, in his report of the committee on commerce, submitted these resolutions:

"Resolved, That the Massachusetts state board of trade, representing the commercial and industrial interests of the state, considers the consolidation of friendship between this country and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland a necessity for the prosperity of commercial intercourse between the two nations, and welcomes heartily the proposal to re-open negotiations for a permanent treaty of abrogation between them as promoting this object.

"Resolved, That such a treaty between the two great Anglo-Saxon peoples moreover would advance the cause of permanent peace throughout the civilized world.

"Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the U. S. senators and members of the house of representatives representing Massachusetts in Congress."

For the committee on finance and financial legislation, Chairman Isaac B. Tompkins, Jr., presented a brief report.

The report of the committee on transportation was presented by Chairman E. L. Sprague and that of the committee on postal laws was read by ex-Senator Gorham D. Gilman.

The annual reports of the treasurer and auditing committee were also presented President Charles E. Adams was unanimously re-elected president.

A report of the committee on transportation and legislation, acting jointly was presented by Chairman Edwin L. Sprague of the former and Chairman L. E. Chamberlain of the latter.

The report of the committee on legislation, presented by L. E. Chamberlain dealt with the subjects of biennial elections, the reorganization of the U. S consular service, antistock watering laws, a uniform system of public accounting, and the bill relative to the expenses of candidates for elective office.

The report of Treasurer W. R. Chester showed a balance on hand of about $500. The annual assessment was again fixed at $25.

Two new members, the Massachusetts state pharmaceutical association and the Dedham business association and board of trade, were elected.

The list of vice presidents is substantially the same as that of last year except that Walter C. Mentzer represents the Boston fruit and produce exchange, Hon. E. R. Hoar the Chelsea board of trade, Charles E. Adams the Lowell board of trade, Thomas W. Gardner the Lynn board of trade, H. M. Saunders the New England hardware association, James A. Halloran the Norwood business association, Frank L. Watson the Paint and Oil club of New England, and Charles A. Townsend the Rockland commercial club.

The delegates sat down to lunch at 1 o'clock, and there was informal speaking afterward.

FOOTBALL NEWS

The football season to date has been prolific in the inflicting of penalties and causes for penalties to be inflicted. Offside play, interference with the centre, holding, tripping, slugging, interference with a man making a fair catch, roughing, coaching from the side lines, all the offences the football player is heir to have been punished this season. Offside play and interference with a fair catch are offences easily pardonable, being due to zeal chiefly, but the other offences smack more of a lack of sportsmanship. The officials are having their hands full, not only watching for penalties, but in trying to adjust contentions. Last Saturday there were two disputed points—whether Princeton scored another touchdown against Annapolis and whether a touchdown was made in the Leland Stanford-California freshman game. The ethics of the game might be improved. The power given to the linesman of watching out for penalties has resulted in infractions of the rules being detected more than formerly, but officials with four eyes will be needed at the rate things are going. Harvard's offence of coaching from the side lines last Saturday was much more reprehensible than the "armor plate" incident. The matter of the aluminum plates in the Harvard khaki has, in so far as it violated the rules, due to accident rather than design—carelessness in arranging the plates. The idea seems to have been permissible enough if properly carried out. The rule covering the point says:

"No one having projecting nails or iron plates on his shoes or any projecting metallic or hard substance on his person shall be allowed to play in a match. If head protectors are worn, no sole leather, papier mache or other hard or unyielding material shall be used in their construction, and all other devices for protectors must be so arranged and padded as, in the judgment of the umpire, to be without danger to other players. Leather cleats upon the shoes shall be allowed as heretofore."

In the freshman game in California, Fenton, the Stanford quarter back, kicked the ball. California waited for it, to roll over her goal line, but the ball stopped a foot short of the line, and Fenton dived for it and nailed it. Then Stanford went over for a touchdown. The question raised was whether Stanford was entitled to the ball when it fell—a question of being on side. Section C of rule 9 says:

"The man who, standing back of his own line of scrimmage, receives the ball from one of his own side and then kicks it beyond the line of scrimmage may not put other men on side by running ahead of them, nor may he himself get the ball until after it has touched a player of the opposing side."

The case at Annapolis was rather complicated. Accounts say that Ritter, the Princeton quarter back, fumbled a pass, but recovered and handed the ball to Short, and when the heap was untangled back of the Annapolis goal line Ritter, as well as Short, had his hands on the ball. Under these circumstances it was not unreasonable for the official to infer that Ritter ran with the ball. The penalty for the second man running with the ball, unless five yards to the side, is a loss of fifteen yards. This was inflicted on the Tigers, and no touchdown was allowed. An official might readily believe that Ritter took the ball himself when he recovered the leather, since Ritter had his hands on the ball when the scrimmage was over. On the other hand, Short could have taken the ball over and Ritter, in helping him through, again placed his hands on the pigskin. It was the official's business to see just how the ball was carried over the line. Meagre accounts of the play make it difficult to tell whether evidence of the eyes or circumstantial evidence prompted the ruling made in the case. The moral is: Don't fumble.

Even the pulssant Michiganders have been scored on, the Ohio State University team doing the trick last Saturday. Marker, the Ohio right tackle, grabbed the ball on a fumble by Longman, the Michigan full back, and scooted sixty-five yards for a touchdown. The game was very fierce, and according to one report, "each team had a doctor on the field after every play." It was a sensational game. Irresistible rushing for long gains was done by Michigan, but on the other hand there were heroic bruces by Ohio, which held Michigan for downs, and often the Michigan backs were thrown for a loss. One Michigan player was ruled off for being too belligerent.

Rockwell, the Yale quarter back, and Burke, who holds down the same position for Princeton, are leading in the race for the hard luck stakes. Rockwell, a star of the first magnitude, when fit, has had hard luck in the matter of injuries of the last two years. He was unable to play in the Columbia game last year, because of injuries and later was knocked out in the Princeton game. Again this year his condition is uncertain. A Harvard coach last Saturday remarked of Rockwell: "I'd hate to see him disabled again. He is too gritty a player to have to stay out of it." Burke is even more unfortunate. He suffered a broken collarbone year before last, injuries handicapped him last year, and now he comes out of the Annapolis game on the cripple list.

ARCHBISHOP RYAN

ISSUES CORRECTION OF FATHER SCHELL'S STATEMENT.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—Archbishop Ryan of this city, yesterday took occasion to correct a published statement made by the Rev. Father Schell, in which Mother Katherine Drexel, foundress of the Order for the Indians and Colored People, is alleged to be misquoted. Father Schell, who was in charge of the Catholic mission at Winnebago reservation, Neb., but was recalled by the bishop of Omaha, preferred charges against Indian Commissioner Jones, in connection with the administration of that reservation. Archbishop Ryan, who is chief advisor of Mother Katherine, says Father Schell never represented her, but was sent to the reservation as chaplain by the bishop of Omaha, his salary being paid by Mother Katherine. He was not authorized to make any statement or investigations on her behalf. She is at present in Arizona, and has written to Commissioner Jones to this effect.

Congressman Morell, who is a brother-in-law of Mother Katherine Drexel, has forwarded a letter to the commissioner of Indian affairs, denying that Father Schell was authorized to represent Mother Drexel.

CHARGES MADE BY PRIEST.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 19.—Father Schell, who is the principal witness in an official investigation at the Winnebago Indian reservation, has charged that the Indian agents permitted merchants doing business with the Indians, to take advantage of the latter and in many cases forge the names of Indians to checks and appropriate the amount to their own use. Charges were also made by the priest that liquor was sold openly to the Indians, for which orders were taken on their allotment.

Father Schell has made the statement that he was pursuing the work of reform at the instance of Mother Drexel.

MINES SUSPENDED

VILLAGE OF HARWICK WILL BE DEPOPULATED.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 19.—The directors of the Allegheny Coal company have decided to suspend operations indefinitely at their Harwick mines next Saturday. This will almost depopulate a village of 1000 people and suspend business on the recently constructed spurs from the Pittsburg, Bessemer & Lake Erie railroad, and the West Pennsylvania division of the Pennsylvania system.

Harwick has never fully recovered from the terrible disaster of Jan. 25 of this year when 186 miners lost their lives by an explosion.

MAJOR DELMAR

Defeated Lou Dillon at Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 19.—C. K. G. Billings' Lou Dillon, the champion trotting mare, went down to defeat yesterday before Major Delmar, owned by E. E. Smathers, in the third and last contest for the Memphis gold cup, the feature race of the opening day of the fourth annual meeting of the Memphis trotting association.

After sustaining a terrific pace to the three-quarters pole in the first heat of the contest, it was apparent that the mare was in bad condition and she was pulled up, Major Delmar winning in a jog. Despite a critical examination by veterinary surgeons, who pronounced the mare affected by an ailment known to horsemen as the "thumps," Lou Dillon was again brought on the track by Mr. Billings, against the advice of the veterinary surgeons. He announced that as a matter of form he would start the mare in the second heat.

Major Delmar rounded the course in easy time. Lou Dillon following at a slow trot. Mr. Smathers, representing the New York Driving club, becomes the permanent owner of the cup.

The diamond handicap was won in straight heats in easy fashion by Sweet Marie.

The 2.01 pace furnished the most spirited contest of the day. Dan R., Gallagher and John M., each winning a heat. In the final trial John M. won pulled up. The track was in superb condition and ideal weather prevailed. Summaries:

TOOK POISON

BECAUSE SHE SAW LOVER WITH ANOTHER GIRL.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—Miss Lillian Higgins, 19 years old, of 11 Mt. Auburn street, Cambridge, attempted suicide at 12.30 this morning at the corner of Court and Bulfinch streets by swallowing three poisonous tablets.

As near as could be found by the police she had a quarrel with her lover, whom she saw walking with another woman.

After upbraiding him she went into a drug store and purchased the poison, which she took on the sidewalk. She then returned to the drug store and told what she had done.

The clerk administered antidotes and telephoned for the ambulance to the city hospital relief station. The young woman was taken there, and a stomach pump relieved her of the poison.

She said she was sorry for what she had done, and would not repeat the attempt on her life.

DISASTROUS BLAZE

BROKE OUT IN THE CHARLESTOWN DISTRICT.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—The trunk manufactory of Cutter & Cutter on Roland street, Charlestown district, was considerably damaged by fire this morning. The structure is a four-story wooden building and owing to its proximity to other buildings a serious conflagration was at first feared, but two alarms brought sufficient apparatus to confine the fire to the trunk factory. The loss is estimated at $10,000.

A FINE READING

By Wm. F. Thornton Before M. T. I.

The regular meeting last evening of the Mathew Temperance Institute was largely attended, the members evidencing much interest in the plans of the society for the winter work, now that the parade question has been disposed of satisfactorily. President Geo. L. Hunt presided and four propositions for membership were read and five new members were enrolled into the fold.

The report of the literary committee showed that during the coming season the members will be furnished with some rare treats in the way of literary entertainments. Chairman McKenna of the committee in outlining its plans, dwelt most eloquently on the importance of such entertainments and the great good that accrues from participation in such. Two weeks hence the committee proposes to have literary exercises following the meeting, of a very high order. After the meeting, in connection with the literary exercises, ex-President William F. Thornton was introduced and gave a reading of the trial scene in E. Bulwer-Lytton's novel, "Paul Clifford," which brought forth vociferous applause. The reading occupied 45 minutes and Mr. Thornton was at his best, holding at all times the undivided attention of the audience. He was tendered a rising vote of thanks at the conclusion of his work.

The singing club will hold another of its rehearsals tomorrow evening, and from present indications many more new members will be enrolled in the club. The plans of the club are on an extensive scale and Director Murphy has the utmost confidence in the club, that it will accomplish much in its second and what promises to be its banner season.

The game of whist which held its popularity all during the summer months naturally takes on new life these cool evenings and many members have become adepts at the popular game.

Ladies' night will be observed on Friday evening at the rooms and an excellent time is assured all who attend.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

District Deputy Grand Regent John T. Deegan and staff of Boston will pay an official visit to Industry Council, Royal Arcanum, this evening.

On Thursday night Kearsarge encampment of Lawrence will be the guests of the three encampments of Odd Fellows of this city, Lowell, Wannalancit and Monomake. In four special cars the visitors will come to this city, proceeding to Odd Fellows' temple, where a banquet will be tendered them. Prominent Odd Fellows from Lowell and Lawrence will speak, and there will be a musical and literary program of strength. The affair will be of the red letter order.

Court Samuel de Champlain, 49, F. of A., is preparing for a large class initiation, and to that effect a degree staff has been elected to officiate at the initiation ceremonies. The staff is now practising for the initiation, the date of which has not yet been fixed.

The officers of the staff are Joseph Boudreau, chief; F. L. Rivet, past chief; W. Sabourin, sub chief; Eugene Audette, senior woodward; Paul Morin, junior woodward; Napoleon Rivet, sentinel; J. A. Robillard, lecturer; J. S. Lippe, guard captain; Ernest Morin, Ovila Foucher, Patrick Lacours and George Paquin, soldiers.

The court held its regular assembly last evening, with a large attendance of members. Chief Ranger Joseph Boudreau presided. Routine business was transacted, and there were two applications and one initiation.

TO REVIVE DEAD

Man Tried to Revive Dead Girl

HE TOOK BODY FROM THE GRAVE

And Kept It Hidden in an Attic

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 19.—Sunday last persons who visited the cemetery in Millinocket discovered that one of the graves there, wherein a little 12-year-old girl had been buried a year ago, had been opened and the body removed. The upturned sod, the remains of the broken casket, and a spade lying near, told the story. Deputy Sheriff Gates began an investigation.

The spade bore peculiar marks and this fact together with the knowledge that the dead child had been a favorite of John Bradley, a man known to be afflicted with a species of religious insanity, directed attention to the house of Bradley located in that part of Millinocket known as "Little Italy". Accompanied by Trial Justice Stearns, Deputy Gates visited Bradley's house, and after brief questioning both were convinced that he had robbed the grave. A search of the house was determined upon, but this Bradley refused to permit without a warrant.

Justice Stearns started for his office to make out the warrant, but Bradley called him back, saying that the body was in the attic of the house, wrapped in a sheet. There the body was found and at once buried again. Bradley was arrested on Monday and held for the grand jury on the charge of grave robbing. He was brought to Bangor yesterday by Deputy Gates and was locked up to await trial or inquiry into his mental condition.

Bradley talked freely to a reporter, and declared that he had taken the body from the grave at the command of God, believing that he could restore to life the child he had loved so well. He says that he realizes what he has done, and expects to pay the penalty, "but," he added, "I could have brought her to life, and would have done so had they left me alone."

Bradley is 45 years old, a native of Ohio, but long a resident of Maine. He went to Millinocket several years ago from West Scbois and obtained employment at the mill of the Great Northern Paper company as a laborer. The parents of the dead child had lived in Millinocket about four years and the child died on Oct. 13, 1903. She had been a pet of Bradley's, frequently visiting at his house, and when she died the man, who lived alone, was almost prostrated with grief.

Sorrowing over the death of his pet and believing that he could bring her back to life, he went on Thursday last, the anniversary of her death, to the cemetery where she had been buried and opened the grave. On that night he opened the casket but did not remove the body. On the second night he again visited the grave, but again allowed the body to remain undisturbed. On the third night, Saturday, however, he wrapped the body in a sheet and conveyed it to his home unobserved.

Of his movements and his purpose Bradley says:

"I am able to communicate with the Lord through the stove in my room. Everybody in heaven talks in numbers. Persons are known by numbers running from 1 to 666, and animals by numbers running from 666 to 1300.

"I was sitting in my room a few days ago when my number appeared on the stove and a voice told me to find number 16, my little girl friend who died a year ago. I never questioned the command, but took a spade and going to her grave dug until I came to the casket.

"I had not the courage to move the body that night, nor the next, but on the third night I took the body in my arms, and leaving the grave open and the casket there, I carried her to my home. If the officers had not discovered that the grave had been opened I should certainly have brought her to life. It was a divine command and divine power has been given to me to perform such miracles. I have no trouble in communicating with the Lord so long as I keep my soul clean."

Bradley says he is a Spiritualist, and he is very fond of religious discussions. On all other subjects he seems perfectly rational.

The child was that of Frank Gillis of Howland, 40 miles from Millinocket, who moved from the latter place shortly after the child was buried a year ago.

HAD BAD MONEY

ITALIAN SAID TO HAVE GIVEN $100 FOR $24.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—An Italian who described himself as Patsy Krapo, 20 years old, of 661 Main street, Waltham, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of stealing $24 from Gust Johnson, a Finn, of 21 Central avenue, Gloucester, by means of an old trick.

According to the police, Krapo went up to Johnson, in front of the North station and showed him a $100 confederate bill, which he told him was good money. Krapo is said to have also told Johnson that he wanted some change, and that he would let him have the $100 bill for much less than its face value. Johnson had only $24, and Krapo agreed to take that for his bill, and the exchange was made.

Almost immediately afterward Johnson tried to pass the bill, which, of course, he could not do, and he followed Krapo until he met a policeman, who arrested him.

There appears to be a gang of confederate bill swindlers hanging around the north union station, for only last Thursday Ludwig Kopp of Manchester, N. H., was swindled out of $100 there by a man who presented a $100 confederate bill, and asked Kopp to change it for him. The accommodating man from Manchester gave the swindler five $20 bills, and didn't discover that the bill was bad until he tried to make a purchase with it.

The man who swindled Kopp was described at 36 years old, while Krapo is only 20. Owing to the similarity of their schemes, however, the police are inclined to think the two men may have been working the bad money plan together.

WOUND ON KNEE

RESULT OF AUTOPSY ON BODY OF HALL.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—It now appears that the autopsy performed on the body of Larkin Wyman Hall, who was killed in his room at 2 St. Botolph street, Saturday night, tends to support in one respect the story told by Fred Watson, one of the accused, immediately after he was taken into custody.

The young man asserted that Hall came toward him with a Japanese sword in his hand and in making a swing with it, struck himself on the left leg. He further said that Hall made an effort to strike him, with the result that he hit Hall's arm, causing the point of the sword to penetrate his lung.

Dr. Draper says in his report that on the outer side of the left knee was a superficial wound two inches long, not deep enough to penetrate the skin.

This information in the report of the medical examiner came as a surprise, since it had been stated that there was no mark on the leg, thus discrediting the story of Watson.

LONE HONEYMOON

THIS BRIDEGROOM IS HAVING A GREAT TIME.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19—An automobile dashed up in front of the Victory hotel, and a man alighting, entered and spread "Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Forest," all over the hotel register.

"Wife waiting in the ladies' parlor, I suppose?" queried the clerk.

"No, I'm alone," answered the man. "On my honeymoon. She couldn't come, and we are playing just like she was here."

The clerk gave him a suite on the parlor floor. Two bell boys picked up his belongings, and the three were gone.

It didn't take more than a minute to reach the room. Evidently the bridegroom believed in distributing his money for there was a dollar in the pocket of each of the bell boys when he left.

Two minutes later a waiter from the buffet was summoned.

"Might open a small bottle," suggested the lone bridegroom.

The waiter bowed, disappeared and returned a few minutes later.

"Send the best machine around to the entrance," requested Mr. Forest. "I want to look at the town."

He returned at noon. The ride had cost him $20. He was in a gracious mood in the afternoon and he explained:

"I used to be a professional escort. My business was to look after the comfort of ladies at so much an hour. One of my clients—that's what we call them in San Francisco—took a fancy to me. It was returned, I assure you.

"Well, the upshot of it was that we were married. Now, she had traveled much, while I had never been outside of San Francisco. She suggested that we travel to New York on our honeymoon. She became indisposed shortly afterward, and did not feel equal to traveling. I wanted to postpone the honeymoon. It didn't make any difference whether I started one day or one year after the ceremony, but my wife insisted. I just simply had to give up, and here I am. Waiter?"

"Coming, coming."

"We planned it very carefully. I am to do just as we would if she were here. When I register it is for both. When I go sightseeing, I'm to remember what I see, that I may describe it to her. I'm not to be lonely. I'm to enjoy myself and have a good time. Rather odd honeymoon, don't you think? Waiter, waiter."

GROVER CLEVELAND

HAS SOMETHING TO SAY ABOUT LITTAUER'S CANDIDACY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—A letter from Grover Cleveland indorsing the fight that is being made by the independent republicans to defeat Lucius N. Littauer for congress because of his connection with the U. S. army glove contracts, was made public yesterday. The letter was written to Mr. Joseph D. Bauchs of 49 Wall street, who made it public. Mr. Cleveland wrote:

"I am pleased to learn that your cousin, Mr. Kellogg, is making a strong and determined fight for clean politics in the 25th New York congressional district.

"I sincerely trust that the good people of that district will realize the seriousness of the issue and express at the polls their stern condemnation of a representative, who, when faced with a public charge reflecting upon his honesty and fitness to longer represent the district in congress, takes refuge in the fact that prosecution for the offense, if any was committed, has been barred by the statute of limitations.

"The statute of limitations never runs against political dishonesty or the betrayal of a public trust when the offender, to secure a vindication, offers himself for the suffrages of the people.

"You may extend to your cousin, Mr. Kellogg, for me, my hearty approval and best wishes in the splendid and gallant fight he is making, against heavy odds in behalf of honest government and purity in public life.

WARNING

KEPT FROM SCHOOL

Stories Told by Fathers—Men of Prominence—Both Children Now Well and Strong.

William A. Power, first officer of the S. S. "Halifax" Plant line, is as widely known and as popular as any mariner sailing out of the port of Boston. He says: "My little daughter Mary E., four years old, was completely run down; and had no appetite and could not eat over two mouthfuls of food when she came to the table. Advertised medicines did her no earthly good. We finally gave her Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force and it soon restored her appetite and made her well and strong in a few weeks. It built her right up, and we do not intend to be without it in the house."

(Signed) William A. Power, 152 H Street, South Boston, Mass.

Mr. Frank Foote, a highly respected resident of Haverhill, Mass., adds another testimonial to the curative qualities of Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force. He says: "My little daughter was in a very nervous condition for a long time, and we were obliged to keep her from school. At times, it did seem as if she would go all to pieces, and although we paid out money for doctor's bills and tried many of the so-called nerve-medicines, Dr. Bartlett's Vital Force cured her in a very short time of her nervous troubles. It gives me great pleasure to certify to the excellent curative qualities of Vital Force, and now that we know what an excellent medicine it is, and what it has done for our little girl, we shall always keep it in the house.

"Sincerely yours,

"FRANK FOOTE,

Not living in the city is our only reason for placing this valuable parcel of property in the hands of the auctioneer to be disposed of at public auction, at the premises, on the day advertised, regardless of the weather, for the highest bid. The property has always proved a grand paying investment to us, and we regret very much to part with it, but the fact of our being non-residents of the city, causes its public disposal at the above stated time. It is free and clear, which is certainly good proof that it was always well rented, and I believe that never was a tenement idle more than a week at a time, when we were so situated as to give it the proper attention. The property consists of two 4-tenement houses, six rooms to each tenement, they rent for $9.00 a month or about $865 a year, they have slated roofs, and are in very good condition inside and out. Some of the present tenants have lived there for a long time and would be glad to remain. The lot has a frontage of about 45 feet on Salem street and about 46 feet on Decatur avenue; there is plenty of yard room; a driveway on the Salem street side, also a passageway to Decatur avenue in the rear. The property is situated on the northerly side of Salem street and adjoining the Barrett property. This is an excellent location for renting. It being but a short distance from the many industries in that part of the city. The man who is looking for large returns on his investment should give this sale his attention, for someone will certainly get a bargain on that day.

TERMS: $650 will be required as a deposit, to be paid to the auctioneer, as soon as the property is struck off; other terms at sale.
